GREEN TO STUDY PAVING DEALS OF GOV. STELLE

Hints He Will Not Be Bound by Old Pacts.

BY HAL FOUST.

Governor Elect Dwight Green said yesterday he will scrutinize highway contracts to be inherited by his administration in January. He indicated that taxpayers will not be bound by any deals perpetrated by the 100 day administration of Gov. John Stelle.

Dwight Green.

Green was interviewed after disclosures during the day renewed unfavorable comment on the Illinois highway department. The disclosures pointed toward a revival of the asphalt paving ring in Cook county that was linked to the late Mike Carrozzo, gangster labor leader.

O. K. Higher Cost Contract.

It was learned that the Illinois highway department next Friday will open bids on contracts for $500,000 worth of asphalt surfacing on three state pavements in Cook county. It was learned also that on Nov. 12 the state highway department approved Cook county's paving of Pulaski road with asphalt costing $168,000 more than the price of concrete slab.

"Of course," the governor elect said, "no contract with the state is binding unless it is legal, and to be legal it must be clean of fraud. I don't know now as much as I hope to know soon about the highway department jobs, but simply because a contract has been signed before my inauguration does not necessarily mean that the contract will be executed during my administration.

"All contracts will be reviewed before I accept the obligation. I'll have nothing more to say in this regard until I am in office."

Paving Project Attacked.

The Cook county highway department's proposal to repave Pulaski road from Belmont avenue to Cermak road at a cost of $909,915 was attacked before the county board last month by Commissioner William Busse. After citing comparable jobs to show that a concrete slab rather than an asphalt surface on a concrete base in Pulaski would save the road funds $168,000, Busse made the following charge:

"I believe these contracts are paying some one off for campaign contributions. The late Mike Carrozzo organized the asphalt industry for political donations and he used to collect on contracts. The asphalt people have been quiet since his death, but now it appears they are having their innings again."

The county could not award its work without state approval because the money was gasoline tax revenue. The signature of Ernst Lieberman was needed. Lieberman, chief of the state highway department during the legislature's charges of corruption, was retained in this post by Gov. Stelle. He signed the Cook county contracts.

Other Jobs Affected.

The state's asphalt jobs, on which bids will be opened Friday, are for 8.81 miles of resurfacing on River road between Oakton street in Des Plaines and Augusta street in Maywood; 1.49 miles of resurfacing on Central avenue from North avenue to Lake street; and 4.94 miles of resurfacing on the Lincoln highway between the Will-Cook county line and Chicago Heights.

Some significance was seen in the fact that these contracts are to be awarded as Gov. Stelle is leaving office altho the work cannot be done until next spring. The pavements, while old, are in about the same condition they have been in for several years.

At the same letting, the state will open bids on 4.05 miles of asphalt surfacing on state aid route 28 west of Kankakee. A number of downstate concrete jobs are also in the letting, including a mile of widening of U. S. 66 south of Springfield.

Mails Vote from Alaska, Breaks Tie in Election

Port Townsend, Wash., Nov. 22 (AP).—An absentee ballot, cast by W. T. Martin, barber at Kodiak, Alaska, arrived today and broke a 1,651 vote tie to give a Jefferson county commissionership to Arthur C. Boren, Democrat, over Robert Cook, Republican.

How Duchess Is Furnishing Her New Home

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—Detailed information concerning the duchess of Windsor's new furniture and household accessories for Government House, Nassau, was learned today as they were en route to the Bahamas aboard the S. S. Munargo.

The curiosity provoking cargo left Hoboken last Wednesday and is scheduled to arrive in the Bahamas tomorrow. At the time of the departure nothing was said about what the numerous crates contained, but an account later was obtained from reliable sources.

The new furnishings have been designed to conform to the somewhat tropical character of the islands. They are intended to impart a cool, light atmosphere to the hitherto heavy character of the dwelling's interior.

A Glazed Wood Chest.

One item will be a surprise for the duchess. It is a product resulting from an idea of the duke's—a chest of drawers for his wife's bedroom in powder blue glazed wood, with her initials, "W. W.," applied in wood in a deeper blue, carved to look like rope.

Above the chest will hang a mirror with frame of the same "rope" tied in a lover's knot at the top.

In all of the duchess' private rooms,—bedroom, lounge, dressing room, and bath—her favorite color, now known as duchess blue, is used. Her bed has a headboard which rolls back like an ocean swell. It is covered with a white, blue and silver quilted chintz in a "palm tree" pattern.

Linen Brought from France.

The duchess now has all her own household linen—somehow gotten out of France a few months ago at the same time Windsor's chef managed to get to the Bahamas.

The duke's private quarters, a combination bedroom and living room, will be enlivened with bamboo furniture upholstered in light brick red.

More formal are the rooms which the average caller will see. The entrance hall will be done in directoire style, with sofas and chairs covered in rose beige and chartreuse brocades. Gray and chartreuse will prevail in the library where French furniture will have a background of gray woodwork and carpet.

Rose and Gold Tables.

Two console tables, especially designed by Mrs. Bradley's Georgian shop in New York, have bases of bleached wood carved in the traditional Prince of Wales feathers design, and painted in light rose and gold with tops of Siena marble. They will be placed against the walls of the drawing room, done in rose-beige, light yellow, and cream.

The heavy old mahogany dining room furniture has been retained. This room, however, has been improved with yellow damask cushions and hangings and a coat of "Adam Green" paint.

33D DIVISION'S CAMP IN TENNESSEE MAY BE NAMED FORT FORREST

The war department has asked the state of Tennessee to submit suggestions for a new name for Camp Peay, near Tullahoma, Tenn., where the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, will encamp for a year's training after Jan. 1.

Brig. Gen. T. A. Fraser, adjutant general of Tennessee, said in a telephone interview last night that he would recommend to Gov. Prentice Cooper the name Fort Forrest, or Camp Forrest, in honor of the confederate cavalry commander, Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, who was famous for his strategy: "To get thar fustest with the mostest men." He operated thruout that part of Tennessee in which Camp Peay is located. Nearby Bedford county perpetuates his middle name.

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the 33d division, said he thought Gen. Fraser's proposal very suitable, adding, "The 33d division would be proud to serve in a camp named for a leader of Gen. Forrest's dash and color."

Camp Peay, which previously was a Tennessee National Guard camp, was named for Austin Peay, Tennessee governor in 1924-'28.

BRITISH RESTRICT LEGACY PAYMENT TO U. S. CITIZENS

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP).—American or other nonresident beneficiaries of British cash legacies may receive payment only on condition that it is made to a "blocked"—or government controled—account, the treasury has decreed.

The order also affects nonresidents' receipt of money due from investments and real estate sales. Exempted are 3 per cent defense bonds and national savings certificates, the holders of which are free to exchange them for foreign currency.

The new law, which has the effect of restricting sterling speculation, also called upon persons and companies outside of the sterling area, but under control of the United Kingdom, to report all "gold, American, and other specified foreign currencies, or American and other specified securities" they may possess.

This information is to be given "with a view of their being offered to the treasury for sale."

Out of 23,000 Homes, Bombs Damage 14,000

BY GUY MURCHIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 22.—During a ministry of information tour of the bombed areas of east London today, the mayor of the borough of Poplar told American correspondents that 14,000 of the 23,000 houses in the borough had been damaged by bombs.

The population of the borough before the war was 135,000. Now it is estimated at 75,000. Of that number, 40,000 were counted in all the air raid shelters in one night, about 10,000 of these in public shelters and the rest in Anderson private shelters.

Favor Private Shelters.

Authorities are trying hard to improve private shelters rather than build better public shelters, because it is considered important to keep the people scattered. This policy will help to prevent epidemics, they say, and also decrease the chances of large numbers being killed by a single bomb.

The work of providing for persons made homeless by bomb damage in this region was shown in visits to rest, feeding, and clothing supply centers. A former school building now converted into a rest and feeding center, which we visited, is equipped for 150 persons. It originally was thought that uninjured bomb victims who came there could be moved to permanent billets elsewhere within two or three days, but the scarcity of available homes and the reluctance of the remaining population to evacuate resulted in an average stay of about three weeks.

Even Get Entertainment.

During that time inmates are fed, housed, and generally provided for, even as to entertainment. A resident nurse treats minor injuries and cases of mild shock. Before bedtime every one is encouraged to gargle a disinfectant and thus reduce the threat of infectious diseases. Sandwich lunches are given the working men who must eat out and hot suppers are provided for all.

Samples of the literature provided bomb victims are thrillers entitled "All Passions Spent," "Stealthy Terror," "Vile Bodies," and "The Dying Alderman." Free tickets to public baths are provided, permitting the ambitious inmates to walk half a mile to get a splash bath in a shallow tub.

The greatest need in clothes is said to be in men's underwear. Many union suits sent from America have perplexed the Britishers, who are not used to combination underwear. Some cut the union suits in two to satisfy their sense of tradition.

TROOPS GUARD DARDANELLES; CABINET MEETS

Believe Papen Bears Nazi Ultimatum.

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 22 (AP).—The Turkish government proclaimed martial law tonight in virtually all sections of European Turkey, including Istanbul, "in view of the general political situation."

Sections of Asiatic Turkey, bordering on the vital Dardanelles-gateway between the Black sea and the Mediterranean—also were included in the pronouncement.

The order became effective immediately for a one month period.

Von Papen Back in Turkey.

This step was taken shortly after Franz von Papen, the German ambassador, returned from Germany, presumably carrying a virtual ultimatum that Turkey join the "new European order" as proposed by the axis. Some observers believed Von Papen might have brought a proposal that pro-British Turkey pledge herself to stand aside if Bulgarian and German troops move to attack Greece in aid of Italy.

Newspaper men at Istanbul put one question to the ambassador—would "normal relations" between Germany and Turkey continue?

"I have no declaration of any kind to make," he replied.

Terse Announcement.

A terse announcement by the Turkish government said:

"The prime ministry and council of ministers, as a result of its deliberation Nov. 8, have deemed it necessary to proclaim martial law from the day of this announcement for one month in the districts of Istanbul, Kirklareli, Edirne [Adrianople], Tekirdaj, Channakkale, and Kojaeli [Koja Ili].

"Corps General Ali Riza Artuokalin, commander of gendarmerie, is appointed to take charge in these districts. This step is taken under the authority granted in section 86 of the Turkish constitution."

New Gasoline Ration.

The proclamation followed a three hour meeting of the council of ministers which also was reported to have approved a bill so strictly rationing gasoline that it prohibits use of private automobiles or power boats.

Physicians, embassies, and legations were exempted from the gas rationing. Food rationing possibilities also were reported under consideration.

There were unofficial reports that the government already was studying the problem of possible removal of civilians from Istanbul, Turkey's largest city and the most vulnerable to air attacks.

Report Russia Warns Bulgaria.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 22 (AP).—Soviet Russia has advised her little Slav friend, Bulgaria, to steer clear of outright membership in the expanding axis alliance, a qualified source said today.

Nevertheless, despite underground tension in the country, most observers are convinced that Bulgaria eventually will go 100 per cent for the axis.

Bulgarian leftists — lumping together communists, liberals, democrats, and agrarians—who represent a large section of Bulgarian public opinion, are arguing that so long as Russia herself is not an outright party to the axis military alliance Bulgaria should stop short of joining.

But altho King Boris risks internal opposition to a pro-axis military policy, diplomatic circles say, Bulgaria is not strong enough, even with Russian backing, to resist other demands Adolf Hitler is believed to have made to the king, who recently visited Berlin.

ADMIRAL LEAHY MAY BE NAMED ENVOY TO VICHY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—Rear Admiral William D. Leahy, retired, governor of Puerto Rico and former chief of naval operations, has been selected as ambassador to France, authoritative circles revealed today. Word of his acceptability to the Vichy government is expected momentarily, it was disclosed.

Admiral Leahy will succeed William C. Bullitt, who has submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt.

Admiral Leahy is 65 years old and a native of Iowa. He was graduated from Annapolis in 1897. During his career he served in the Spanish war and the Philippine insurrection and was on the China station during the Boxer uprising. In 1912 he was chief of staff of the Nicaraguan occupation, and in 1916 held the same position in the Haitian campaign.

SENATOR URGES QUIZ ON BRITISH PROPAGANDISTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—With battle lines forming for a renewed congressional fight over proposals to give greater help to England, Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] today called for a thoro investigation of British propaganda in this country.

Senator Holt.

Holt charged that propagandists are softening public opinion so that the United States can be led step by step closer to war. Discussion among members of congress made it appear probable that the coming session of congress will be confronted with proposals that American ships be permitted to carry cargoes into the war zone and that the Johnson act be repealed. This act prohibits American loans to countries that have not paid their world war debts to the United States.

The West Virginia senator declared that the Dies committee on un-American activities, which lately has been centering its investigation upon Nazi and Fascist propaganda in the United States, should make the investigation of British propaganda.

Names White Committee.

"The committee," he said in a formal statement, "should start by checking the record of the William Allen White committee, which is financed by war profiteers and by men with foreign connections."

Holt charged that congress is afraid to investigate the White group, officially named the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, because it has "official backing."

"It is a deliberately planned committee to involve this country in war," he declared. "Its dishonest and disreputable conduct has been to stir up hatred and viciousness to get the people of this country ready for the final step.

Every Step Save One.

"Every step to war has been taken now except the actual sending of American boys, and the committee is waiting for public opinion to soften on that issue. It is composed of men who are making blood money out of war equipment and who have foreign connections. It is the most despicable of all foreign groups in America because its purpose is the taking of America into the war.

"Congress is afraid to investigate this committee because it has official backing. It will not be investigated because it has behind it very high officials who can exert too much pressure on congress. It will not be investigated because it has influence over the owners of the radio. It will not be investigated because of the power of the bankers who are financing it. But history will show that the blood of American boys will be on the men who are its sponsors."

Mail Campaign Reported.

An indication of the approaching congressional battle was seen in the reports of several senators that as an aftermath of the election—in which both parties urged all possible material help to Great Britain—they were receiving large quantities of mail urging action to promote the assistance program.

In addition, various organizations which have been in the forefront of the move to help England are busily urging that election pledges be implemented with congressional action.

TWO BILLIONS IN ORDERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—The British purchasing commission in the United States, it was disclosed today, has contracted for the purchase of approximately two billion dollars worth of war materials since the European war began in September, 1939.

Approximately one billion, 179 million dollars worth of fighting weapons, including aircraft, explosives, firearms, and metals essential to war, have been shipped to Great Britain, it was estimated.

The British commission has paid in

GREEKS PURSUE ITALIANS AFTER TAKING KORITZA

Athens Crowds Cry, 'On to Rome.'

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 22 (AP).—Greek troops, in pursuit of thousands of fleeing Italian soldiers, swung triumphantly into Koritza, big Fascist military base in Albania, today while celebrating civilians in Athens shouted, "On to Rome!"

Twenty-five days after Italy started her invasion of Greece from Albania, government spokesmen said Greek troops had pushed every Italian soldier out of Greece, had captured thousands of prisoners, including many officers and great quantities of guns and munitions.

Report 72,000 Men Retreat.

At least 72,000 Italian troops have been forced out of the Koritza area, 10 miles inside Albania, a government spokesman said.

[Italian sources said only two divisions, or about 24,000 men, were withdrawing. Italy's armies are expected to make another stand on a line from Lake Malik to Moskopolis, about 10 miles to the southwest. Moskopolis is about 18 miles west of Koritza. By holding that line the Italians would bar a further advance along the road into Albania.]

Other Greek troops were said to be threatening the second main Italian base, Argyrokastron, 8 miles within Albania and about 50 miles southwest of Koritza. Argyrokastron is only 30 miles from Porto Edda, port on the Strait of Otranto, opposite the "heel" of the Italian boot, where Italian troops and supplies have been moving into Albania.

The ministry of home security said the retreating Italians had laid waste and plundered Greek villages. It claimed Greek women were mistreated and many taken as hostages.

Claims Town Set Afire.

"The town of Sayades was set afire," the ministry's communique said. "Italians left behind unprecedented signs of savagery and barbarity."

Captured Italian equipment included 80 small and heavy guns, 35 antiaircraft guns, 20 tanks, more than 1,500 motorcycles and bicycles, 250 automobiles, and munitions, fuel and clothing, the Greek high command said.

Greek and British warplanes were reported bombing the fleeing lines of Italians. There also were reports that the Italians were harassed by gunfire from Greek mountain emplacements.

[A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Athens said that Italian troops in flight from Koritza were being pursued by their own tanks, now manned by Greeks. The Greeks were said to have captured the tanks from reënforcements rushed to Koritza from Pogradetz, another Italian base, before the Italians fell back. The British Broadcasting company announced that according to a Belgrade dispatch Pogradetz also had fallen.]

Victory for Mountain Troops.

The capture of Koritza was a brilliant victory for the Greek light infantry and mountain artillery, which remorselessly encircled the crags around the city, dislodging the defenders with bayonets, and finally cut Koritza off from relief by bringing the roads outside it under fire.

The time of the Greeks' entrance into Koritza was somewhat confused. One report had it that they entered in the morning, another that it was early afternoon. Perhaps the confusion arose from differing hours of movement of the advance guard and the main body of troops.

The best account of the occupation follows:

Early today Greek batteries installed on the high summits of the Morava mountain range turned a storm of fire on the last Italian positions in the area. This fire neutralized the Italian resistance and Fascist troops fled, leaving valuable war material.

Meet the Conquerors.

Greek forces chased their foe systematically while other stronger forces began entering Koritza. The first of the Greeks went in at 12:45 p. m.

The population poured out along the approaches to the town to meet the conquerors. Old men, women, and children threw flowers at them, crying and kneeling before the advancing troops.

Greek flags hidden for many years were hoisted everywhere in the town. So great was the enthusiasm of the welcome [according to this account] apparently from Greek sources] that Greek soldiers forgot the hardships of the 11 day siege.

Greek newspapers called Koritza "a liberated Greek town."

In Athens flags flew from every building. Happy crowds ran thru the streets. A throng in front of the army headquarters building roared an ovation for Premier General John Metaxas when he appeared on the steps to announce the news.

Thousands of persons—soldiers and civilians—paraded, singing patriotic songs and shouting. British soldiers were carried thru the streets on the shoulders of the enthusiastic Greeks.

[This is one of the rare references there have been to the presence of British soldiers in the Greek fighting line. Officially Britain has disclosed no more aid to the Greeks than support for their small air force.]

The first news of Koritza's fall was received while the cabinet was in session here. The cabinet ministers, deeply moved, congratulated Metaxas, who communicated at once with Gen. Pitsicas, commanding officer at the front.

Pitsicas had sent this message:

"Koritza is in the hands of Greek troops."

Order Bells Pealed.

The ministry of home security issued the following order:

"As a result of the great victory of Greek arms all along the Albanian frontier we have the pleasure of announcing that Greeks entered and occupied Koritza.

"We celebrate the great victory and order general display of flags for three days. Church bells will peal today for a half hour."

It was disclosed in Athens that gendarmes were en route to Koritza to take charge and that a special Greek postage stamp bearing the word "Koritza" would be put into circulation.

Hear Albanians Fight Italians.

BITOLJ, Jugo-Slavia, Nov. 22 (AP).—Spreading guerrilla warfare against the Italian army by bands of Albanian mountaineers was reported today in private advices reaching the Jugo-Slav border.

Leaflets bearing the name of King Zog, Albanian ruler whom the Italians ousted last year, calling on his countrymen to revolt were said to have been dropped by British planes and to have brought new recruits to the rebels.

The fall of Koritza to the Greeks today was reported to have encouraged the guerrillas to greater activity.

These attacks however, had not taken on the character of a general uprising, the reports emphasized. The rebels were said to be coöperating with Greek irregulars who slipped into Albania in advance of the Greek army.

Italian Planes Pound Koritza.

The Italians themselves sent over waves of planes to pound Koritza in an effort to slow up the Greek ground forces smashing at the heels of the Fascists. These attacks started a few hours after the Greeks marched into the town.

One low flying British squadron, blasting an Italian column headed toward Elbasan in central Albania was reported to have been caught in Italian antiaircraft fire with one of the craft downed and another disabled. The latter was said to have landed behind Greek lines, plumes of smoke trailing from its motors.

Meanwhile, northeast of Koritza the Greeks were reported advancing thru the mountain ranges below Lake Presba in a drive toward the town of Progadetz, on Lake Ochrida, which lies on the Albanian-Jugo-Slav border.

Italy Bushes Up Troops.

ROME, Nov. 22 (AP).—The Italians formally acknowledged today the loss of their major Albanian base of Koritza to the counter-invading Greeks, and Gen. Ubaldo Soddu rushed up Fascist reinforcements to form a new battle line.

The general, who only 12 days ago was given command of the Italian campaign by Premier Mussolini, was expected to prepare the counter-attack with great care before beginning it. Thus, there seemed no immediate prospect of heavy action.

The high command's official communique acknowledged "considerable" Italian losses and Greek losses were "equally so, perhaps heavier."

[The official Rome radio announced last night: "The temporary Greek entry into Koritza means absolutely nothing, because once Gen. Soddu's troops are organized they will occupy all of Greece, literally flying thru the entire country. It will be foolish to say that the Greeks are not brave fighters, but even they will be helpless against what is to come."]

Finns Will Ration Meat, Widen Milk Restrictions

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—The Scandinavian [Swedish] radio today broadcast a dispatch from Helsingfors which said that henceforth meat would be rationed thruout Finland. For the next 10 days the ration will be 500 grams [about 17½ ounces], the broadcast said, and the rationing of milk, hitherto confined to some towns, has been extended to the whole country.

Asks Britain Seek 2 Day Armistice for Christmas

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP). — T. E. Naylor, Labor member of parliament, announced today that he would ask Prime Minister Winston Churchill to "invoke the good offices of the Vatican or some neutral state" to seek a 48 hour Christmas armistice.

HALF OF LONDON FORGETS TO SIGN UP FOR RATIONS

Faces a Muddle Over New Food Cards.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Thousands of persons may be without their new ration books for the first week, "and perhaps longer," during the new ration period beginning Jan. 6. A ministry of food official today said this is the result of the public's delay in applying for the new books before the deadline last Wednesday. Less than half the people in London have applied so far and many have filled in the forms improperly, causing further delay.

The muddle which may result from the failure of the public to do its part includes not only the impossibility of those without the new books to obtain rationed foods but unrationed articles as well. A ministry of food order permits retailers to refuse to sell nonrationed goods to unregistered customers.

Appeal with Sound Trucks.

The Westminster council will send trucks with loud speakers around the streets on Sunday to make a last minute appeal to forgetful citizens. But the ministry of food refuses to guarantee delivery of ration books on time to any one who missed the deadline, altho it is promising to do its utmost.

Among other news on the home front was an announcement by the London transportation board today that it would number places in four large subway stations and issue season tickets for them. If this proves successful, the system will be extended thruout the city. As many as 5,000 persons take shelter in some of the subway stations.

To Install Bunks.

Experiments also are to be made with two types of bunks—a standard three tier bunk, supplied by the ministry of home security, and another which, when not in use, can be folded flat and placed against a wall. Attention also is to be taken of hygienic conditions in the shelters as well as the health of the occupants.

The publication Medical World advocates installation of washing facilities in all shelters with a liberal supply of soap and water. Installation of sunlight lamps also is recommended as a germ killing measure.

750 New England Greeks Are Summoned to Colors

Boston, Mass., Nov. 22 [Special].—About 750 Greek Nationals in New England, including several hundred in Boston, have been called to the colors and ordered to hold themselves ready until steamship passage can be arranged. REPORT SOVIET O. K.'S NEW CONSULATE FOR U. S. IN VLADIVOSTOK

MOSCOW, Nov. 22 (AP).—The soviet government has authorized the United States to open a consulate general at Vladivostok, diplomatic quarters said today.

Angus Ward, veteran consul general and first secretary of the United States embassy at Moscow, has been named to head the new office, these quarters added.

[The United States recently has had but one consulate in Russia, at Moscow. Vladivostok is important in Russia's overseas commerce and is an important lookout post for Russian-Japanese developments.]

Washington Admits Discussions.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—The state department tonight disclosed there had been some discussion with Russia on the proposal to establish an American consulate general at Vladivostok, but said the matter had not yet reached a stage where any announcement could be made.

U. S. Army Bombers Crash in Guatemala; No One Hurt

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Nov. 22 (AP).—Two bombers of the visiting United States army 9th squadron collided today before taking off at Panama. No one was injured.

RUMANIAN CHIEF SEES HITLER ON JOINING THE AXIS

Berlin Forecasts Highly Important Results.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—Gen. Ion Antonescu, who proclaimed himself state leader of Rumania after he and pro-Nazi Iron Guards forced King Carol to abdicate in favor of the monarch's son Michael, arrived in Berlin today to confer with Adolf Hitler. Several hours after his air arrival he met with the Fuehrer. It was said the conference lasted three and a half hours.

Before proceeding to see Hitler, Antonescu and his foreign minister, Prince Costin Sturza, conferred with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany.

Stress Parley's Importance.

German diplomatic circles said Antonescu's visit will be of greater importance than the visit of Hungarian statesmen who recently joined the Rome-Berlin-Tokio axis in Vienna conferences.

Nazis lavishly decorated the Berlin railway station in honor of the Rumanian delegation.

Efforts were made to increase the festive tone of the reception for Antonescu, partly because some of the Rumanian diplomats accredited to Berlin have expressed disappointment that smaller Hungary was given precedence over Rumania in the negotiations about coöperation with the axis.

While the Germans are seeking to cement the coöperation of small states such as Rumania, Hungary, and possibly Bulgaria with the axis, German papers in occupied territories, such as the Deutsche Zeitung in the Netherlands and the German organs in Brussels and Warsaw, discussed "England's effort to obtain help in America."

Cites Knox's Statements.

The German paper in Holland argued that England's hopes are being kindled by statements of Col. Frank Knox, American secretary of the navy, and former President Hoover, about America's desire to further the defeat of "despotism," but that men such as Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to London, and Henry Ford do not share their views.

"Until this difference of opinion is settled, the help of the United States is written on paper only and Churchill [Winston Churchill, British prime minister] knows the value of scraps of paper," the paper added.

The attention of German public opinion is being directed not only toward German diplomatic negotiations with small countries, but also to the continued air raids on England.

Germans are told that England's industrial plants are being destroyed systematically and that the raids on London are breaking up Britain's powers of resistance.

Tho German papers and radio say almost nothing about America's delivery of planes to England, the population believes the campaign against England will be waged with increasing fierceness "to finish her before American planes can reach England in bigger numbers."

King Faces Soviet-Axis Dilemma

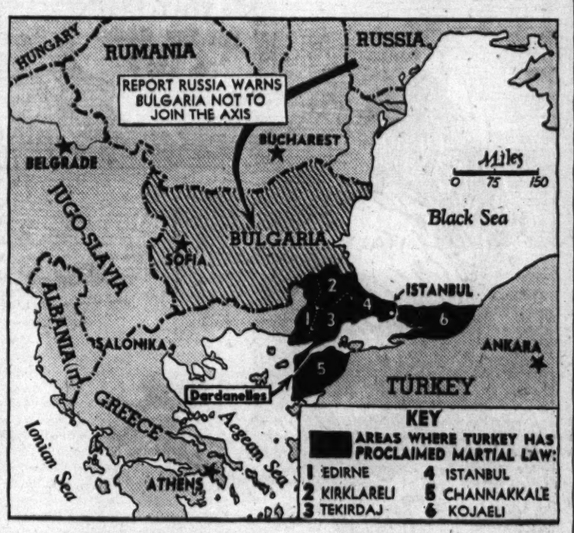
King Boris of Bulgaria faced a difficult decision last night after he was reported to have received advice from soviet Russia that his country not become an outright member of the axis alliance. He conferred with Adolf Hitler in Berlin recently and is believed to have received strong demands. The picture shows the king observing maneuvers of his army recently. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]



Turkey declared martial law in the six districts shown in black yesterday after Adolf Hitler's ambassador returned to Istanbul, bringing axis demands, it is believed.

JAPS SEIZE U. S. OFFICIAL, WRITER IN INDO-CHINA

Claim They Had Camera in Military Zone.

TOKIO, Japan, Nov. 23, Saturday (AP).—The newspaper Nichi Nichi in a dispatch from Hanoi said today a Japanese sentry had arrested Robert W. Linden, American vice consul, and Melvin Jacoby, a United Press correspondent, upon finding them in possession of a camera in the military zone at Haiphong, French Indo-China.

The two Americans refused to go to gendarmerie headquarters, the dispatch said, and French authorities intervened and offered to investigate.

Nichi Nichi said no films were found in the camera and it was surmised the Americans removed the film while en route to French headquarters. The story described the event as an "act of espionage against the Japanese."

The newspaper Asahi said the American consul at Hanoi asserted pictures were taken under his instructions to "prove the Japanese are violating American interestr" in French Indo-China and filed a strong protest.

The Japanese foreign office has not been informed officially of the incident, it was said.

Thailand Rejects Jap Request.

HONGKONG, Nov. 22 (AP).—A special dispatch to the British owned China Mail today said Thailand [Siam] had rejected a Japanese request for permission to move Japanese armed forces thru Thailand and also to establish military and naval bases there. The dispatch said the request was made some time ago but all references to it were banned by Thailand authorities.

Japs Leaving North China.

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 22 (AP).—Considerable numbers of Japanese troops were reported today to be withdrawing from Shantung province in northern China and evidence of growing Japanese concentrations in the south.

Advices from foreign sources said a steady stream of Japanese troops has been leaving Shantung by railroad for the last week. These sources said they were embarking on transports at Tientsin and Tsingtao.

Some casualties among the withdrawing forces indicated that the Chinese were keeping up their pressure on Shantung, where there have been frequent guerrilla raids recently on railroads. Travelers from Hongkong, at the same time, reported sighting five Japanese transports off the mouth of the Yangtze river.

Foreign military sources said they interpreted these movements as evidence that Japan is planning a new southward thrust, possibly with the French Indo-China port of Saigon as a first objective.

TRAGEDY IN LONDON! WHAT GERMAN BOMB DID TO ONE FAMILY!

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP).—Here is one of the tragedies of the battle of London:

Last Friday night when the German air force dealt one of its punishing blows to London a bomb struck the home of Edward Robinson, English newspaper man.

Robinson's two brothers and their wives and his elder sister were killed. A younger sister was wounded gravely. Two aunts, driven insane, have been placed in an asylum.

Mexican Teachers Plan Hunger March on Capital

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22 (AP).—After a month long strike, 12,000 teachers in the state of Mexico today announced they would make a 40 mile "hunger march" from Toluca to Mexico City on Nov. 25 as a demonstration against the governor. The strikers are demanding increased pay.

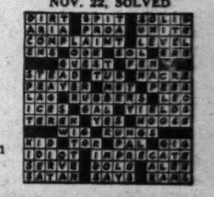
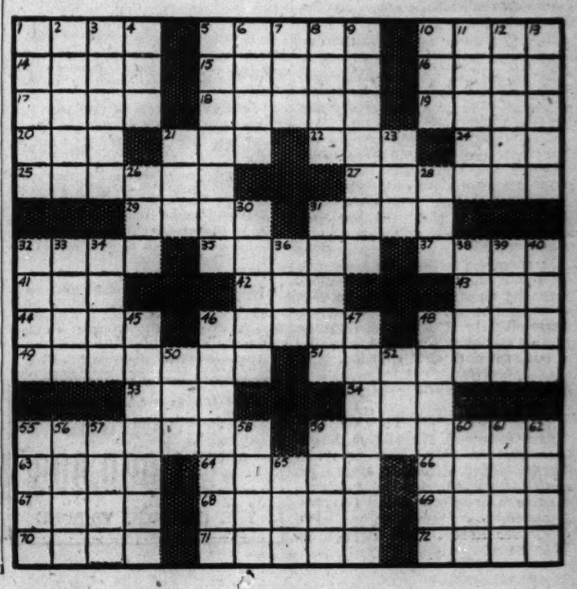
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, NOV. 22, SOLVED





OPERA IN ENGLISH PACKS 'EM IN TO HEAR 'FALSTAFF'

Crowd Roars Approval of John Charles Thomas.

Opera in English won a triumph last night. A crowd that had bought every seat in the Civic Opera house before noon laughed and rollicked with John Charles Thomas, the foremost advocate of opera so it can be understood, while he sang the title rôle of the English version of "Falstaff." And the audience applauded uproariously.

Sign on marquee of opera house.

The transformation of the Verdi opera into genuine American entertainment marked the first time the Civic Opera house has been sold out this opera season.

From the moment that Thomas first strode out upon the stage, the staid atmosphere of the opera was banished. This was fun as well as art, and fun was meant to be enjoyed. The audience received the show as it would have received a hilarious musical comedy, with unreserved and spontaneous enjoyment.

Sings Rôle as Buffoon.

Thomas patted his paunchy stomach, made that way by padding. He sang his rôle as a rowdy, a buffoon, a slapstick comedian at times, in hearty words that his audience could understand.

He convinced a willing audience that the tales they had heard of his first appearance as an American Falstaff with the Chicago Opera company on Nov. 9 were true.

The telephone system at the opera house almost was swamped with calls yesterday. One call came from Louisville, Ky., requesting reservations for "Manon," starring Helen Jepson, lyric soprano, this afternoon. Another long distance call for tickets came from Cincinnati, O. Mail orders from many cities piled into the box office.

Word came from representatives in 20 cities of Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin that tickets were going fast. Some of the largest sales came from Madison, Wis., Indianapolis, Ind., and Grand Rapids, Mich.

More States Represented.

Because this is the most spectacular season ever presented by resident opera here and because a larger audience is being reached thru the opera radio programs, James C. Thompson, business manager of the newly reorganized Chicago Opera company, said that more states are being represented in ticket sales than ever before.

Because the season is growing shorter two distribution centers for sale of tickets are being set up by the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation. This was announced yesterday by Lawrence W. Scudder, chairman of the committee. The centers, at 65 East Lake street and 14 North Franklin street, will open Monday.

Night for Hotel Men.

A group of hotel executives met at a luncheon yesterday as guests of Joseph Binns, general manager of the Stevens hotel, to arrange plans for a Hotel Men's night at the opera. The executives hope to underwrite 800 seats for one evening at the end of the opera season.

Present at the luncheon were Frank Bering, general manager of the Hotel Sherman; Edward Lawless, general manager of the Palmer House; Arnold S. Kirkeby of the Drake and Blackstone hotels; Jay Jopes, resident manager of the Stevens hotel; Lewis B. Ermeling, secretary of the Greater Chicago Hotel association; Howard Mayer, Louis Cowan, and Albert C. Fuller, publicity managers for the Sherman, Stevens and Palmer House, respectively.

GERMANS MUST GET PERMITS FOR HOLIDAY TRAVEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—Germans who plan to travel during the Christmas and New Year holidays must first obtain special permits before they may board a train. This applies to the period between Dec. 20 and Jan. 5.

In announcing this restriction German authorities explained that the transportation of war materials, supplies, and goods of "vital importance" is taxing the railroads so heavily that holiday traffic must be limited. Possession of a permit does not imply a guarantee of transportation for its owner.

'Arrest Near, Ex-King Carol's Youth Leader Ends His Life

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 22 (AP).—The Rumanian Iron Guard government announced that Theophile Sidorovici, once commander of 2,000,000 Rumanians in the Youth Legion, established by former King Carol II., committed suicide today when informed his arrest was imminent. The government did not disclose why he was to be arrested, but numerous members of the old régime are facing trial on charges of graft and murder.

Panama House Approves Draft of New Constitution

PANAMA, Panama, Nov. 22 (AP).—The national assembly appoved today a draft of a new constitution which denationalizes the children of Asiatics and Negroes "whose original language is not Spanish." José Peset, chairman of the assembly, urged that a plebiscite for ratification of the new constitution be held Dec. 15.

Bare Nazi Threat to Blow Up Theater in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Nov. 22.—Threats to blow up a Mexico City movie theater unless it withdrew an anti-Nazi film were revealed today when the management complained to police that it had received several threatening letters from "Nazi elements." It also is charged that Nazi sympathizers have disturbed performances by shouting and throwing stench bombs in the theater, where a police guard has been posted.

FOUND DEAD; GAS BURNERS OPEN.

John Baxyluk, 50 years old, was found dead last night in his room at 1945 Congress street. Two burners on a gas stove were open.

BRITISH ATTACK STAVANGER WITH U.S. MADE PLANES

Claim German Airport in Norway Set Afire.

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP).—British pilots in American made Lockheed-Hudson bombers left the Nazi air field at Stavanger, Norway, ablaze today in an assault "as slick as it was heavy," the air ministry announced.

"The first aircraft to arrive," said the announcement, "scattered [strewed] the airdrome and its buildings with incendiaries and those which followed added greatly to the destruction with a variety of bombs."

This public praise for the performance of American built planes reflected the growing acknowledgment which is being made directly and indirectly here for American aid in the war—from the king on down.

The British aerial counteroffensive went on—as is nearly always the case—while the German air force struck on and on with its characteristic persistence at Britain.

Liverpool Under Attack.

The attacks tonight were among the most widespread of recent weeks.

Three separate formations attacked a town in the eastern Midlands. The Liverpool area, on the west coast; the northeast, and the south also were under attack.

During the day the counties surrounding London and the southeast coast were under intermittent attack. Two German bombers were shot down.

The Press association said more raiders took part in the night's assaults than in any previous attack on the Midlands, but London had a comparatively quiet night.

Flying in from all directions the raiders dropped incendiary bombs and high explosives. A church, a hospital, and two convents were hit in a west Midlands town and damage to residential property was widespread.

[German sources said Birmingham was the night's main air objective.]

Renew Birmingham Attacks.

BERLIN, Nov. 23, Saturday (AP).—The German air force overnight renewed its attacks on Birmingham, England, dropping bombs of the heaviest caliber on objectives which escaped destruction in previous raids, informed German sources stated today.

German long range guns "effectively" fired yesterday upon important military facilities "southeast of London," it was officially reported.

Informed sources said German planes bombed the rail line between Chatham and Milton, and that a 2,000 ton ship off England's east coast near Harwich was believed sinking from bomb hits. Other towns reported bombed were Brighton, Coventry, Bristol, and Southampton.

WARSHIPS SHELL ITALIAN TROOPS ON EGYPT COAST

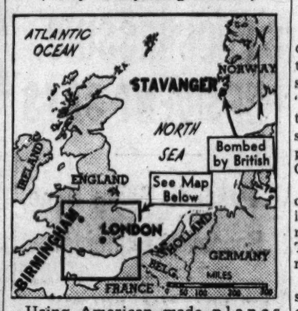
ROME, Nov. 22 (AP).—The Italian high command today announced that in the Egyptian war theater British warships had bombarded the Fascist positions east of Sidi Barrani and at Uadi Maktila, but asserted there was no resulting damage.

British air raids on the fortified Italian Island of Lero in the Dodecanese also were dismissed as ineffective.

The Italians claimed a successful bombing of railway centers and fortifications at the British Egyptian base of Matruh. The destruction of 10 British tanks in a desert battle of Nov. 19 also was reported.

Bomb German Base

(Story in adjoining column.)



Using American made planes, British flyers set fire to the German air field at Stavanger, Norway, yesterday, according to the air ministry.

Symbols indicate British cities reported bombed by the Germans yesterday and Thursday. The territory included in this map is within the square in the upper map.

BOMBERS WORSE THAN SUBS, SAYS BRITISH SKIPPER

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—The bombing plane is a greater menace to merchant shipping than the submarine, Capt. John Reed of the Western Prince asserted today as he brought that British ship into port. The vessel carried 92 passengers.

The ship was not attacked directly, its officers said, but Capt. Reed indicated that a bomber was "pretty close to us."

"There's a lot of difference in navigating a ship now than there was in the last war," he said. "Then I was torpedoed and survived, but the danger these days is from overhead."

Despite air raids, he said, Liverpool continues to function as a port and the city's air defenses are improving. During the journey a ship 50 miles from him was bombed.

Among the passengers was Count Rene de la Taille, who was private secretary to Premier Edouard Daladier of France during the early days of the war.

VANDALS AGAIN ATTACK MUSEUM.

Director L. Hubbard Shattuck reported to the police yesterday that vandals had hurled bricks thru windows of the Chicago Historical society building in Lincoln park Thursday night for the third successive night. Police assigned guards to the building.

NAZIS SAY DIES REPORT WORTH 3 SHORT LAUGHS

BERLIN, Nov. 22 (AP).—The Dies committee report is worth "exactly three short laughs," said authorized sources today, commenting on a "white paper" issued by the committee which charged Nazis with a scheme of propaganda, espionage, and planning in the United States. The German sources said:

"Jokes may be divided into two categories, good and bad. If the joke is a poor one . . . it is customary to react to it with three short laughs. That's what we do to the Dies committee report."

Beyond that spoofing remark, these sources declined to make any official or semiofficial comment. They said, however, that they wanted foreign correspondents to share Germany's hilarity over the report.

Oscar Straus, Composer, Sails with Family for U. S.

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 22 (AP).—Oscar Straus, Vienna composer of light operas, and his family were among the 320 passengers who sailed today for the United States aboard the American ship Siboney.

ASK FOR PERMISSION TO SELL 8 FREIGHT VESSELS TO BRITISH

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—The Black Diamond Steamship company has applied to the maritime commission for permission to sell eight of its ships to British interests.

The commission announced today that application had been made to sell the ships Black Condor and Black Osprey to the Cairn Line of Steamships Limited, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, England; and for sale of the Black Gull, Black Eagle, Black Falcon, Black Hawk, Black Heron, and Black Tern to the Cunard White Star, Ltd., of Liverpool.

All of these vessels are cargo vessels of about 5,000 tons each, with speed ranging from 11½ to 13 knots. If the sale is approved they will be transferred to British registry.

The commission also announced that it had approved the sale of the yacht Poopooflee, owned by Cyrus McCormick, to H. E. Moss & Co. of London, with transfer to British registry. The Poopooflee was built last year at Jacksonville, Fla., is 20 gross tons and has a speed of 25 knots.

DEAL WITH U. S. ON BASES STIRS URUGUAY CRISIS

Program of Government Expected to Stand.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Nov. 22 (AP).—Official circles tonight said the government's program of coöperation in hemisphere defense probably would go ahead on a "normal course" despite the stormy political debate stirred up by negotiations for United States aid in building air and naval bases.

Alberto Guani.

After a day-long study of last night's senate debate, these circles took the view the government had weathered its first parliamentary test in which a motion of censure of Foreign Minister Alberto Guani was presented.

Doubt Minister Wil Quit.

Since the senate did not adopt the resolution, these circles said Guani was not likely to resign, as at first reported.

Official quarters said the opposition's resolution disapproving "international agreements authorizing the creation of air or naval bases that might cause bondage of any kind for Uruguayan sovereignty" was an approximation of President Alfredo Baldomir's stand.

In a speech Sunday the President said the nation would not lease or cede any bases. Guani has taken a similar stand, proposing the bases should be built and controled by Uruguay.

Loss of Freedom Feared.

Critical senators, however, declared Uruguay would lose her economic freedom of action if she borrowed from the United States the $60,000,000 they estimated the bases would cost, and declared the bases were unnecessary for Uruguay's defense.

[The issue also has provoked strong reaction in Spain, where newspapers have assailed "cession" of bases as "suicide" for Uruguay. Madrid students in a demonstration Thursday shouted "South America for South Americans."]

Plan River Plate Parley.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 22 (AP).—The Argentine foreign office tonight announced Argentina and Uruguay had agreed their joint interests in the River Plate estuary would be examined in connection with the exchanges of hemisphere defense views being held among the American republics.

The announcement was viewed here as clearing up some uncertainty regarding defense plans being discussed by the United States with a number of American governments.

DEMOCRATS SUE TO TEST RATNER KANSAS ELECTION

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 22 (AP).—Charles E. Young, Democratic state chairman, said tonight in his party's first formal comment on the governorship results that Gov. Payne H. Ratner's apparent reëlection by 427 votes had been accomplished by illegal out-state absentee ballots.

Young declared that supporters of William H. Burke, the Democratic nominee, "propose to carry on a fight in the courts, to win the governorship for the Little River stockman.

Burke's attorneys have filed one suit asking the Supreme court to compel the state board of canvassers to permit Democrats to see affidavits detached from the out-state ballots. It was these ballots which wiped out Burke's lead and gave Ratner a slim margin.

The Democratic attorneys hope to use the affidavits as a basis to challenge many voters they hold were not properly registered. They said other suits might be filed asking for the discard of ballots they charge were marked illegally or mailed at the wrong time.

Young charged that "great numbers" of "illegal or void ballots have been counted by the canvassing board which is composed entirely of Republicans."

BOLIVIAN URGES DEMOCRACY IN U. S. DIPLOMACY

If the United States wishes to win the confidence and friendship of Latin America it must be as democratic in its dealings with them as it is in its domestic policies. This statement was made yesterday by Enrique deLozado, former member of the Bolivian diplomatic corps and visiting professor at Williams college.

Speaking on "Latin America, United States' Achilles Heel," before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer House, deLozado emphasized the need of gaining the good will of the Latin American masses. In some quarters this has been done, he said. "The lowest Bolivian Indian," he declared, "admires President Roosevelt, for example, because he believes he has shown concern for the underdog."

The speaker noted that Germany, long before the advent of Hitler and the Nazi dictatorship, began building up good will among Latin-Americans.

"But you can win us easily," he concluded. "We cannot play an active part but the part we do play in the future world is up to you."

EXPOSE BRITISH PROPAGANDISTS, SEN. HOLT URGES

Suggests Inquiry Into White Committee.

"cash on the line" for every dollar of this material, L. G. Chance, general secretary of the commission, said today. Noting that the neutrality law enforces such payments, Chance said that the commission has available resources to continue the purchase of fighting weapons at the present rate of approximately $125,000,000 a month.

System of Payment.

The United States government does not receive payment for munitions and other military equipment turned over to England. The materials are declared surplus and obsolete by the government and turned back to individual manufacturers and the government is given credit for new materials from these manufacturers for future delivery.

The transaction is then between the English and the manufacturers and these materials are paid for in cash to the manufacturers. The United States treasury thus does not receive cash from the British government but benefits by credit arrangements with domestic manufacturers.

The latest official figures for shipments of war materials to Great Britain show that a total of $779,974,000 worth had been shipped in the 12 months ending Aug. 31, 1940. In August alone, shipments were valued at $123,090,000 and the rate has been more than maintained since then, an estimated $400,000,000 worth of weapons having been exported up to the present date.

$72,163,000 Worth of Planes.

The department of commerce reported that 743 airplanes, valued at $72,163,000, had been shipped to England up to Sept. 1. Airplane parts worth $18,936,000 accompanied these shipments.

Some of the other shipments are shown in the following table:

Explos., fuses, smokeless powd.	$18,642,000
Firearms and ammunition	33,198,000
Machs., hvy. ord. guns, carriages	10,557,000
Explosive shells and projectiles	11,782,000
Metal working machinery	70,478,000
Iron and steel semi-manufactures	70,710,000
Iron and steel scrap	14,609,000
Steel ingots, billets	39,064,000
Aluminum ingots, plates, etc.	29,524,000
Copper and manufactures	35,640,000
Brass and bronze	4,092,000
Nickel, monel metal, and alloys	4,492,000
Zinc in slabs, plates, blocks	1,672,000
Ferro-alloys, molybdenum ores, etc.	5,102,000
Petroleum and products	56,298,000
Industrial chemicals	8,693,000

Figures for All Empire.

The department of commerce reported that during the first year of the war the United States supplied all countries of the British empire with one billion 740 million dollars worth of exports. This total represented 44 per cent of all United States exports in the 12 months.

Purchases by the British empire from this country were divided as follows: $779,774,000 by Great Britain, $622,583,000 by Canada, $63,143,000 by British India, $76,036,000 by Australia, $84,316,000 by the Union of South Africa, and $113,681,000 by all other British countries. The purchases were mainly those necessary for conduct of war.

Chicago Army Nurse Will Take Up Puerto Rico Duty

Kathryne C. Stuwe, 25 years old, of Chicago, a second lieutenant in the army nurses' corps, will leave New York next Wednesday on the transport American Legion for duty in San Juan, Puerto Rico, Miss Stuwe is the daughter of J. Daniel Stuwe, 2524 Hutchinson street. She was graduated from Immaculata High school and, in 1937, was graduated as a nurse after training at Henrotin hospital. She became an army nurse in April and since then has been on duty at Fort Sheridan. She is at home on leave this week.

German Crew Still Missing from Plane in Switzerland

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 22.—The crew of the German bomber which last week fell at Willerzell, in the Canton of Schwyz, still is missing, the army general staff announced today. It is presumed the plane was returning from an attack on Great Britain and was forced to come down owing to lack of fuel.

ARMY GROUPING LISTS NEW SETUP OF FIELD FORCES

Corps Composed of Two or More Divisions.

(Diagram on back page.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—The tactical regroupings of the field forces of continental United States as announced last month reveal the combination of the various types of the National Guard and regular army divisions which make up the modern American land forces.

The four armies into which the forces are grouped are made up of one or more corps, which in turn are composed of two or more divisions. In addition, two cavalry divisions, the 1st and 2d, are attached to the third and second armies, respectively.

Corps Is Tactical Unit.

In the reorganization, incidentally, the army did not seek to assign divisions to the corps whose number is identical with the number of the corps area in which the divisions are based. A corps is a tactical unit, while a corps area is a territorial unit. Thus, for instance, the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, is based in the 6th corps area, which is composed of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, but it is assigned to the 7th corps in the reorganization of the armed forces.

The four armies, as reorganized, will be composed of troops actually in the field for the first time since the world war, for every one of the 18 National Guard divisions are or soon will be mobilized and sent to camps for a year's training in the federal service.

Four Types of Divisions.

The four types of divisions which figure in the reorganized army are:

Streamlined [triangular] infantry division. This unit has been developed over a period of years, and all nine of the regular army infantry divisions are built on this pattern. It is called "triangular" because it is made up of three infantry regiments, instead of the four of the world war division. In addition, the division has division artillery and service troops. As reorganized in September this division has an authorized strength of about 14,000 officers and enlisted men, and its fire power has been increased.

Square [infantry] division. The 18 National Guard divisions are built on this pattern—that is, four infantry regiments organized into two infantry brigades. In addition there is a field artillery brigade of three regiments. Each brigade is commanded by a brigadier general, under the major general who commands the division. War strength of the square division is approximately 18,000 officers and men.

Unit of 10,000 Officers, Men.

Cavalry division. This unit, of 10,000 officers and men, is a combination of mechanized and horse units designed to perform the historic mission of cavalry—screening, patroling, etc.—at a tempo commensurate with the speed of a modern army.

Armored division. The nation has two of these armored, or tank, divisions organized last June. The 1st armored division is based at Fort Knox, Ky., and the 2d armored division is based at Fort Benning, Ga. The chief offensive arm of this division is its 274 light tanks, 110 medium tanks, and reconnaissance cars, but it also contains artillery, infantry, and engineering units which work with the mechanized weapons of war. This division has about 12,000 men, 19,000 weaponis, and 2,500 vehicles.

BLACK HORSE SQUAD OFFICERS UNDERGO TESTS

Officers of the Black Horse squadron, Chicago unit of the 106th cavalry regiment of the Illinois National Guard, underwent physical examinations yesterday at 6th corps area headquarters preparatory to induction into federal service on Monday for a year's training. Twenty-one officers, including Maj. Roy D. Keehn Jr., squadron commander, were examined.

Maj. Keehn announced that the regiment, which includes units at Springfield, Urbana, and Chicago, has been ordered to report at Camp Beauregard, La., Dec. 9. Previously the regiment had arranged to move out next Friday, but now it probably will not leave before Dec. 5. It was assumed that inability to complete quarters for the troops before Dec. 9 caused the delay.

The 106th cavalry regiment will train at Camp Livingston, six miles north of Camp Beauregard. Both are near Alexandria, La.

413 Parole Applications to Be Heard in December

The state board of pardons and paroles announced yesterday at Springfield that applications for parole from 413 Illinois convicts are on the December docket. Hearings before subcommittees of the board will begin on Monday. Two hundred and fifty-seven of those seeking parole were sentenced from Cook county.

Monument to colored regiment of the American Expeditionary force at 35th street and South Park way.

A $1,694 contract has been awarded for floodlighting the 370th infantry world war memorial at 35th street and South Park way, it was announced yesterday in Springfield. Automatically controled lights will play on the bronze memorial, which is in honor of the colored troops who served in the 370th.

Both before and after the war the regiment was designated the 8th infantry of the Illinois National Guard, and now has been converted into the 184th field artillery regiment of the Guard. The contract was awarded by the state department of public works and buildings.

SEVEN OF FRIDAY GANG REPORTED ACCUSED BY JURY

The seven members of the "Friday night gang," who confessed robbing more than 250 taverns in the last two years, were reported named yesterday by the grand jury in eight true bills charging robbery with a gun. The jury set total bonds of $600,000. Conviction on the charge carries a penalty of one year to life in prison.

Those named were Stanley Kaval, 26 years old, 2101 Millard avenue; Joseph Nadvornick, 28, of 2424 South Troy street; Joseph Kodadek, 25, of 2360 South Sacramento boulevard; Paul Bellingire, 31, of 1322 South Spaulding avenue; Albert Vickers, 31, of 3653 Ogden avenue; Edwin Beck, 29, of 1641 Millard avenue, and Charles Markvart, 28, of 3013 South Harding avenue.

Kaval was reported named in seven of the eight true bills. His fellow gang members said Kaval was so vicious they feared he would kill some victim and often removed the bullets from his gun. Nadvornick, Kodadek, and Bellingire were reported named in six true bills; Vickers and Beck in two, and Markvart in one.

MANY CALLED, FEW CHOSEN IN DRAFT FOR ARMY

How many draft registrants must be considered in local draft board areas to fill the quotas? An answer to this question was given yesterday in the experiences of the Maywood draft board.

The board found that 27 of the first 100 men on its list were in class 1—that is, available for active service. Eight of these were examined before three were found who were fit for immediate duty. Seventy of the first 100 were granted deferred status because of dependents.

Army officials at Fort Sheridan began yesterday to assign permanently the 178 Cook county men inducted this week. Three were sent to the 52d ordnance company at the Savanna [Ill.] ordnance depot, five were assigned to Company C and four to Company M of the 48th quartermaster regiment at Fort Sheridan.

AID FOR BRITAIN IS PROGRESSING, PRESIDENT SAYS

All Possible Being Done, Roosevelt Explains.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 22.—President Roosevelt declared today this country's efforts toward aiding Britain were going ahead as rapidly as possible and there were no concrete proposals for further help before him at present.

Gen. John J. Pershing. [A. P. Wire Photo.]

Lounging in a light gray sack suit in the study of his mother's mansion on the Hudson river here, Mr. Roosevelt was in good spirits and appeared to be enjoying his Thanksgiving holiday away from Washington.

A number of questions bearing on aid to Britain in the light of recent heavy bombings of Coventry and Birmingham were fired at the chief executive during his press conference. He was asked about suggestions for extending credits for increased purchases of planes and guns and of sending American convoys half way across the Atlantic to ease the strain on the British fleet.

Points to Production Lag.

Such propositions were in the stage of glittering generalties and so far didn't mean a thing, President Roosevelt said. He declared everything possible was being done at the present time. If he could be shown a way of turning out airplanes faster than the nation's aircraft plants were producing them now, that would be a different matter, the President added.

President Roosevelt corroborated the report he had asked Gen. John J. Pershing to go to France as ambassador to the Vichy government because the world war commander of the American forces was an old friend of Marshal Petain.

But after considering the post for three or four days Gen. Pershing was forced to decline it because his doctors ordered him not to go, according to the President.

Plans on New Tours.

A new series of defense-inspection tours are being planned for December, the President revealed.

Since he had only read the headlines, Mr. Roosevelt said he would not comment on the "white paper" released by the Dies congressional committee investigating un-American activities and carrying charges of a German esiponage network in this country.

A report that the White House and the Vatican were considering a joint peace appeal was characterized as just another rumor by the President.

ARMY PRACTICES SPEEDING TROOPS TO BATTLE BY AIR

Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 22 (AP).—The army disclosed advanced experiments today to speed troops by air to a hostile air field in wartime in the wake of parachute advance guards.

Using for training a full scale model of a two engine transport plane, groups of a battalion of the 9th infantry regiment are being drilled to board a plane quickly, fully armed, and to unload ready for battle.

In a rain soaked demonstration arranged by Maj. Gen. James L. Collins, commander of the streamlined 2d infantry division, 10 men wrestled a 950 pound antitank gun up a makeshift ramp into the fuselage in a few minutes, then scrambled into folding seats ready for the takeoff.

Squads armed with machine guns and mortars with ammunition boxes and other equipment meanwhile awaited their turn.

2 Flyers, Hunting Boy Lost in Mountains, Die in Crash

Lancaster, Cal., Nov. 22 (AP).—Two flyers hunting a lost Boy Scout were killed today in the crash of their small monoplane just as the boy was found. Deputy Sheriff Ed Carroll said the men were believed to be James Danley, a lieutenant for civilian pilot training at Palmdale, and Gene Whiskerson. Their plane fell in the mountains. The Boy Scout, Harold Guthrie, 13 years old, of Palmdale, walked away yesterday from the Falcon mine while his father was visiting there. He reappeared today, cold and hungry.

UNION TIES UP DEFENSE WORK OVER $12 DUES

C. I. O. Votes to Continue Aluminum Shutdown.

New Kensington, Pa., Nov. 22 (AP).—A massmeeting of C. I. O. members voted unanimously tonight to continue a strike which today closed down the huge New Kensington works of the Aluminum Company of America, until the discharge of a union worker involved in a dispute over payment of $12 in back dues.

The strike, which made 7,500 workers idle and suspended a daily pay roll of $44,000, also interrupted work on vast national defense orders, including those for airplanes and army field kitchens. Union leaders said it was called because the company refused to dismiss a sheet mill worker who, they said, threatened a union official and members of the official's family after he had been asked to pay delinquent union dues amounting to $12.

The vote to continue the strike was taken in the jammed auditorium of the high school after two hours of discussion behind locked doors.

Union Statement Issued.

Following tonight's meeting a spokesman for the Aluminum Workers union issued this statement:

"Members of the union heard the report of its representatives who conducted negotiations for five hours this morning with the company.

"They reported the company refused to meet the union demand, which is they discharge the individual around whom the controversy is centered.

"More than 2,000 members voted unanimously to refuse to go back to work until the demand is met."

Picket lines, which were established at 4:30 a. m., have been and will be continued to be maintained, the spokesman added.

Hopes for an early settlement of the strike diminished after the C. I. O. union and company representatives ended their five hour conference earlier in the day without reaching an agreement.

Federal Mediator to Aid.

However, in Washington, D. C., the defense commission announced a labor department mediator would attempt to bring about an end to the dispute.

The strike began yesterday with a walkout of several hundred employés in the sheet mill. A general strike was voted at a meeting of the C. I. O. Aluminum Workers union last night.

William Hanker, spokesman for the union, said the union "regretted the necessity of strike action" but asserted as long as the offending mill worker was in the plant "we are not going in."

Strike action was limited to the New Kensington works, biggest of the company's 15 plants in the nation. The union had threatened to call a strike at several plants last summer, but a compromise agreement for a wage increase averted the walkout.

SEEK VULTEE SETTLEMENT

Downey, Cal., Nov. 22 (AP).—A compromise proposal for settlement of a strike at Vultee Aircraft, Inc., was submitted to company officials and the C. I. O.-United Automobile Workers union today by Maj. Sidney Simpson, representative of the war department.

No statement was forthcoming immediately on the possibility of its acceptance as a basis of future negotiations.

Conferences were discontinued yesterday after the union balked at the company's proposal to insert a "no-strike" clause in a tentative agreement that had been reached on a two year contract providing a new pay schedule.

Training Planes Halted.

The big Vultee plant, with $84,000,000 in military contracts in its safe and 20 uncompleted training planes for the army on its production line, was closed a week ago. C. I. O. members, claiming a majority of the plant's 5,200 employés, walked out demanding an increase to 75 cents an hour in the minimum pay of unskilled laborers. The company has paid 50 cents, but offered increase to 55 cents at the end of three months and 60 cents at the end of six.

A company spokesman said the new wage scale agreed upon provided for a minimum of 55 cents during the first month's employment, 57½ cents for the second and third months and 62½ cents thereafter.

Defends Company Stand.

Defending the company's insistence on a "no strike" provision in the new contract, its president, Richard W. Millar, declared:

"Vultee is the single source under the national defense program of basic training planes for the army air corps. We don't even consider ourselves a free agent. We are working for the United States and Great Britain.

"We want protection against a recurrence of the very thing that is happening at our plant now."

To which Wyndham Mortimer, a leader of the union forces, replied:

"Such a clause would deprive us of the only weapon of self defense we have. We are just as anxious as they to get back on the job, but the settlement must be on a basis which does not deprive us of our only weapon."

STEEL WORKERS RETURN

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 22 (AP).—The first shift of striking C. I. O. workers returned to their jobs today as operations at the Halcomb plant of the Crucible Steel company were swiftly geared back to normal.

The full complement of 1,100 men on the day force was at work, while company officials prepared to meet a steel workers union grievance committee whose demands precipitated the walkout last Monday. A total of 2,300 workers was affected.

Company officials said that plant production, which included defense orders, was resumed "without a hitch."

WARNS OF STRIKE WAVE THREAT IN DEFENSE PLANTS

Congressman Accuses Union Leaders.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—Representative John M. Costello [D., Cal.] declared today that the strike of Vultee Aircraft company employés is only the first attack in a battle to be fought "ultimately thruout defense industries generally" under the direction of union leaders hoping to "take advantage of the national emergency."

The Vultee plant at Downey, Cal., was selected as the first battleground, Costello said, "because it appeared to be the most vulnerable and hence they would have the greatest likelihood of success."

"It is a vital bottleneck of the entire defense program, by means of which the American public can be frightened and thereby forced to surrender to the dictation of this faction of the labor movement," the Californian said.

Warns of Consequences.

"In fact, if sufficient panic can be created by the stoppage of training plane production, this attack might be used to start a demand for the nationalization of the industry and the destruction of private enterprise in the same manner as French industry was hamstrung under the popular front government of Socialist Leon Blum."

Costello inserted his remarks in the congressional record after the house adjourned before he could deliver them orally.

He contended the Vultee walkout was ordered by officials of the United Automobile Workers of America [C. I. O.] because they desired credit for automatic pay increases ordinarily granted by the company.

"They wanted this strike," he said, "to gain publicity for their efforts and thereby attempt to discredit not only this company but the entire industry in the eyes of the public."

Points to Cost Rise.

Recognition of the union demands and their ultimate application to other southern California aircraft plants, Costello asserted, would add 35 per cent or $240,000,000 to the cost of the $690,000,000 in aviation contracts granted those firms by the government.

"It is due," he said, "to this serious effect upon the ultimate cost of the defense program that the present strike is of immediate concern to every citizen in the land."

The Californian, a member of the house military affairs committee, asserted that it "did not matter" to the union leadership "that this strike stopped the production of aircraft vitally necessary to get the army's aviation training program started."

Urging quick settlement of the dispute, Costello said that unless harmony and coöperation are obtained he feared the public would demand the elimination of all strikes and the enforcement of compulsory arbitration of all disputes wherein the public interest was affected.

Congress Action Urged.

Earlier in the day Representative E. E. Cox [D., Ga.] told the house a strike delaying vital defense operations should be declared an act of "treason."

Mentioning no particular case, he said such a strike is "just as much sabotage as for the crew of a ship to try to break down operations in time of an emergency." He demanded legislation to guard against this kind of "interruption."

Later Cox told reporters he had in mind the strike at the Vultee plant.

Representative Jennings Randolph [D., W. Va.] declared congress should let the country know it would see that there is "no stoppage of national defense production."

PHILIP MURRAY REPLACES LEWIS AS C. I. O. CHIEF

Convention Votes Support of Harry Bridges.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP).—The convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations adjourned today after installing Philip Murray as its new president and passing a resolution condemning special legislation to deport Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. leader, as "an attack upon Bridges and upon organized labor."

"Unconstitutional," the resolution termed a bill now before congress which would order Bridges' deportation.

In its closing minutes the convention heard a farewell speech from John L. Lewis, retiring president. Speaking in the third person, Lewis declared that even those who had disagreed with his policies would have to accept the conclusion that "whether he—meaning myself—was right or wrong, at least his heart was in the right place."

Fulfills His Pledge.

By stepping down as C. I. O. president Lewis made good a preëlection pledge to resign if President Roosevelt were reëlected.

Before banging down the gavel on the meeting Murray promised he would not rush into an immediate peace settlement with the American Federation of Labor and protested "against use of government pressure in an effort to force a shotgun settlement" with the A. F. of L.

In his speech of acceptancy Murray outlined his plans to battle against what he called "the scheming and connivances of interests bent upon the destruction of everything reflecting the spirit of true democracy."

He said he stood by Lewis' views on the best means of achieving labor peace. Murray joined with Lewis in calling upon the C. I. O. unions for internal unity of action.

Delivers a Warning.

Murray warned that "deeds count. Hard work is needed. Petty bickering must stop. The tongue of the scandal monger must be stilled. The work of the organization must be singular in purpose, and that is the organization of men and women into mighty unions."

"I look forward with you," he declared, "to the day when our country and its people may be able to enjoy a broader security, a security that encompasses the well-being of all people thru the nation, a kind of security that will drive from the temples of finance and industry rapacity, greed, and selfishness, and that will mete out to workers of this nation those things that God in his infinite wisdom decreed the masses of the universe should receive."

Long Close to Lewis.

The C. I. O.'s' new leader came into the labor movement from the coal mines as did Lewis. A quiet spoken, 54 year old Pittsburgh, Pa., labor figure, he has been a close associate of Lewis for three decades. Earlier in the convention he said his affection for the retiring president bordered on "actual love."

He was elected by acclamation.

The C. I. O. presidency pays no salary. Murray said he would retain his $18,000 a year job as vice president of the United Mine Workers.

The convention elected Joseph Curran of the National Maritime union to the vice presidency previously held by Murray and Frank Rosenblum of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers union to the vice presidential vacancy caused by the retirement of Sidney Hillman. Hillman gave up his post to become labor member of the national defense commission.

One of the convention's resolutions demanded a federal investigation "of employment by the Ford Motor company of Nazi agents."

Murray Addresses People.

Murray in a radio address tonight declared that the C. I. O. was "the nation's only guarantee that the miserable failures of the last world war" in the production of defense needs would not be repeated.

"The C. I. O. is the labor movement in our first line of defense," he said.

"The mass producing industries of the mines, mills, factories, and workshops, by the strength and discipline of C. I. O. unions have substituted industrial peace and stability for industrial warfare in these first lines of defense.

"This is essential to the successful prosecution of the federal government's national defense program.

"Wholesome and Constructive."

"This definite, wholesome, and constructive coöperation between management and labor in our vital defense industries makes the production of armaments for our armed forces in needed quantities and on time possible."

Murray said industry failed to do this job in the last war, asserting that relatively little of the guns and ammunition ordered were produced in time for use.

Actress Sued

SYLVIA SIDNEY.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP).—Actress Sylvia Sidney was sued in New Jersey Supreme court today for $12,434 which a Flemington building contracting firm claimed still was due for remodeling a century old house on her farm in Raritan township, Hunterdon county.

Miss Sidney purchased the 117 acre property three years ago in a rural area popularized in recent years by stage and screen stars who built homes there.

George K. Large of Flemington, attorney for the contracting firm of Van Lieu & Van Horn, said in the complaint the amount sued for represented contracting costs, services of a night watchman, and "extra" work.

BRITISH ALLOW U. S. OBSERVERS ABOARD FLEET

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—The United States has naval observers with the British fleet, but navy department officials declined to say how many or with what units they are stationed.

Secretary Knox said recently that unlike the army's observers with the royal air force, the navy's men did not make flights with the British fleet air arm.

Thus far, the army observers have been restricted to Britain and the English channel in their flights with the RAF. They are not permitted to go on bombing raids over the territory held by Germany or Italy. The navy's observers with the fleet, however, may be aboard ships actually engaged in battle. As one official put it:

"They don't stop the ships to let our men off just before they go into action."

CLOSE 263 BARS FOR FAILURE TO OBTAIN LICENSES

Police, who are waging a double barreled war on unlicensed taverns and juke boxes, closed 263 saloons in the city last night for failure to obtain 1940-'41 licenses. The greatest number closed was in the New City and Chicago avenue districts, each of which darkened 30.

Some of the saloonkeepers said they had applied for licenses, but had not yet received them. Police said the taverns will stay closed until licenses arrive. Meanwhile 68 tavern owners were arraigned in the Shakespeare avenue, Fillmore street and Des Plaines street courts earlier in the day and granted continuances on charges of operating juke boxes in violation o fthe city ordinance.

HOLD PRIZE FIGHT MANAGER AND 3 AS CARD SHARPS

New York, Nov. 23, Saturday (AP).—Hymie Caplin, prize fight manager, and three others, including two women, were arrested early today on charges of grand larceny in what Brooklyn District Attorney William O'Dwyer called "the cleanup of a nation-wide combine of card sharps." Caplin is charged with participation in the fleecing of a New York business man in May, 1938, of $5,000 during a "friendly game." The ring, many of whom still are missing, is said to have cleaned up 4 million dollars in the last ten years. Others arrested were Jenny Rubin, 49, and Abraham Blumenson, 40, and his wife, Gussie, 38.

RACKETS ISSUE NOW A LIVE ONE AT A. F. L. PARLEY

Fireworks Expected as It Is Forced Into Open.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Nov. 22.—The demand that the American Federation of Labor take action to curb racketeering in union ranks—a matter that was seemingly due for brief notice and quiet throttling next week—is now perhaps the livest issue in the federation convention and may bring verbal fireworks.

This change was brought about partly by a physical attack made early yesterday on David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union. His assailant was Joseph Fay of New York, vice president of the International Union of Operating Engineers, who had preceded his blows with a diatribe against the antiracketeering resolution sponsored by Dubinsky's executive board.

Public Discussion Predicted.

Talk among the delegates today was that no matter what recommendation was made by the resolutions committee the question would be thrown open to a public discussion.

"Violence of any kind has no place in the labor movement," said one union official not connected with Dubinsky's organization. "It might have been possible to pass over the matter lightly and let the convention deplore racketeers in labor without setting up any machinery to combat them. That looks impossible now and we hope for something definite."

There is a virtually unanimous agreement among friends and foes of the resolution that the overwhelming majority of the unions making up the federation are honestly and capably administered and that less than 5 per cent tolerate racketeers.

See No Solution.

Beyond question the majority would like to see the racketeers ousted. But many are unable to see how any setup for regulation can be had without sacrificing the autonomy of their own unions. Each of these unions is an entity and its internal affairs cannot be interfered with in any way at present by the federation.

"It is hard to change," one international representative explained. "The international constitutions give full leeway to their officers to clean up their own organizations. Any tribunal the federation might set up would have too much power to interfere. Why should we sacrifice the 99 just to hit the wayward one? We want the federation to stay what it is: no overlord, but a voluntary organization to handle national policies and affairs as the affiliated unions direct by their votes at the convention."

Publicity a Factor.

Two factors are causing some of the international heads to waver a little. One is the growing publicity aroused by labor racketeering. The other is a realization that failure to act soon against the rackets may bring about legislation for government or state regulation of labor, possibly by commission—even more unpalatable than self-applied restrictions.

At present there is no A. F. of L. method to cope with a situation such as existed in the Building Service Employé's International union when the notorious George Scalise was its president. He could loot the treasury and compel under officials to make him huge payments, and neither officials nor members had any one to apply to for a remedy except public prosecutors.

Scalise could and did attend A. F. of L. conventions as a duly elected delegate. There was no way to bar him. Admittedly such situations injured labor. So, too, did the slugging of Dubinsky.

Asks Ouster System.

Dubinsky's suggestion is that the executive council of the federation or some appointed body be empowered to remove any officer of an affiliated union convicted of an offense involving moral turpitude or using his official position for private gain. Few believe that this can be carried in its present form, but events apparently are conspiring toward an abandonment of the "It can't be done" spirit.

This afternoon Dan W. Tracy, assistant secretary of labor, told the convention that the union labor supply of the country was adequate for all national defense jobs and that men and work would be brought together. The convention also heard the Rev. William J. Kelly of Buffalo, N. Y., on credit unions and Charles F. Wills of Chicago on "The Labor Press."

There will be no convention session tomorrow.

Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the British Trades labor congress, was introduced by President William Green and was given an ovation.

Comment on Murray.

At the close of the afternoon session Green said that if Philip Murray, new head of the C. I. O., is given a free hand, prospects for peace between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. will be "much advanced." He reiterated previous statements that there could be no meeting of minds, however, so long as John L. Lewis remains head of the United Mine Workers.

Green added that a committee from the federation soon would get in touch with the C. I. O. and ask when it would be convenient to resume merger negotiations. The A. F. of L. remains determined that these negotiations must be predicated on a full settlement of jurisdictional rights of unions in both camps in advance of combination.

N. Y. COURT DISBARS LOUIS S. LEVY FOR MANTON CASE LOAN

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—Louis S. Levy, one of New York's most prominent lawyers for more than 20 years, today was disbarred from practice in the state courts by unanimous decision of the appellate division of the Manhattan Supreme court.

Levy, a member of the law firm of Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy, was disbarred for his part in arranging a $250,000 loan which played an important part in the scandals that drove Martin T. Manton, senior judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, from the bench and put him in prison.

Levy was disbarred from practice in the federal courts a little more than a year ago as a result of his relations with Judge Manton.

SEIZE COLLEGE GOODS TO PAY ANARCHY FINE

Mena, Ark., Nov. 22 (AP).—Polk county authorities have taken possession, under a writ of execution, of the property of Commonwealth college, former resident Labor school near Mena, for sale on Dec. 4 to satisfy a $2,500 fine assessed on a charge of anarchy and two allied accusations.

Five truckloads of the school's property, including 19 cows and other farm animals, are in Mena in custody of Constable Arthur Means pending the sale. The property also included 1,000 books, furniture, printing equipment, farm machinery, and 500 gallons of canned fruits, vegetables, and meat.

The college, which ceased operations Aug. 30 after 17 years as a labor school, was convicted Sept. 24 by Justice of the Peace Clem Brown here on the anarchy charge and charges of failure to display the United States flag and displaying an "illegal emblem," which, witnesses said, was a hammer and sickle insignia embedded in concrete at the school's main building. The charges are misdemeanors.

BICYCLIST KILLED BY AUTO.

Normal, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—Jesse Gannaway, 60 years old, janitor at the Fairview Tuberculosis sanitorium, was killed here last night when the bicycle he was riding was struck by an automobile driven by Ivory Mishler of Hudson. Mishler said he did not see Gannaway because lights of approaching cars blinded him.

OFFERS TO UNDERGO BRAIN OPERATION IN PHILIPPINE SPY CASE

Manila, Nov. 22 (AP).—Capt. Rufo Romero, court martialed on a charge of conspiring to sell military information, offered today to undergo a brain operation to eliminate any possibility of mental reproduction of the information in question.

The Filipino officer, a West Point graduate, made his dramatic offer at his trial after a sweeping denial of charges that he had taken maps from Fort McKinley with intent to dispose of information about Philippine defenses.

"I didn't conspire to disclose any military secrets," he said, adding that if the court believed he was able to mentally reproduce the maps, he was willing to submit to a brain operation which would forever eliminate the possibility of mental reproduction. He offered to retire from the army after the operation.

The maps were found, government agents said, in the locked trunk of Capt. Romero's automobile. Capt. Romero explained that he had been working on the maps in his official capacity and had intended to return them to his office at Fort McKinley, but his American wife had the key to the trunk and the agents seized the maps before he could return them.

COUNCIL OPENS HEARINGS NEXT WEEK ON BUDGET

Invites Citizens to Give Their Opinions.

The annual aldermanic headache—preparation of the city budget for the following year—is scheduled to annoy members of the council finance committee earlier this year than usual. The committee is inviting civic organizations and interested citizens to come to the council chambers in the city hall next Wednesday and Thursday to give them advance dope on how the public thinks the city should spend its money in 1941.

"Under the law," Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], finance committee chairman, explained last night, "public hearings on the budget are held after the finance committee completes its budgetary recommendation and before it is submitted to the council for passage.

January Called Too Late.

"Civic groups have complained that in the past the hearings have been held in January, too late to mean anything. The real committee work has been done and serious changes would completely upset the budget. So this year we decided to give protestants a chance before we start committee work on the budget. The customary hearings will also be held when the work is completed."

The finance committee is scheduled to start its review of departmental estimates and recommendations received from Controler Robert B. Upham on Monday, Dec. 2.

Upham faces the task of paring down departmental estimates, which total approximately $61,000,000, to $56,000,000, the estimated corporate revenue for 1940. Upham explained yesterday that departmental estimates include requests for 350 new policemen and 400 new firemen. For the third successive year the fire department is trying to get $200,000 for a new fire boat. He said the health and law departments are asking slightly less than their 1940 appropriations.

Survey Committee to Report.

Another factor involved in budget preparation this year is the report of the budget survey committee authorized last March to study the 1940 budget and make suggestions for 1941. The committee, sponsored by the city, Chicago Association of Commerce and Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, now is studying recommendations on city jobs made by a staff of experts. The survey is not complete but it has been reported that the final report may recommend that from 400 to 500 pay rollers be dropped. The completed study and recommendation will be made to the finance committee early in December.

Last night both Mayor Kelly and Ald. Arvey agreed that while some jobs must go, 400 is a "high figure."

"Last year we culled out 350 'deadwood' jobs ourselves," Ald. Arvey said. "I don't see how many more can be dropped if we are to continue to give adequate public service."

ASSAIL EVANSTON TAXI ORDINANCE; RATES BOOSTED

Civic organizations and residents of Evanston were organizing yesterday to oppose a new taxicab ordinance which was passed by the Evanston city council last Monday. The ordinance raises taxi fares 15 to 30 per cent, provides for 10 cents additional for each extra passenger, prohibits drivers from picking up fares at bus stands, and empowers a commission to regulate the cabs.

Opposing groups contend the rate increase is unwarranted. Attorney W. Russell Arrington of the Evanston Young Republican club and representatives of other groups will ask Mayor Penfield to veto the ordinance at the next council meeting Monday.

"The cab companies reported that they were making money operating at the old rates and were willing to continue them," Arrington said. "The ordinance was passed without giving the public an opportunity to be heard."

The ordinance was introduced by Ald. Tommy Airth, chairman of the taxicab committee. Corporation Counsel A. W. Craven Jr. said that a measure which he drew calling for lower rates was not considered.

STELLE PLAYING SANTA WITH BAG FULL OF JOBS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—Gov. John Stelle is passing out Christmas presents in the form of jobs to a hundred or so of his friends. He's putting them on state pay rolls, where they can draw salaries until Dwight Green is inaugurated as governor Jan. 13.

There has been a steady trickle of jobseekers thru the governor's office to see Pete Rossiter, the new patronage boss. This is giving rise to rumors that 500 or 600 pay rollers are to be fired for fighting Stelle's candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination last spring.

Some of the appointments are being made without firing any one. Department heads last spring reduced the number of jobs because of the threatened deficit and these positions are being filled, since Stelle doesn't have to worry about deficits any more.

SAVED SOLDIER'S LIFE; OFFICER TO RECEIVE MEDAL

The soldier's medal, highest peacetime award for heroism in the American army, will be presented formally to Second Lieutenant Goodman K. Larson at 9 a. m. today at Fort Sheridan.

Lieut. Larson was awarded the medal by the war department for plunging into the Sabine river to rescue a soldier who had been swept away by strong currents near Toledo, Tex., during maneuvers last May 8. Larson's home is in Madison, Minn.

Brig. Gen. Clyde R. Abraham, commander of the fort, will present the medal at a special review of the 61st coast artillery regiment to which Lieut. Larson, a reserve officer on extended active duty, is attached. Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, commander of the second army, will attend the presentation and review.

Suit for $100,000 under the dram shop act was filed in Superior court yesterday on behalf of Mrs. Alice Conley, 7609 Perry avenue, and her four minor children against Philip Doyle, owner of a tavern at 4123 Wentworth avenue, and Daniel Minahan, former owner of another tavern at 518 West 43d street. Mrs. Conley's husband, Charles, was shot and fatally wounded June 18 near Doyle's tavern. Minahan was indicted on a murder charge in connection with the shooting, but was acquitted.

GREEN SWAMPED BY APPLICANTS FOR STATE JOBS

No Decisions Made; All Pleas Considered.

Dwight H. Green, Illinois' governor elect, admitted yesterday that the flood of applications for state appointments under his administration is so great that he has been compelled to use a filing system to handle them.

The center of such a system is a card index, a bit of office equipment that in the past has been condemned by campaign orators as the heart of a political machine. Green has found it impossible to keep track of the horde of job seekers without one. He still denies, however, that the use of it will lead to the building up of a Green machine.

The governor elect explained that fairness to those who have written him, telephoned him, or called on him either in their own interest or in behalf of some one else required that the record of all such matters be kept in an orderly, businesslike manner. An experienced man has been placed in charge of the records.

All Get Consideration.

Members of Green's informal staff also said that the addition of a man's name to the file does not mean that, in the frequent meaning given the expression, it has been placed on file. All are to be given consideration, it was said.

"All I'm doing now is listening," said Green. "That alone takes all my time for the present as I have a great number of calls from both individuals and delegations. Those who call are told that they may send in applications.

"Nothing is to be decided now. The pressure is too great to prevent proper consideration of these important matters, and I shall not make any decisions until I am sure my judgment is right."

Cold to Suggestions.

Green has refused to listen to suggestions that he follow the course pursued by some election winners in the past, that of winking at "complimentary mentions" in the newspapers of place seekers even tho the aspirations of those individuals have not been passed upon. He has said that he will not be responsible for the publication of any names until his own decisions are final.

Associates of Green said he had been aroused by reports that H. I. Williamson, a member of the Republican state central committee from the Springfield district and owner of a printing establishment, has printed forms for state job applications which he says must be filled out and returned to him if the applicants are to receive any consideration from Green. Green said he has not authorized Williamson to take such a step.

QUIZ 2 ELECTION BOARD OFFICIALS IN FRAUD INQUIRY

Harry A. Lipsky, chairman of the board of election commissioners, and Harold Marski, chief of the record division, appeared yesterday before the federal grand jury investigating alleged vote frauds at the Nov. 5 election. They appeared in answer to subpenas obtained by J. Albert Woll, United States attorney.

Neither Lipsky nor Marski would comment on the nature of their testimony. Marski's duties include compiling vote totals and the canvassing sheets and supervising records of all board employés and polls officials. William B. Daly, a member of the board, who also was subpenaed, appeared, but the jury did not have time to question him. He will appear again Monday.

Woll returned yesterday from Washington, D. C., where he conferred with United States Attorney Maurice M. Milligan of Kansas City, Mo., who is in charge of the national vote fraud investigation. It was expected that the life of the present grand jury, which expires next month, will be extended for at least another month.

WEISS, FORMER HUEY LONG AID, ENTERS PRISON

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 22 (AP).—Grim faced and pale, Seymour Weiss, wealthy New Orleans hotel man and lieutenant of the late Huey P. Long, entered the federal penitentiary today to begin serving a four year term.

Brought with him from New Orleans by two federal agents, were Louis C. Lesage, former oil company official, and J. Emory Adams, a relative of Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State university, who is now in prison. Lesage and Adams are under sentence of one year each.

Weiss, former treasurer of Long's political organization, pleaded guilty Tuesday to three charges of income tax evasion and one conspiracy to violate the Connally "hot oil" act. Judge Wayne G. Borah sentenced him to four years to run concurrently with an earlier sentence of 30 months for defrauding the state university of $75,000 thru the sale of hotel property. Lesage and Adams were convicted in the hotel property case.

Cleveland (O.) Restaurant Bombed; Police Car Rocked

Cleveland, O., Nov. 23, Saturday (AP).—A bomb exploded early today at a downtown Cleveland restaurant operated by Stouffer corporation, tearing a hole in the floor. A police car, which was cruising near the restaurant, was blown nearly over by the concussion from the explosion. One man was seriously injured. The blast followed by one day a similar explosion in a Philadelphia restaurant operated by the Stouffer corporation. Vernon B. Stouffer, president of the firm, said he knew of "no cause" for the Philadelphia bombing.

Wins Divorce

Mrs. Lois Thompson Nicholson.

Mrs. Lois Thompson Nicholson, 20 years old, daughter of John Thompson Jr., an official of the restaurant chain, was awarded an uncontested divorce yesterday before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington from Edward C. Nicholson, part owner of the Marigold Gradens. Mrs. Nicholson charged cruelty, testifying that last May 25, the day before she separated from her husband, he twisted her wrists. A sister, Miss Eleanor Thompson, corroborated her story. The Nicholsons were married Jan. 2, 1939.

Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr., counsel for Mrs. Nicholson, announced that she will resume her maiden name and will receive a $2,500 cash settlement and $200 a month alimony. She lives with her parents at 1549 Astor street.

LATE IN SUMMER DATES ARE URGED FOR CONVENTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—Representative Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] suggested today that the national political conventions should be held in August or September rather than in June.

Representative E. M. Dirksen. [Tribune Studio Photo.]

In a letter to Joseph W. Martin Jr., chairman of the Republican national committee, Dirksen declared that there were no longer any valid reasons for permitting a period of five to six months to elapse between the time candidates for the Presidency are selected and the November election. In past decades, he noted, transportation was slow and many months were needed to thoroly acquaint the voters of the land with the issues.

Dirksen said he was advancing the suggestion at this time so that the national committee might have plenty of time to properly consider it before the next convention in 1944.

HOOT MON! SCOTS DINE TONIGHT AT FEAST OF HAGGIS

There'll be broad Scots talk, a skirling of the pipes, wild border ballads, and a grand banquet table tonight in the Stevens hotel when Chicagoans of Scottish descent gather for the 95th anniversary dinner of the Illinois St. Andrew society, the Feast of the Haggis.

And of course the main course will be the haggis, this year prepared in Glasgow and shipped across the ocean on a perilous voyage. The haggis is a Scotch pudding made of the hearts and livers of sheep, mixed with onions and herbs, boiled in the stomach of a ewe lamb, and served steaming hot wi' a' the honors.

There are other delicacies on the menu, to wit: Shrimps frae Peterhead, Caledonia brother, gigot o'haggie [leg of lamb], with barley and neeps [turnips], toasted baps [buns], Strathpeffer celery, Auchterarder olives, roastit bubbly jock, packed fu' [roast Tom turkey, stuffed]; Stranraer cranberries, Machline sweet tatties, Ecclefechan beans, Balmacarra salad with Glenlivet dressing, unco cauld cream a' lichted up [ice cream served with an illuminated Statue of Liberty], Abernethy biskits, peppermint sweeties, and a 'sma' cup o' Java.

53 YOUTHS OF 17 APPLY AS NAVY CUTS AGE LIMIT

Fifty-three youths of 17 have applied this week for enlistment in the navy under the new policy lowering the age limit from 18 to 17. A total of 107 applied, which means that one applicant in every two since the new policy was announced last Saturday has been 17 years old.

The navy announced the new policy when its recruiting rate fell off coincident with the beginning of the draft.

Capt. Lauris M. Eek, commander of the air corps examining board which is examining prospective flying cadets in room 283 of the United States courthouse, said yesterday that 16 applicants had qualified this week. About 45 out of every 100 applicants pass the physical examination and meet the other requirements.

BROOKS SWORN IN AS SENATOR FROM ILLINOIS

Reaffirms Opposition to U. S. Entering War.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—C. Wayland Brooks was sworn in today as junior United States senator from Illinois. Brooks, a Republican, takes the seat and will serve out the term of the late James Hamilton Lewis [D.], which expires in 1943.

Brooks, accompanied to the desk of Senator William H. King [D., Utah], presiding officer of the senate, by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] took the oath to succeed James M. Slattery [D.], who had been serving by appointment and whom Brooks defeated in the Nov. 5 election. A senator's colleague from his own state customarily performs the duty of presenting a new senator, but Senator Scott W. Lucas was absent.

Brooks Issues Statement.

Brooks issued a short statement in which he voiced his gratitude to the people of Illinois for the "tremendous honor and opportunity for service given me by election to the United States senate."

Realizes Gravity of Times.

"During the course of the campaign I have presented to them my views and hopes for the future of America, particularly my definite opposition to involving our country in any foreign wars, and I shall faithfully carry out my pledge in this regard," he said.

"Realizing fully the gravity of these times, I shall give to each problem confronting our nation and our people, my conscientious and careful study and consideration."

Before Brooks was sworn in Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader, took cognizance of threats by Slattery that there might be a contest of the election results. Barkley said the senate would waive none of its rights in respect to seating Brooks by permitting him to take the oath of office at this time.

MICHIGAN CAN'T TELL WHETHER IT HAS LADY AS ACTING GOVERNOR

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 22 (AP).—Gov. Luren D. Dickinson left the state today and immediately the puzzle of "Who is acting governor?" confronted Michigan capitol circles.

Some said the state had its first woman acting governor.

If it did, she is Mrs. Matilda R. Wilson, widow of an automobile manufacturer, John F. Dodge. She was appointed lieutenant governor this week by the 81 year old Dickinson before he left to attend a national Anti-Saloon league convention at Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Wilson made no attempt today to exercise the prerogatives of the governor's office. Neither did Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, who was said by Attorney General Thomas Read to be the officer upon whom the governor's duties should devolve in Dickinson's absence.

Read contends Dickinson had no right to appoint Mrs. Wilson or any one else to be lieutenant governor.

7,000 APPLY FOR 99 POSITIONS AS ARMY HOSTESS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—The war department revealed today it is swamped with applications for the job of hostess at army camps, and that no further attention will be paid to letters from hopeful aspirants. About 7,000 applications for the 99 positions that are to be filled have been sent directly to Washington, and thousands of others have been made to the commanding officer of the corps area.

In an effort to discourage further applications, the war department made it clear that not more than 200 hostesses will be required even when the army has reached the limit of its expansion.

Most of the applications in person have been made at the headquarters of the eight corps areas in the country, it was, said. The applications made directly to the war department have been largely in the nature of inquiries, and the writers have been referred to the corps area in which they live.

HOUSE, SENATE MOVE TO AVOID A CATASTROPHE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—The house and senate both voted today to abandon their usual quarters temporarily because of fears that a 120 ton roof might fall in on the members.

During the six weeks until a new congress is convened on Jan. 3, temporary steel trusses will be installed to hold safely the cast iron roof now supported by ancient rolled iron beams. Engineers say these old beams are suffering from "fatigue."

Beginning Monday the senate will meet in the old Supreme court room of the capitol. The house will use a caucus room across the street.

Youth Freed on Charge of Hurling Egg at Willkie

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 22 (AP).—Police Judge Robert S. Starcher today dismissed a disorderly conduct charge placed against George Lipton, 18 years old, after an egg spattered the automobile in which Wendell L. Willkie rode while on an election campaign visit here Oct. 18. Lipton, a mailing room employé for a publishing company, testified he tossed the wrapper from a candy bar in the general direction of the Republican Presidential nominee's car, but that he had no knowledge of the egg throwing.

KILLS SELF WITH MOTOR FUMES

John Sajatovich, 23 years old, 5310 South Kilbourn avenue, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling motor fumes thru a hose attached to the exhaust of his automobile at his father's home at 5553 South Kolmar avenue.

NEW ORLEANS FISTICUFFS.

The conventions of the American Federation of Labor, it should be understood, are usually orderly to the point of dullness. The proceedings do not differ greatly from those of the house of representatives, altho the oratory usually is not so bad.

It is perhaps for the reason that picket line tactics are so definitely not the thing at A. F. of L. meetings that any resort to violence there can be regarded as significant. The last time the convention saw any fisticuffs was in 1935, when John L. Lewis socked William L. Hutcheson of the carpenters. That probably had no influence on the formation of the C. I. O., but it contributed no little to the bitterness that keeps the two labor factions split.

The assault on David Dubinsky by Joseph Fay, a New York labor leader who has been questioned by police concerning at least one labor murder, served to dramatize the issue that may plague the A. F. of L. as much in the next five years as the C. I. O. has in the last five. Dubinsky is the leader of the fight to have the A. F. of L. do something effective to expel racketeers and gangsters from its ranks. Fay, just before the encounter, had been sitting at a table with George Browne, head of the stage hands' union. The exploitation of that union by hoodlums has done as much as any other one thing to prejudice the public against the A. F. of L. on the gangster issue.

Dubinsky is an appropriate leader for the movement against gangsters, for that is essentially a movement on behalf of the rank and file of working union membership and he is one of the working union membership, and he is one of the labor leaders most responsive to the wishes of his own members. He has to be if he wants to continue as their leader, because the ladies' garment workers have kept in their own hands the control of their union affairs.

It is noteworthy that the Ladies' Garment Workers' union has one of the most complete systems for reporting its financial transactions to its members that exists in trade union practice. Financial responsibility is one of the keys to honest union administration. The other key is a system of elections of union officials that is proof against crookedness and intimidation. Given honest financial reports and fair elections, union members can get rid of gangster parasites without outside help.

Dubinsky and those backing him in his fight see the handwriting on the wall more clearly than do the members of the A. F. of L. executive council [including George Browne], who would like to pass the situation over with a few pious platitudes. The reformers recognize that if the reform is not accomplished within the ranks of labor it will be forced from without by public statutes.

The platitude artists have already scored a victory on the other labor front, that of the C. I. O. There, for tactical reasons, Sidney Hillman is trying to purge the communists who are supporting his rival, John L. Lewis. The C. I. O. convention passed a resolution denouncing communist and Fascist governments, which means nothing, but balked at one denying office to communists or Fascists, which would have meant a great deal.

THE RISE OF COLUMNISTS.

The newspaper word, columnist, has taken on a new meaning in recent years. For a long time the columnist was, as a rule, a humorist and more often than not his column appeared in only one newspaper. Now he is generally a political commentator and his syndicated material appears in many newspapers.

The New Deal gave an immense impetus to this business and the reasons why it did so are by no means creditable to the newspapers. As soon as the early summer of 1933, when the New Deal developed its characteristic trend, the great majority of responsible editors recognized the menace and in their hearts, if not always in their newspapers, opposed it.

Many of these men were beset by fear. Their courage had been shaken in the drastic deflation which began in 1929 and now, in addition, they had ample reason to believe the press was threatened by the administration. To mollify the powers in Washington many of these editors and publishers decided to open their pages to the propaganda of the New Dealers, put out in the form of syndicated columns.

Much of the stuff so printed was false and much more was abusive and misleading, and it is not to be doubted that editors knew it for what it was. They printed it, however, accepting as they had to the legal responsibility for publication, but dodging the moral responsibility by pretending to themselves that the editor was not accountable for the opinions expressed by the columnist. Perhaps that formula salved and still salves some consciences, but they cannot be very active ones.

There was another type of timid editor who saw the evils of the New Deal but dared not expose them in his own words on his own editorial page. He hoped he could escape official displeasure by publishing the daily offering of a columnist who was known to be unfriendly to the New Deal. Here again the editor sought hypocritically to hide behind somebody else.

It can't be done. The fact is that the editor is accountable for what he prints. He cannot lend his cannon to any one else to shoot without accepting responsibility for the consequences.

HITLER IN CONTROL OF EUROPE.

From a ceremonial grouping of the luminaries of Germany, Italy, Japan, and Hungary, in Vienna, came the announcement that Hungary had become a treaty partner of the dominant continental powers. Herr Hitler, for the occasion, surrounded himself with the flower of his military and diplomatic advisers. It was announced that other continental nations would join up shortly. It is expected that Spain and Bulgaria may be among them, if not Jugo-Slavia.

In August, last year, Hitler had Austria, Bohemia, Moravia, and Slovakia. He made an alliance, called a nonaggression pact, with Russia. In September he went to war. Before the end of a year's war he had taken Denmark and Norway, he invaded and took the Netherlands, Luxemburg, and Belgium with incredibly swift action, and thereupon overran France and now dictates to it. In less than two years he has made himself master, or the master influence, on continental Europe.

Without warfare he has reduced Rumania. By agreements dictated at the gunpoint, or promoted by the despair of the signers, he has consolidated Europe as it never was consolidated before. His scheme of things will consist of conquered countries, countries accepting what he offers because they see no alternative, and countries which agree because they think it the only profitable course to pursue.

What comes of this no one can foresee. There will be a union of Europe, and that in the past has been regarded by altruists as a solution of problems and the salvation of civilization. But the altruists didn't contemplate such a union as Hitler is forming. They planned for the consent of the governed. They didn't think the compelling reasons would be found in Goering's bombers and Keitel's panzer divisions.

The Nazi announcement of Hungary's acceptance and of future plans speaks of creating "a new epoch in the history of Europe's peoples since, in place of a policy of hatred born of bloodshed, they have introduced understanding and insight." The understanding seems to have been born of high explosives and the new fraternity of man to be activated by Herr Himmler's secret police, but, nevertheless, the world is approaching a fact accomplished, for whatever purposes it will reveal or for whatever durability it will have.

Presumably it will be an economic union in which the productive activity of the nations and of their peoples will be controled by denial of political liberty. What the world faces is a tremendous event, occurring, it would appear, with miraculous swiftness. Parallelism would consider the Napoleonic era. At what might be selected as the high point of his continental scheme Napoleon had Belgium and the Netherlands. His brother, Louis, had been made king of Holland; his brother, Joseph, king of Naples. The Confederation of the Rhine consisted of the states of southern Germany, and Napoleon was president. At Tilsit he, as the emperor of the west, concluded a pact of friendship with Czar Alexander, the emperor of the east, with the idea of dividing Turkey. Prussia had been conquered. To secure Spain Napoleon transferred his brother, Joseph, from Naples to Madrid and put him on the throne of Charles IV., Murat taking over Naples.

Thus Napoleon's power at its peak extended from the English channel to the Baltic, where the Hanseatic towns of Bremen and Hamburg had been annexed, across all of continental Europe and, in collaboration with Russia, was pointed toward the southeast thru Turkey. But British sea power still remained.

Napoleon had not been able to invade England and, altho his armies seemed invincible and his genius unfailing, his structure began to disintegrate. The Spaniards arose and their spirit spread over Europe. A holy war for national independence was incited. Alexander of Russia, in fear that the reconstitution of Poland was planned, abandoned his ally and denounced the blockade. Napoleon was led into the Moscow campaign and lost his grand army.

The Prussian government, which had professed fidelity, proclaimed a war of liberation and unmasked its hidden army against him. Holland was in revolt. Troops of the German confederation betrayed him. Bernadotte of Sweden betrayed him. The peoples he had almost brought together in a reconstructed Europe tore down the structure built upon their loss of national independence.

On April 11, 1814, at Fontainebleau, the great idea was dead. Napoleon abdicated and Waterloo did not change his destiny.

Hitler has gone further and faster than Napoleon, but three things which confronted the French emperor confront the Nazi Fuehrer—British sea power, which is as yet unbroken; the unreliability of the Russian alliance, and the volcanic powers latent in peoples who have lost their liberties.

DOUBLE KNOCKOUT.

[Indianapolis News.]

On Nov. 5 the voters of Indiana knocked the 2 Per Cent club thru the ropes and out for the count. The blow landed on a vital part of the 2 Per Cent club—the state pay roll. It was so aimed, timed, and powered that no one expected the doctors to take more than one look. It was a mortician's job.

But a week later Governor Elect Schricker dragged it from its forgotten couch and officially knocked it out all over again. Since the kindliness and geniality of the governor elect would never permit him to sock even a groggy enemy, why did he thus disturb the coma of the bankrupt 2 Per Cent club? One guess is that he saw signs of life.

If statehouse rumors are to be credited, the club will be laid away under a new name. At the very last it was called the 100 Per Cent club. It was so dubbed by the faithful who, after shelling out 2 per cent for many years, found that they were 100 per cent out of a job.

It is said that most of the 2 Per Cent club shakedown artists, and even some of the higherups, are taking a rest. Travel has claimed them. Some, it is understood, inquired before departing whether the statute of limitations has run on the club's officers under the corrupt practices act before the 1939 assembly amended it to help them sleep. If not, they may soon return—or be returned—to Indiana. They may learn in time that politics has no fury like an ousted 2 Per Center.

Many voters who believed all the campaign orators said will be pleasantly surprised this morning to find that the man on their doorstep is a bill collector, and not Hitler.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Word comes of a North Carolina hen, who certainly doesn't know her onions, trying to hatch a setting of them.—Arkansas Gazette.

TAKING A LOOK AROUND TOWN.

Find a wall that reflects the morning sun with a grassy vacant lot beside it; and there you will find, late in November, a few dwarfed dandelions in bloom. We saw them on Thanksgiving day, brave survivors of the low temperatures that rode into town on the Big Wind.

The cross on St. Mary's of the Lake, at Sheridan road and Buena avenue, is slightly askew. It is a casualty, no doubt, of the storm of Nov. 11. It has been bent off the perpendicular just enough to have the effect of a picture improperly hung. . . . This is an outline cross in metal, unusual in church architecture. The first time we ever saw it was in the company of the late Floyd Gibbons, who described it, quite neatly, as "a spirit cross."

* * *

If the subway causes the removal of the "El" structure from Wabash avenue and Lake street, in the loop, we're going to have a hard time getting used to the new order of things. Streets that spend a generation or two in the shadow of an elevated railroad acquire a Dickensy character. . . . We inspected 6th avenue, New York, immediately after it had been deprived of its elevated, and found it painfully naked.

While bird walking in Calvary cemetery this fall, looking and listening for migrating warblers, we came across a footnote to one of Chicago's greatest news stories. It is a plain block of black granite, bearing the inscription: "Dr. P. H. Cronin, 1846-'89. Rest in peace." Location, close to the eastern boundary, and north of the central drive.

LETTER TO UNCLE SAM.

(Introducing Mr. Herbert Hoover.)

Dear Uncle Sam: Yer heart an' hand
Hae open been tae every land
That struggles hard wi' failing breath
'Gainst pestilence, starvation, death.
Tae ye I am appealing since,
By any standard, ye're a prince.
The bearer o' this wee bit note
(I never gied tae him a vote)
Has something strange wi'in his heid:
He thinks the hungry ye should feed.
Noo, certain brithers o' the cloth,
Whose words mind me o' Hun an' Goth,
Hae joined wi' mony a windy Prof
Charity's kindly cloak tae doff.
But gruff auld Herb has ta'en a look
Wi'in a certain weel kenned book
An' there, in letters plain as day,
His scheme receives a big O. K.
I recommend then, uncle dear,
That ye his plan should fairly hear;
On war's hysteria place a curb,
An gie the sign: "Go to it, Herb!"
Tho armchair strategists wull moan,
An' mongers o' red war wull groan,
Yet when the record's read, I ween,
Yer hands, dear uncle, wull be clean.

Confessions of a Cooking Husband.

I am one of the brotherhood who like to cook. But different—use the jigger instead of a measuring cup. Also brag too much to the billiard gang about my chowders, ragouts, and pastries, and get the impolite razzberry. Okeh, I say, the missus is in the Smokies getting southern indigestion, the kitchen's mine; any you termites that's been napkin trained is eligible for a demonstration.

Yep, I get 'em up a 14 per cent to 90 proof banquet; Madeira wine in the fish chowder, stuffed flank steaks baked in rum, spiked onions, troubled potatoes, cranberry sauce cake messed up with applejack, Chinese cheese cakes in rice whisky, and brandied coffee. Little knickknacks like that with something to drink before, between, and during courses. From the zoolike uproar coming from the dining room as I dash back and forth from stove to table, I know everything is on the up-and-up.

In the A. M. the bunch stumble down the stairs to cluster on the lower landing and stick there. From above, speeding the et cetera, it looks like a brass rail harmony is about to ferment. Having in mind a little dishwashing and the police, I inquire what goes on. Andy pipes up, "We're matching to see who gets you in case anything happens to the missus." They darn near take the front door off the hinges getting out, and s'elp me, I need a drink. Chiggers [the Chef].

CHARACTER AND HEALTH GO HAND IN HAND.

WE CANNOT deny that many a youngster with a good inheritance is handicapped by an unhappy home life. The development of mental stability and poise depends upon wise direction, including firm and kindly discipline. Then, too, we can understand the likes and dislikes that affect deportment. How many parents make a real effort to "know" their offspring? Many think they do, but they fail utterly, and the reasons are clear.

In the first place, we must recall that feelings govern conduct. When the tot acts unreasonably we must ask the question: Is there anything wrong physically? If he is tired, sleepy, hungry, thirsty, or in pain, he will be anything but mama's good little boy, and it will not be his fault. In similar circumstances, even grownups may not be their normal, pleasant selves.

There are no experts in child guidance quite equal to mother. Neither science nor knowledge can replace maternal instinct and love. It is assumed, of course, that both parents possess common sense in generous quantities and that they are endowed with an earnest desire to give to their sons and daughters all the affection which they crave so much. A badly behaved boy or girl with the label UTTERLY SPOILED all too frequently is the victim of a stormy home environment.

When conflicts appear they must be settled once and for all. The greatest possible sin is overindulgence in which protection is stressed unduly. The result is a lad who cannot stand on his own feet and who has difficulty in thinking for himself.

Some years ago I witnessed the outcome of intrusting the care of young children wholly to servants. No matter how intelligent, honorable, and worthy they may be, there is no surer means of destroying respect. Old fashioned maxims do not change. It was John Locke who, more than two centuries ago, laid down fundamental rules for training. One of his pertinent sentences will bear repetition. "It, therefore, the father caress and commend them [the children] when they do well, show a cold and neglectful countenance to them upon doing ill, and this accompanied by a like carriage of the mother and all others that are about them, it will, in a little time, make them sensible of the difference."

Childhood tendencies that are good make for stalwart men and women. "Spare the rod and spoil the child" may not be applied literally, for the "rod" in this sense typifies obedience. More often than not rigid rules and regulations will not be required. Rather should we expect a type of behavior which no one will "break over."

In the last analysis parents cannot escape responsibility for the building of character. If their progeny become law breakers later in life, somewhere along the line they have failed. Science cannot step in and point out the thousand and one influences that have been neglected. If the home cannot be the center of interest, something is amiss. The boy or girl possessed of sufficient imagination will, in the humblest surroundings, be so occupied with his chores and his play that there will be little time to join the "gang on the corner."

If every youngster can be interested, he will become interesting. When busy or amused he will love his hearthstone beyond all else, particularly if affection is the dominant note.

BIG TOE.

Mrs. N. H. writes: Is a "leaking" large toe a symptom of disease? A fluid of some sort has been oozing from the large toe on my left foot. I have varicose veins on the left leg and the ankle is badly swollen most of the time.

REPLY.

The primary cause is poor circulation, indicated by the presence of varicose veins. Because of the swelling the skin has no doubt cracked, allowing seepage of serum. If not already infected, bacteria will complicate the situation sooner or later. Skilled care should be sought without delay.

VITAMIN D.

E. B. F. writes: Why do children need vitamin D during the autumn and winter months?

REPLY.

Growing youngsters require this food accessory for the manufacture of strong bones and firm teeth. It is prepared in the skin by the action of the direct rays of the sun. In our latitude this force is negligible during the cold season. A teaspoonful of a good grade of cod liver oil daily will supply the deficiency.

EXPERIMENTAL.

T. S. T. writes: Is there a shorter method of treating syphilis than the one that has been used up to now?

REPLY.

Experiments now under way provide for the continuous administration [for a few days] of spirochete-killing drugs. Results so far reported are encouraging.

NOT INHERITED.

R. E. G. writes: Is paralysis agitans inherited?

REPLY.

In most cases the disease is the result of an infection. It is not hereditary. Certain changes occur in the cortex of the brain which keep up the impulses to the muscles.

INFECTED SINUSES.

M. P. writes: What are the symptoms of frontal sinus trouble?

REPLY.

Pain in the forehead, chiefly in the vicinity of the eyes. A profuse, pusilke discharge from the nose indicates that drainage is taking place.

MILITARY REGISTRATION.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father came to the United States in 1908. He obtained his first papers in 1912 and his second papers in 1940. I was born in 1918 in this country. My mother [deceased] never became a citizen.

1. Am I considered an alien? My wife was born in this country as were her parents.
2. Has she [assuming I am an alien] lost her citizenship thru her marriage to me?
We have a child, one year old.
3. Must he be registered?
4. Am I an alien?
5. Can I be drafted?
6. What is the final date for alien registration?
7. If one has bought a home thru the FHA, and is drafted will home be taken if payments are not made during draft period? S. O.

1. No, you are a citizen by virtue of your birth in this country.
2. No.
3. No.
4. You are not an alien.
5. Yes, if otherwise eligible.
6. You are not subject to such registration.
7. It seems probable that allowances will be made.

The National Guard and selective training and service acts of 1940 both adopt most of the soldiers and sailors relief act of 1918. No default judgment is to be entered without either an affidavit that the defendant is not in military service or, in absence of such affidavit, the appointment of an attorney to protect the interests of the defendant. The court may also require a bond to protect the interests of the defendant against loss should the judgment thereafter be set aside. If a judgment is rendered against a person in service, and it appears that by reason of his service he was prejudiced in making his defense, the judgment may, not later than 90 days after the termination of service, be opened, upon showing of a meritorious defense, but such vacating of a judgment shall not impair any right acquired by a good faith purchaser under the judgment. Proceedings against a person in service may be stayed unless, in the opinion of the court, the ability of the person in service to prosecute or defend is not materially affected by his service.

There is provision for relief against fines and contract penalties. Execution and garnishment may be stayed unless the ability of the defendant to pay is not materially affected by his service. The period of military service shall not be included in applying the statute of limitations. No eviction or distress shall be made during the period of service as to premises whose rent does not exceed $50 per month, occupied chiefly by the dependents of the person in service, except upon leave of court, and on any such application the court shall stay the proceedings for not longer than three months unless the ability of the tenant to pay is not materially affected by his service. The pay of the person in service may be allotted in reasonable proportion to discharge the rent. Real estate purchase contracts shall not be forfeited as against persons in service, except by court action.

PARENT'S ESTATE.

Fort Sheridan, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am writing in regard to the decease of my father and stepmother. My stepmother was in a wreck returning from Florida last month and was badly hurt. It caused her death. My father died in Michigan state hospital about two weeks later. I never had been told of their deaths. I got it in a roundabout way about a month later. As I am my father's only son and I have one half-sister [1] wasn't I entitled to be notified or [2] are my other relatives holding out on the will?

Will you please answer this and [3] if I have a right to find out about the will. C. G.

1. If your father left no assets, then we see no need for probate proceedings.
2. We are not in a position to pass upon such questions of fact.
3. If your father left a will and an estate, then presumably the Probate court will have the will and you could obtain a copy from the clerk of the court.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 22.

1. You would be most likely to find a turnbuckle on a
Belt Guitar Bucksaw Pitchfork
2. If a man and his wife have the same size of heads, and his hat size is 7, his wife's hat is 21 21½ 22 22½.
3. Which of the following vegetables is grown from sets?
Radish Beet Rutabaga Onion
4. If a woman feels that her salpiglossis needs expert attention, should she call her Dentist Florist Dry Cleaner Physician.
5. How many yards of crochet cotton do the standard cones contain?
500 Yds. 600 Yds. 800 Yds. 1,000 Yds.
6. The bombing toll of English citizens in dead and injured is regarded as terrific. But the figures released by our own National Safety council showing the killed and injured in the United States last year should give us perspective and divert some of our hysteria to dangers frequently overlooked. You deserve one point for each correct matching of the 1939 death rates with the specific causes below:

[a] Deaths in motor vehicle accidents	[v] 32,000
[b] Deaths in home accidents	[w] 16,000
[c] Deaths in occupational accidents	[x] 32,600
[d] Deaths in public accidents [not motor vehicle]	[y] 15,000
[e] Total nonfatal accidents in the U. S. A.	[z] 8,800,000

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

SOLID SOUTH AN ANOMALY.

Paris, Ill., Nov. 20.—It seems to me it is time for some capable scholar to write the story of that anomalous and amazing empire within the United States called the "solid south." It should be done without prejudice, without rancor, calmly and analytically setting forth the actual situation in full if it can be discovered. The strange state of affairs south of Mason and Dixon's line which practically disfranchises millions of voters, white as well as black, is, I confess, beyond my comprehension. For the south has been voting a one party dictatorship ticket ever since the civil war. If the devil himself—or Hitler—were nominated by the Democrats I firmly believe most of the south would indorse him.

The familiar explanation, of course, is the bitterness engendered by the civil war, Negro suffrage, etc. But those ancient questions can hardly account for the south's utter subservience to one party today. Southerners fought valiantly for the United States since that war, and the wife of their own President has recently gone out of her way to recognize the Negro.

Narrow minded provincialism? But modern methods of travel and exchange should have overcome that long ago. We visit back and forth freely now, and our personal contacts are mutually pleasant and agreeable. We of the north no longer wave the "bloody shirt." Indeed, I doubt that the present generation here knows what the expression means. We fell for "Gone With the Wind" in a big way, although it was, in a way, confederate propaganda. We wept over the terrible trials undergone by the Georgian, and our sympathy and indignation were genuine.

Northerners recognize the intelligence and culture and appreciate the fine hospitality of the southern people. By us up north they are considered compatriots and brothers of whom we are really fond and proud. And yet: Every four years, without regard to candidates or issues, those people go to the polls and vote, as the totalitarian Germans do, the same one party ticket. Votes in northern states vary in accordance with conditions. Their citizens are swayed by arguments and issues. They are free and independent. The people down south apparently are not. Why? E. O. L.

ANOTHER NOON-DAY CHAPEL.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Of all the letters you have received in response to the one urging "Chapels in the Loop," not one has mentioned the inspirational service that is held every noon in the Grand Opera house at 121 N. Clark street. The first half hour is given to prayer and devotion after which a timely and comforting message is delivered by one of America's outstanding preachers. This last half hour is broadcast each day, making it possible for thousands to be cheered and encouraged. These services have been going on daily for the last ten years and, as one who has received much benefit from them, I want Malva Andre to add this chapel to her list.

MRS. P. D. GREEN.

PREPAREDNESS DELAYED.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The United States government gives a large contract to a manufacturer of airplanes and just as the plant starts running full tilt a supposedly American official of the C. I. O. calls a strike for a higher wage, thus delaying our preparedness program.

If it is proven that the employer is reaping too large a profit, and underpaying his employés, he should be brought to time. But work should continue without cessation until all government contracts are filled. A. H.

MARRIED COUPLES AT WORK.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Can some one tell me why married couples are allowed to hold jobs in the same office of the Federal Housing administration in the old Post-office building? Salaries paid to each are well above the average. It seems unfair that unmarried girls are deprived of this opportunity. MISS I. M. INTERESTED.

FEATHERS OF BARNYARD FOWL.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Answering the letter of E. C. Dow, humane education chairman:

Perhaps there were abuses in the past with regard to obtaining egret, paradise, eagle, etc. feathers, but the laws mentioned are still on the books forbidding the sale and importation of those feathers.

If the women's organizations would thoroly investigate the situation they would find that ostrich feathers and those of barnyard fowl—chicken, goose, turkey, pigeon—are skilfully dyed and arranged to simulate rare species not obtainable and are in popular use.

Hats may "literally bristle with the long wing and tail feathers of large birds," but geese and turkeys are large birds and some chickens produce feathers of amazing size and beauty.

It does not hurt the ostrich to have its feathers removed and there are few people who object to having chicken, turkey, goose or other fowl served at their tables. Poultry houses simply sell the feathers plucked from birds sent to market.

Incidentally, how many women in the Federation of Women's Organizations own fur coats? DOROTHY ASCHEIM.

IN THE ARMY WITH RADIO AID.

Hume, Ill., Nov. 20.—Listening to the radio broadcast of the ceremonies at the induction of the first contingent of draftees into the army at Fort Sheridan, I wondered at the propaganda the administration in Washington is resorting to in order to work the country up to "war fever." Here was a total of 45 young men being inducted into army service with a radio hookup; the situation painted as a bed of roses and a health restorer. What did the radio hookup cost per man? Of course we are all for preparedness, but why don't they give the people credit for knowing something?

As an ex-service man I am saying that these boys will find out for themselves, if this war involves the United States, that army life is not a bed of roses, and the young men will be lucky if they return home after it is over all in one piece. It is easy enough for some $10,000 colonel, who will in all probability see the front line of his regiment only at review, to sit at a desk and tell these young men what a noble thing army life is, but I still think this is resorting to trickery. Let's economize on radio time and start to balance the budget.

ABOUT ALL-NIGHT PARKING.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Referring to your editorial, "Enforcing Parking Laws": You speak of all-night parking as being one of our minor problems. All-night parking is not a minor problem at this time of the year—when we may expect a heavy snowfall at any time. Night parking hampers the work of snow removal crews which we all depend on to keep the lanes of traffic open. All-night parking should at least be restricted along streets used by street cars and buses.

Double and angle parking should be restricted at all times, especially along routes used by local transportation carriers.

All obstructions on our city streets are required, by night, to be well lighted. Why shouldn't all-night parked trucks and cars be required to carry some sort of light? W. G. ECHOLS.

SNIP OFF THE AERIALS.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Vandals are apparently enjoying a prank with a new twist. I and another motorist found the radio aerials on our cars, which were parked outside along the curb in broad daylight, snipped off more than half. The pieces were not found anywhere in the vicinity of the cars.

Possibly the removed parts are being used as pea shooters. Motorists take heed! A. S. KOEHLER.

BARBERS' GROUPS SEEK TO CONTROL STATE LICENSING

Union, Owners Map Bill for New Board.

When the Illinois legislature convenes next Jan. 8 it will be asked to consider a measure which, in effect, will take barber shop regulation and inspection away from the state and place it in the hands of the United Master Barbers of Illinois and the barbers' union.

The measure, creating a barbering code authority to fix prices, wages, and hours, has been likened to the NRA codes, outlawed by the United States Supreme court. Under the proposed code, barbers' annual licenses would be raised from the present $1 to $2.50.

Three to Five New Jobs Envisioned.

The authority would be empowered to seize books and records, to hold hearings, and to punish violators by fines and imprisonment. The measure, if enacted, would create from three to five new state jobs, carrying substantial salaries.

Present plans call for an authority of five men. Two would be nominated by the master barbers—one from downstate and one from Chicago—and two by the barbers' union. A fifth man would be named by the governor.

Since the code authority plan was launched there have been charges that it is a move to force independent barbers into the master barbers' organization and the union.

Price Wars Recalled.

Chicago has had a turbulent history of barbers' price wars, marked by bombings and vandalism. In April, 1935, however, Judge John P. McGoorty, in the Superior court, issued an injunction fixing 50 and 25 cents as the minimums for haircuts and shaves. The writ was based on the premise that courts may halt ruinous competition.

The new code measure's general form was agreed upon recently at a meeting of Chicago and downstate barbers in Hotel Sherman. The bill will be written and introduced by Representative Leroy Green [R., Rockford].

As now planned it will be materially different from one written and introduced at the last session by Representative Leo D. Crowley [R., Peoria]. The first measure died with several other bills at the close of the session. It provided for a license increase to $4 for all journeymen barbers and for a payment by all master barbers [shop owners] of $4 a year for each chair in his shop, whether a chair was idle or not.

Chair Tax Plan Abandoned.

So much opposition arose among both master and journeymen barbers that it was decided to reduce the $4 fees to $2.50 in each case and free master barbers of the necessity of paying for idle chairs. Even this, however, was opposed at the recent meeting by the master barbers thru their secretary-treasurer, Frank Aliotta, 188 West Randolph street. As a result the chair tax is expected to be dropped from the bill, each master barber paying a $2.50 fee, just as do the journeymen.

"The higher chair tax, combined with the journeymen's license fee, would have brought in about $300,000 a year, much more than is needed," Aliotta said yesterday. "We are willing to pay whatever the code authority needs to have to operate, but we do not propose to build up a big fund for politicians to juggle.

Public Protection Called Aim.

"The chief purpose of the authority would be to protect the public against unsanitary conditions in barber shops. Consider: Your barber places his hands upon your face, your eyes, your mouth. You are exposed to danger if conditions in his shop are not as they should be.

"Downstate in some shops conditions are terrible. The same towel is used 10 to 15 times. Prices are low. The shops charge whatever they can get. They can't afford to use a clean towel on each patron.

"And this brings us to the second purpose of the plan: To regulate prices to a level fair for all. In this way the first purpose of the bill is then achieved. If the barber makes a living wage he can afford to be sanitary."

Tell Another Side of Story.

A somewhat different picture is given, however, by Adolph J. Meadel, chief inspector for the state department of registration and education, who is in charge of the present inspection system.

"We have about 40 inspectors, 12 of them assigned to Chicago," Meadel said. "They make from four to six inspections of each shop a year. They have been trained in their work, and when they find unsanitary conditions they report it to the state barbers' examining board, which can revoke a barber's license. If the guilty man continues to practice barbering after losing his license he is prosecuted. We already are doing the things proposed by the code measure."

Meadel was asked if his department receives many complaints from persons who charge they have contracted diseases in unsanitary shops.

Reports Few Complaints.

"In the last two years or so," he replied, "Illinois barbers have been required to obtain health certificates before receiving licenses. In that period there have been one or two complaints. These concerned a skin disease that is not serious—barber's itch, to be specific."

Chicago barbers who were interviewed stated the present inspection service is thoro and rigid. Sanitation is demanded and maintained, they said.

Considerable opposition to the proposed code authority was found among rank and file barbers. They oppose increasing the license fee and are against the plan to require them to surrender their books and records at the demand of a code authority agent. In addition there were the charges that the campaign is a move to force independent barbers to join the master barbers' organization or the International Journeymen Barbers' union. Of these charges, Aliotta said:

"There can be no secret about a man's barbering business. We know what he has to pay his help, what he pays for laundry, merchandise, rent, gas, and electricity. Further, it is to his advantage to coöperate with us in these matters. It helps establish a fair price scale.

"As to those who do not belong to the master barbers' association, I might say that in many cases we would not want them because of the low standards of their shops. The union and the association are protective organizations, intended to help both the working barber and the shop owner."

Aliotta stated that the increased license fee will mean that 22,000 barbers in Illinois will pay approximately $100,000 a year to the state. This includes, in addition to the $2.50 license, such fees as $5 for a student's application for apprenticeship, $5 for the apprentice's application for his journeyman's license, and $10 for state medical examination.

The salaries proposed in last year's measure for a three man authority were $6,000 each for the chairman and secretary, and $5,000 for the third member.

Arrives by Plane

Santa Claus waving greeting to children in State street yesterday after his arrival by air liner.

Santa Claus arrived here from his icicle castle at the north pole on a United Air Lines mainliner at 10:30 a. m. yesterday to open the Christmas buying season. He broadcast by short wave from the plane above the city and was welcomed later by Mayor Kelly at Chicago airport.

The center of a picturesque parade down State street, Santa Claus rode in a decorated wagon drawn by Wilson & Co.'s prize winning six horse hitch. The street was aglitter with its new holiday decorations and crowded with a quarter million spectators. The traffic police force in the loop was tripled to handle the throng.

After the parade, Santa Claus and part of his contingent went to the Palmer House for another broadcast from 11:30 to 11:45 a. m. The program was transmitted to the street crowds by four sound trucks.

WOMAN VISITOR DRIVES WILDLY, STAYS 10 DAYS

Mrs. Margaret De Grasse, 38 years old, of Oklahoma City, Okla., wound up her Thanksgiving trip to Chicago yesterday by beginning a 10 day sentence in the county jail for drunken driving. She was sentenced by Judge Frank M. Padden in Safety court. On the day before Thanksgiving Mrs. De Grasse attempted to drive away from the curb in front of 4930 Kenmore avenue, but smashed into two parked cars. She blamed a nerve tonic, but police testified she was intoxicated.

Gregorio Liva, a Mexican, of 4307 Ravenswood avenue, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for reckless driving on Thanksgiving day at Ashland avenue and Washington boulevard. Chester Wagner, 2529 North Marshfield avenue, was fined $100 for drunken driving. He drove past a stop light at Oak street and Michigan avenue on Nov. 2 and failed to heed a trafic policeman's warning whistle.

FACES LIFE TERM AT 63 AFTER 40 YEARS IN PRISON

Thomas Downs, who has spent 40 of his 63 years in prison, was started yesterday on the way to spending the rest of his life behind bars. Downs was held to the grand jury in $25,000 bonds by Judge George Quilici in Felony court on a charge of burglary and also faces indictment as a habitual criminal, which carries a sentence of life imprisonment.

On Nov. 6 Downs was looting the home of Judge Justin L. McCarthy at 130 North Long avenue when Mrs. McCarthy entered the house. Downs threatened her with a gun and fled. A week later he was shot and captured in a brush with police while fleeing from a burglary at 327 North Menard avenue.

Downs began his prison record in 1897 with two terms at Joliet penitentiary and has since served time in Massachusetts, California, and Indiana.

TWO BANDITS ROB SALESMAN.

Two men yesterday robbed Edward Goldman, 1217 South Keeler avenue, a salesman, of $3 and jewelry worth $130 after entering his car at Grand and Harlem avenues.

QUIT! SHOCKED INSTRUCTORS IN ENGLISH URGED

Dr. (How to Read) Adler Drops a Bombshell.

Dr. Mortimer J. Adler, the University of Chicago's young professor who tells people how to read books, dropped an educational bombshell into the laps of 1,000 English teachers assembled in the Stevens hotel yesterday. He recommended that for the good of education they eliminate themselves—commit academic suicide.

His proposal was received with sharp differences of opinion even tho he sugar coated the bitter pill of self-abolishment by praising English teachers as the "last vestige of the liberal tradition in our education."

Addresses Teachers' Council.

The sounding board for Prof. Adler's radical suggestion was the 30th annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of English. Nearly 4,000 teachers have registered for the sessions.

Prof. Adler prefaced his long talk with the remark that he hoped all the teachers knew, as he did, "how complete and dismal is the failure of liberal education in this country—at both high school and college level."

The result of this failure, he declared, has been the graduation of students who can read no better than sixth grade children, who cannot write well, or speak well, or listen well.

To correct this situation strenuous measures must be taken, he said. He suggested two alternatives. One of them is to adopt the curriculum known among educators as the St. John's curriculum. This course of study is an innovation at St. John's college, Annapolis, Md., and consists of the reading and discussion of the world's best books.

He Denounces Departments.

Under this system teachers are not simply teachers of English, but teachers of all the arts, apostles of culture. The plan abolishes departments, which Prof. Adler denounces as pernicious.

The other alternative is for English teachers to lead the way in the withdrawal of all teachers which, he said, will leave an educational vacuum into which will rush a more perfect type of education. In either case the English teacher, per se, is serving the best ideals of his profession, according to Prof. Adler, by removing himself.

This kind of academic suicide would not be an empty gesture, Prof. Adler asserted. It would be a militant martyrdom. It would lead the way to a more rational organization of educational institutions in which universities would be reserved for specialists and colleges would be engaged in turning out cultured graduates, who would be capable of continuing their own education by themselves and in an intelligent manner.

How Teachers Reacted.

Reactions to Adler's ideas were summed up thusly:

PROF. E. A. CROSS, of the Colorado State College of Education, and president of the council—"Adler's program makes good sense. I doubt if there is really any disagreement between his ideas and those of the truly progressive teachers of English."

PROF. EARL LOCKARD of Wilson Junior college — Adler's statement that nobody has been properly educated in the last 50 years made his entire speech worthless. If we were to follow his reasoning to the logical conclusion, all teachers would have to commit suicide. I believe Adler should set the example at once."

Elizabeth Page, author of "The Tree of Liberty," was a speaker at a banquet last evening. She told of how her historical novel grew from her first idea.

Robert C. Pooley of the University of Wisconsin was named president of the council to succeed Gross. John De Boer of the Chicago Teachers' college was chosen first vice president and Wilbur Hatfield, Chicago, editor of the English Journel, secretary.

KILLS HIS WIFE, 2 CHILDREN AND ENDS OWN LIFE

Helena, Mont., Nov. 22 (AP).—Clinton C. Peterson, 46 years old, assistant secretary-treasurer of the Montana Live Stock Production association, tonight slew his wife; his daughter, Betty, 17; his son, Howard, 12, and then committed suicide in his home, Sheriff Brian D. O'Connell said.

Peterson struck his wife and the children with an ax and then fired several shots into their bodies, the sheriff said. Peterson was shot to death in the basement with a rifle.

County Attorney Harold K. Anderson expressed the opinion that Peterson acted during "a fit of temporary insanity."

Peterson formerly was a teller at the federal reserve bank here.

SEARCH FOR BUTCHER, MISSING TWO MONTHS, PRESSED BY POLICE

Howard N. Andrewson.

Mrs. Lucille Andrewson, 5335 Wilson avenue, appealed yesterday to the police to redouble their efforts to find her husband, Howard N. Andrewson, 24 years old, in the hope that their family might be reunited by Christmas. Mrs. Andrewson has had no word from her husband since he left home on Sept. 18, supposedly to take a job in an East Chicago butcher shop, where he never appeared. She said she feared he may have met with an accident or is suffering from amnesia. They have an 8 months old baby girl. Andrewson has blond, wavy hair, is 5 feet 8½ inches tall, and weighs 175 pounds.

FIRST CONVICTION OF BOOKMAKERS BY JURY UPHELD

The first conviction by a jury in a handbook case in Cook county, which occurred a year ago and has since prompted bookies to plead guilty to gambling charges and pay fines, was affirmed yesterday by the Illinois Appellate court. The court upheld $50 fines against three defendants, the fourth one having died.

The guilty verdict was returned Nov. 14, 1939, before Municipal Judge Joseph J. Drucker. The defendants were Thomas Murphy, 58 years old, now dead; Robert Allen, 35; John Ramalka, 46, and Ellis Greenberg, 38. Police testified at the trial that the four were employés in a handbook at 34 South Halsted street and that Murphy had taken a 50 cent bet on a race. The defendants' appeal contended that the information against them was technically defective, but the Appellate court opinion overruled them.

Before this conviction many bookies, after being arrested, asked for jury trials, confident they would be acquitted. Since then they have paid fines on guilty pleas rather than risk heavier fines on cinviction by a jury.

200 SCIENTISTS MEET HERE TO EXCHANGE VIEWS

More than 200 of the country's leading research scientists met in Eckhart hall on the University of Chicago campus yesterday in the opening session of the 237th meeting of the American Physical society. During the day the physicists read 10 minute papers on the latest research developments in many fields. Last night a banquet was held in Judson Court, 1005 East 60th street. The meeting will close with a session this morning.

RAPE TRUE BILL NAMES 'DOCTOR' FROM KUM BUM

Investigators Look Into Financial Deals.

Hugh Greer Carruthers, head of the Neological [new logic] foundation, 32 West Randolph street, was reported named yesterday in a true bill charging him with the rape of a girl 12 years old and a crime against children.

As the grand jury heard evidence in the rape case, assistants to State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney scrutinized the varied business activities of Carruthers and listened to the story of a second girl who said she had been mistreated by him.

Carruthers, who gave his age as 74, appeared in the Felony court before Judge George Quilici, made bond and heard the case continued until Dec. 2. Dressed in a natty blue business suit, diamond stick pin and flashy finger ring, the "doctor" graciously accepted condolences of 50 women admirers who crowded to his side.

Calls Charge a Frameup.

He smilingly termed the charge "ridiculous and a frameup." Carruthers' advertising literature asserts that he is one of seven Caucasians to have emerged from priesthood in the Tibetan monastery of Kum Bum at the Great Blue lake, northeast Tibet.

The 12 year old girl and her mother were said to have appeared before the grand jury and to have declared they were guided to Carruthers, who used the title doctor, by another woman.

That woman said that perhaps Dr. Carruthers would pray in silence for the girl and cure her back ailment, the girl's mother is said to have told the grand jury. The visit was made on July 30, the girl was admitted to Carruthers' office, according to reported testimony, and ran from the office and told her mother what had happened.

Dares Her to Expose Him.

The mother said she left the office confused and later telephoned Carruthers. When she told him that she would expose him, Carruthers was reported to have said:

"I dare you. If you do, I'll fix you. You have a foul minded daughter."

The mother was said to have told the grand jury she delayed making a complaint because she feared the consequences. Dr. Charles Loffler, 32 West Randolph street, also appeared before the grand jury. He was reported to have testified that he examined the girl and found she had been attacked.

Later in the day Miss Virginia Kull, 23 years old, 6559 South Maplewood avenue, appeared before Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek and made a statement accusing Carruthers. She said she went to Carruthers' office in 1938 and that he attacked her on that occasion.

Takes Job as Secretary.

After the attack Carruthers offered her a job as a secretary, Miss Kull said, which she took in hopes she would find a chance to get even. Prosecutor Papanek took the statement, but said he doubted that he would bring a charge of rape because the complaint is old.

Assistant State's Attorneys Nathan J. Kinnally and John J. Phillips of the state blue sky division interested themselves yesterday in the Carruthers business dealings. The department of registration and education expressed concern over Carruthers' listing of himself as an M. D. in the telephone book.

Under scrutiny by the blue sky division was the foundation itself, Nan-Gene, a shampoo in which Carruthers was interested, and Happy Hearts, a laxative. Prosecutor Kinnally said that Attorney Leonard J. Grossman, representing Carruthers, had pomised to bring in all books concerning the Carruthers ventures some time next week.

The investigators computed that 3,900 members of the foundation, most of them paying a fee of $2 monthly, would produce almost $8,000.

DIVORCES HUBBY WHO PULLED UP STAKES IN QUARREL OVER STEAKS

Mrs. Ruth Marcotte.

Joseph Marcotte, 26 years old, a printer, had a fondness for bringing home friends at 3 a. m. and demanding that his wife, Ruth, cook steaks for them, she told Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday. She was granted a divorce on a desertion charge after adding that Marcotte left her in October, 1937. Mrs. Marcotte, who is 24 years old, was given custody of her daughters, Ruth, 5 years old, and Joan, 4. She lives at 212 North Hamlin avenue and was represented by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

STUDY NEW DRUG FOR USE IN WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Rochester, Minn., Nov. 22 (AP).—Mayo Foundation doctors today had under investigation a new drug of the sulfanilamide group, called promin, as a possible tuberculosis remedy.

Trials in guinea pigs with experimental tuberculosis have appeared promising, the doctors—W. H. Feldman, H. C. Hinshaw, and H. E. Moses—said.

Their report showed that guinea pigs with experimental tuberculosis lived when treated with promin while all of the 20 untreated animals were dead in 82 days. Thirteen of the 29 animals treated with promin were living after 164 days. The Mayo doctors said this fact suggested that the drug was of value as a remedy.

Santa Visits Englewood, Gives Candy to Children

Santa Claus came to the Englewood district yesterday in a shiny new automobile instead of in his sleigh. He stopped at 63d and Halsted streets and then he and six Brownie helpers distributed gift boxes of candy to more than 2,000 children. The occasion was the official opening of the Christmas shopping season sponsored by the Englewood Business Men's association.

Club Parties, Opera to Make Busy Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

A QUIET week-end might be desired after the busy Thanksgiving that every one had, but it will be difficult to stay at home and do nothing today or tomorrow—there are so many interesting things on the calender. Two clubs in town have planned what promise to be delightful parties for tomorrow. The Saddle and Cycle is providing tables for a session of duplicate bridge and backgammon after 4, with supper later. Among those who have planned to be there are the Winfield Ellises, the Thomas Gowenlocks, the John W. Roots, the Louis Sudlers, the James Meloys, and the Henry Grosses.

The Tavern club is starting its winter series of Sunday breakfast parties tomorrow when Governor Elect and Mrs. Dwight Green will be the especial guests. Dr. Ulric Beusch, Swiss consul in Chicago, is entertaining in a private room for the Swiss minister to the United States, Dr. Carl Bruttmann, who is passing thru Chicago on his way west. Among others who will have guests tomorrow at the club are the Lloyd Maxwells, Harold Keele, and Miller Cross.

Civic Opera House Point of Interest Today.

The Civic Opera house will be particularly gay this afternoon and again this evening, for "Manon" is to be given at the matinée, and "The Love of Three Kings" is the attraction tonight. Helen Jepson, who will sing the leading rôle in the afternoon, will be in the audience tonight to hear Grace Moore sing the rôle of Fiora, which Miss Jepson sang several years ago in the same opera house.

Miss Jepson, the James Meltons, the Peter Meros and her mother, Mrs. Louis Jaques, the Howard Peabodys, the Robert Twymans, and the William W. Dixons will be in the James C. Thompsons' party tonight. Phyllis Thompson, who is at home from Ogontz college for the Thanksgiving week-end, also will be with her parents.

Mrs. A. H. Patterson, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, Mrs. George B. Dryden, Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart, Mrs. Arch Shaw, Mrs. Edwin Ashcraft, and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk are among the boxholders for this afternoon.

Tomorrow afternoon a performance by the Ballet Theater will attract a large and smart audience to the opera house, for ballet is a favorite form of entertainment with Chicagoans.

Daughter Is Born to Norman W. MacDonalds.

The daughter born early yesterday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. MacDonald [Eleanor Page] of Crilly court, is to be named Elsie Anne for her two grandmothers, Mrs. Edwin Page of Chicago and California, and Mrs. Norman MacDonald Sr. of Duluth. Mrs. Page has been visiting her son-in-law and daughter for several weeks, and Mrs. MacDonald Sr. is arriving today to meet her first grandchild. The baby and her mother are in the Presbyterian hospital, both doing splendidly.

Mr. and Mrs. Lydon Wild of Bennett avenue announce the engagement of their cousin, Miss Claire Golden, to Merrill Blaine Johns Jr. Miss Golden is a graduate of Miss Weaver's school at Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson, and she also attended Northwestern university. Mr. Johns attended Cornell university and the University of Chicago. The wedding is planned for Dec. 26. Mr. Johns and his bride will reside in Shaker Heights, a suburb of Cleveland.

Miss Ruth Ostermann's Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf M. Ostermann of Kenilworth announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Frederick W. Raymond Jr. of Proctor, Vt. Mr. Raymond is the son of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Raymond. Miss Ostermann attended Roycemore school, the University of Lausanne, Switzerland, and Wellesley college. Mr. Raymond is a graduate of Dartmouth college. The wedding will take place during the Christmas holidays.

The family of Edward A. Cudahy usually gets together for Thanksgiving, for it is a day of great sentiment for the large family. The late Mrs. Cudahy [Elizabeth Murphy] and Letter from England.

Excerpt from a letter received by Sonneva Ramsey of Oak Park, daughter of an American consul at Sheffield, England, from a friend at Stanmore:

"Please don't bother about us, we are all O. K., altho Stanmore has been hit once or twice and several people killed, shop fronts blown in, etc. We don't bother about going to a shelter every time an alert sounds; if we did, we would never get out of it. London is having it badly, but we can take it. Every one is marvelous, taking it calmly and determined to see it thru. There is no such word as defeat. The R. A. F. is superb. It is wonderful to see the Spitfires and Hurricanes coming back after a raid. They skim low over the rooftops, some doing the 'victory roll,' meaning they shot down a jerry. At night London changes. She is grim. A. A. guns roar, the bombs scream, and it is hell let loose. Your lullaby is a bomber's drone, your good night the sound of falling shrapnel. . . ."

Checkmate.

Marriage and divorce still go on in London. A friend recently returned from England tells of the man who wanted his wife to divorce him. As a means of facilitating matters he ostentatiously engaged a woman companion to accompany him to a resort hotel—named Bishop's Palace hotel—for the week-end, and saw to it that wine and playing cards were on the bill. After his return to London he sent for a copy of the hotel register and his bill, to be offered as proof of his infidelity. He received a dignified letter from the hotel management.

"Nothing of the sort ever happened at Bishop's Palace hotel," the letter read.

Art is taking new directions in Chicago. Sandy McGlone, East Delaware place garage owner, is putting a painting in his window to advertise National Art week next week. A drug company on West North avenue will put paintings in its window, and a truck, specially designed by Les Marzolf, will go about town advertising the week. Probably the first time an artist ever designed such a truck. Aim of the week: Not culture but sales.

Devi Dja and Her Dancers Charm Chicago

If you want some distraction from this busy world a good place to go today is the Civic theater. Last night Devi Dja and her group of Balinese dancers and musicians put on a delightful assortment of dances and songs there, and they will repeat the program this afternoon and evening.

The presentation of ceremonial, ritual and folk dances is simply done; the suggestion of theatricalism is kept to a bare minimum, and the watcher finds himself taken in by the slow, hypnotic quality of the movements. The authenticity of the dancing has been vouched for and projects itself as something exotic and completely alien.

The dancers exhibit a unique control over their bodies. Whether they are rocking in a crouched position, slithering along the floor, fluttering their fingers and hands, or sinuously weaving their arms, the timing is always so exact and assured, however slow or fast the movement, that one senses the extraordinary age of the dances and their traditions. Even the dancers eyes move in definite patterns.

Sometimes these little Balinese people stop dancing and sing a chant or lullaby or harvest song in tiny, untutored voices. Their unselfconsciousness and the plaintive melodies they sing make such performances completely beguiling.

It must be added that the dancers themselves are completely charming to look at. Their flat, bland faces with sloe eyes, never changing expression, have a rare innocence. However, the youngest girl in the company was forced by something or other into some happy smiles that could not have failed to enchant any one in the audience.—R. E.

Two Americans, and Lovely, Are in Operas Today

Two of America's leading sopranos, both blonde and very personable, will demonstrate before Chicago Opera company audiences today and tonight that America can rear and train its own opera stars. Helen Jepson will carry the torch for American singers in "Manon" at 2 p. m., in the matinée performance, and Grace Moore will make her only appearance of the season as Fiora in "The Love of Three Kings" at 8 p. m.

Miss Moore rehearsed for her part yesterday with Italo Montemezzi, composer of the opera, who will conduct the orchestra. Playing opposite Miss Moore will be Virgilio Lazzari, familiar basso of Chicago opera, in his famous interpretation of Archibaldo, the blind king.

Miss Moore did not appear apprehensive of Lazzari yesterday, but she might well be tonight. Lazzari submerges himself so deeply in his part that he has to be warned just before going on the stage to catch the soprano by the shoulders when he is supposed to kill her, and not by the throat as he might be inclined to do.

As a shy school girl, who becomes the toast of Paris, Miss Jepson will play the feminine lead in "Manon" opposite Tito Schipa's Chevalier des Grieux. In the story the chevalier emerges successful from among Manon's suitors because he buys her the prettiest things.

Jepson and Schipa will be supported by George Czaplicki, popular Polish tenor, as Lescaut, Manon's cousin and guardian, and by Leon Rothier, bass, who plays the chevalier's disapproving father. The orchestra will be conducted by Maurice Abravanel, young Portuguese.

Story of Opera

Here is a synopsis of the opera "The Love of Three Kings," to be presented tonight by the Chicago Opera company. It is suggested that persons unfamiliar with the story, who are planning to attend the performance, clip it and take it with them to the Civic Opera house. It will greatly increase their enjoyment.

'THE LOVE OF THREE KINGS.'

Opera in three acts. Music by Italo Montemezzi. Libretto by Sem Benelli. The scene is laid in Italy in the early middle ages.

Act 1—Into the dimly lighted, vaulted hall of a medieval castle, just before dawn, the aged blind king Archibaldo comes, led by his servant, Flaminio. Archibaldo is awaiting the return of his son, Manfredo, from war, and he cannot sleep. He calls to memory the great war of 40 years before, in which he had been a victorious conqueror. Years after the conquest, as a peace offering, Fiora, the enemy princess, had been awarded to Manfredo in marriage.

After concluding his reminiscences, Archibaldo learns from Flaminio that dawn is coming up, and he orders the signal light extinguished. They withdraw from the hall. Soon Avito comes out from a chamber, followed by Fiora. Avito is the prince of the enemy country, to whom Fiora was affianced before she was taken from her home and bestowed upon Manfredo. Avito has been paying Fiora one of his many secret visits.

The lovers embrace; then Avito, noticing that the signal light is out, hurries away in the dawn. Blind Archibaldo has heard sounds, and he discovers Fiora. He questions her, but she claims to have arisen to be

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood Cal., Nov. 22.—Metro asked Carole Lombard to take a rôle in the projected Spencer Tracy version of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," but she said "no" . . . and Ginger Rogers has said another "no." RKO went to much trouble to buy Elmer Rice's play "Two on an Island," for her and now she says she won't do it—her argument being that there have been too many movies about a young couple trying to get along in Manhattan. . . . M. Davis, N. Y., wants to know where to get one of Jeanette MacDonald's booklets on how hard it is to become a movie singer. Just write her care of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Culver City. . . . When Jimmy Stewart, a radio nut from boyhood, was shopping for a radio for his house, salesmen kept offering machines that would do everything including cooking breakfast. "All I want," said Jimmy, "is a set that will have good tone for local broadcasts. Can I get a radio that I don't get Russia on?" . . .

Robert Benchley has just got word from a cousin who has lived in France many years concerning the invasion by the Germans. When they came to the Benchley house they took only two things—the liquor and a small photograph of Robert. They took the picture out of the frame and in its place put a joker from a deck of cards.

Joel McCrea, who has a working ranch at Moorpark, says he finally has solved the mystery of the never-ripening lemons in his citrus orchard. "I have been waiting for a year for those lemons to get ripe, but they never started turning yellow. I just found out they are limes."

The revelation that Tom Mix, possibly the highest salaried film player if you consider over-all yearly wages, left only $115,000 or less, and that May McAvoy, one-time star, has lived on relief, once again brings up the strangely evanescent character of film fortunes.

Of the old-timers, Mix, Mary Pickford, William S. Hart, Charles Chaplin and Harold Lloyd are supposed to be, or to have been, the richest. But how rich will they be when the time comes for them to pass on and the courts to get a look at the ledgers?

The extra lists are crowded with names of people who were top-ranking stars in days when money was large and taxes small. Most of them lived beyond their means. As the veteran Robert Z. Leonard put it to me, "they didn't realize they were spending capital. They just thought they were spending weekly income. They didn't know it wouldn't last forever."

Today most actors are smart—or think they are, anyway. Most of them are in the hands of managers—gents who, for $20 or $25 a week, will watch the purse strings. Any manager can call up a prospective client and read off a frightening set of statistics—how, for instance, star A, one of the greatest of his day, averaged only $50 a week over a normal working lifetime.

The Hollywood manager gives his client a pocket money allowance, pays the bills and taxes, approves or rejects major expenditures, and invests the balance toward an income producing estate. His $20-$25 a week may seem low; but he often provides that, once an estate is built up to a required figure, he may share in subsequent investment profits.

New York Musical Notables Fete Dr. Stock and Orchestra

BY EDWARD BARRY.

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—"We New Yorkers, dumb as we are, know a good thing when we see it!"

Thus spoke Theodore Steinway at a dinner given tonight by the Lotos club, New York's celebrated literary and artistic club, in honor of Frederick Stock, now in his 36th year as conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Mr. Steinway was referring to this same Chicago orchestra, which today played the second of a pair of concerts in Carnegie hall as a part of the schedule of the eastern tour which was undertaken in celebration of its golden jubilee season.

In introducing Walter Damrosch, German-American conductor and composer and the principal speaker at the dinner, Mr. Steinway dipped into the vernacular of present day radio and instructed the white haired veteran to "take it away." Mr. Damrosch took it away in very competent fashion. He detailed Dr. Stock's services to the cause of music, poohpoohed a 36 year record as "not very long to me," and declared that he was raising his glass to a man who, despite all of his years of work, "is still young."

In responding Dr. Stock professed himself surprised and flattered at the reference to his youth [since he has recently celebrated his 68th birthday] and took advantage of the occasion to pay a compliment to the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra, John Barbirolli, conductor, which presented today in Orchestra hall the second of its two exchange concerts with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Present at the Lotos club dinner tonight were such luminaries of the musical world as Lawrence Tibbett, Arthur Judson, Leonard Liebling, Charles O'Connell, Moses Smith, Roy Harris, Albert Stoessel, Gregor Piatigorsky, Lawrence Evans, and John Majeski. Unable to come in person, but represented by congratulatory telegrams and messages, were Arturo Toscanini, John Barbirolli, Eugene Ormandy, Jascha Heifetz, Josef Hofmann, and Serge Koussevitzky.

The concert in Carnegie hall this afternoon featured a first New York performance of the new symphony which John Alden Carpenter wrote for and dedicated to the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The program included also the Bach string suite No. 2, Strauss' tone poem, "Thus Spake Zarathustra," and the Berlioz "Roman Carnival" overture. Dr. Stock and the orchestra were warmly received by a near capacity audience.

The critics of New York's afternoon papers today joined in the chorus of praise which the Chicago orchestra's Wednesday night concert had evoked. Said Oscar Thompson of the Sun:

"The strings sing in forthright fashion. The other choirs have a clean, essentially normal utterance. With a minimum of fuss Mr. Stock extracts a maximum of precision."

Samuel Chotzinoff of the Post characterized the Chicago orchestra as "a highly expert body of players which functions as a single instrument of contributory sections" and described Dr. Stock as "an interpreter of great sincerity and a certain old fashioned romantic bias, the combined operation of which makes great music singularly engaging, tho it sometimes robs it of direction and power."

Tribute to Be Paid Bernard Horwich for Civic Leadership

Bernard Horwich, manufacturer, banker, and founder in Chicago of the first Zionist body in the United States, will be honored tomorrow evening at a banquet in the Covenant club. The evening will feature a dramatization of Mr. Howwich's recent book "My First Eighty Years," which describes many charitable projects in which he took part. Speakers at the dinner will include Judge Harry M. Fisher, Rabbi Louis Binstock, Mme. Rosa Raisa, Miss Pearl Franklin, Harry H. Krinsky, Heyman L. Meites, Samuel Goldsmith, and others. Lewis D. Levit, chairman of the Covenant club forum, will direct the program.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

It takes a trip to the chiropodist on one of the colder days to make one realize how un-beautiful feet can become if not given some home care. In the summer time, with toes and heels in the open, most of us give our feet as much care and attention as we do our hands. But in the fall, when they get back under cover, our efforts along this line lag. Emerging from their covering, ready for the deft hands of the chiropodist, the dry skinned, slightly shriveled looking extremities are proof enough of their neglect.

None of us hopes to copy the professional care received at the hands of a foot specialist. But the final gestures—the thoro lubrication and gentle massage that leave the feet feeling rested and smooth and practically things of beauty—are a direct challenge to us to go home and do likewise.

In the winter, like other parts of the body, the feet are in need of extra lubrication. Get the habit of massaging them with a cream or lotion at least a couple of times a week. There are any number of good ones on the market.

Starting at the toes, work the softener in with an upward rotary motion, over the instep and ankle, and up the calf of the leg. With the fingertips massage across the ball of the foot. Include some good toe stretching exercises, moving the toes upward, downward, and forward. Bend the whole foot in the same directions, rotating from the ankle.

Combine this with the use of cuticle cream, emery boards, and shining polish, and you'll have foot comfort and foot beauty.

The Odor of Violets

SYNOPSIS.

Norma Tredwill, happily married to Thaddeus Tredwill, the producer, discovers that her stepdaughter, Barbara, is seeing Norma's faithless ex-husband, Paul Gerente, the actor. Excusing herself to their house guest, Cheli Scott, Norma goes to town to break up the romance. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment and discovers Paul Gerente murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who brings him orders in code from the Naval Intelligence. They are instructions in case New York might be plunged into darkness by war, but Maclain refuses to tell his visitor the five vital points where sabotage might occur. The visitor claims to be Paul Gerente. In a little restaurant Norma is wondering who killed Paul.

INSTALMENT VI.

THE MAN BELOW.

Norma left the table and walked to a telephone booth in the corner. Leafing thru the directory she found an A. C. Cameron listed at the 12th street address. Her heart was thumping uncomfortably when she dialed the number. A man's voice answered pleasantly after a few rings.

Somewhat reassured, Norma said hurriedly, "I'm sorry to disturb you, Mr. Cameron, because you don't know me, but I was wondering about the nameplates on the bells downstairs. Apparently I rang your bell when I called on some friends a little while ago. If you remember, you called downstairs to me as I came in the hall."

Cameron gave a friendly laugh and said, "Who is this speaking?"

Norma was silent a few seconds before she said, "Do you mind if I don't say?"

"No, not at all, but you're worrying yourself needlessly. I was expecting a friend and had my apartment door open. I heard a bell ring upstairs and called down thinking it might be for me."

"O!" said Norma faintly. "Then you didn't push the buzzer and open the downstairs door?"

"Yes," said Cameron, "I did. And whoever you rang answered, too. That's why I called down to you. My friend was coming from a cocktail party. Occasionally he gets mixed up on bells. There's no harm done tho."

"I'm sorry I troubled you." Norma hung up. Cameron's statement, "whoever you rang answered, too" was running thru her head liltingly. Some one else had been in Paul's rooms. There was a train back to Hartford at 10:50. She would take it and say nothing to any one. She needed time to think things out. She could talk to Babs the following day.

. . . . . .

Arnold C. Cameron put the telephone back in its cradle and walked slowly halfway across the room. He stopped for a moment in front of a pier glass mirror set in a closet door.

From the depths of an easy chair in the corner an attractive brunette watched him from under languorous lids as he brushed imaginary dust from the shoulders of his well-tailored sharkskin suit and pushed back a lock of his graying hair.

"It sounded like a woman?" The girl crossed slender legs and looked at her toe.

Arnold Cameron studied her reflection in the mirror before him and smiled. He was a man in his late thirties and was always reminding people who met him of some one they knew.

"It was," he said.

"Who?"

He left his place at the mirror and stood for a few seconds looking down at the girl before he settled himself in another chair.

"You're the jealous type, Hilda, my dear." He took a cigaret from a jar on the table beside him and rolled it between his palms. Small yellow specks of tobacco fell to the floor.

The girl swished the remains of a highball around in the bottom of her glass and finished it. "Do I know her?"

"No," said Cameron. "Neither do I. I'm trying to figure out what the hell she telephoned me for."

"When you get mysterious," said Hilda, "you're an awful bore."

She held the glass out toward him. "Make another one, will you, darling? I'm dry."

"You're saturated," said Cameron, "and I think you'd better go."

Hilda's soft, full lips curled in a smile. "Afraid of me?"

"Yes." He got up quickly, bent over her and kissed her on the mouth. When he straightened up again, his strong hands slipped under her elbows and lifted her to her feet.

"Do I really have to go?"

"Yes," he said. "I have some work to do."

"Something to do with the call?"

He opened the mirrored door and took her heavy plaid ulster from the closet, holding it out before him to help her put it on. She thrust her arms angrily into the sleeves, snatched her small stylish hat from the shelf of the closet and arranged it on her head with trembling fingers.

"This is the last time you'll ever put me out of here!"

"I'm sorry, Hilda, really." His gray eyes were expressionless. "After all, I've only done it once before."

"Twice is too much. I'm afraid I like men who aren't always subject to the interruption of mysterious telephone calls. I went down to your office the other day." She stopped with her hand on the door.

"You did?" he inquired politely. "It's too bad I missed you."

"You'd have missed anybody who came," said Hilda. "The door was locked and there wasn't any one there at all."

She set her chin firmly and faced him challengingly. "Just what do you import, Arnold? I'd like to know."

"Eggs," he said soberly. "From Australia. The business has been badly affected by the war."

He kissed her again before she could answer and adroitly eased her out thru the door. He watched her down the single flight of stairs and called: "I hope you'll change your mind and come back again. I'm really fond of you, and sorry if I've been a bore."

He was answered by the slam of the front door.

Back again in the apartment, he picked up the telephone and dialed a number. "Jack," he said when the answer came, "is it true that there's no way of tracing a dial call?"

"None," a voice replied from the other end. "It's a washout when the call's once thru. "What's on your mind?"

"Nothing particularly," Cameron replied a bit testily. "I'm tired of having my evenings spoiled, that's all."

He hung up and went back to look at himself in the mirror again, brushing more imaginary dust from his shoulder. After staring at himself irresolutely for a few seconds, he turned with the quick decisiveness of a man who has made up his mind, crossed the room swiftly, and took a heavy Luger automatic pistol from the table drawer. He half opened the breech with an expert hand and glanced at the loading.

The gun was sagging in his side coat pocket when he stepped out into the hall, closed the apartment door behind him, and went down into the vestibule to ring Paul Gerente's bell.

He waited for a short interval, staring out at the driving sleet and snow, but no answer came. He let himself back in with a latch key and climbed the five flights of stairs to the top floor where he knocked lightly on Paul Gerente's door.

Not a sound came from inside. Cameron took a leather bound key container from his pocket and selected a key. It fitted the lock perfectly. With the assured confidence of a man entering his own home, he stepped in. The door clicked shut behind him.

The lights were on, and in the fireplace embers burned low. Seconds ticked away on the busy pendulum of the cuckoo clock before he knelt beside the dead man in the cherry colored dressing gown. A shadow which might have been pity touched his face, and faded into a mirthless smile.

He picked the blood marked poker up, holding it in the center with a folded handkerchief. A couple of minutes later he was back downstairs in his apartment on the second floor.

Shut in, he went to work with precision. Concealed from casual view behind the many suits in the spacious closet, a small safe stood on the floor. Cameron shoved the impending clothes to one side and opened the safe door. He took out a small metal box and a tiny camel's hair brush.

Back in the living room he placed the brass poker on a newspaper spread out on the table. He was humming tunelessly when he opened the metal box, dipped the tiny brush into the contents of light aluminum powder, and brushed the shining handle daintily.

The dust adhered in a light unbroken film.

Cameron took a lens from the table drawer and frowningly studied his work. "Damn waste of time!" he muttered, and went into the kitchen to mix himself a highball.

He came back carrying a glass in one hand and a square of paper towel torn from a roll in the other. He took a drink, set the glass on the table, and using the paper towel, wiped the handle of the poker clean.

Great Audience Again Greets Philharmonic

Concert by the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra, John Barbirolli conducting, in Orchestra hall, Friday afternoon, Nov. 22, 1940. The program:
Concerto Grosso No. 7, B-flat major ..... Handel
"Le Sommeil de Leaz" ..... Debussy
[First time in Chicago.]
Overture-Fantasy, "Romeo and Juliet" ..... Tschaikowsky
Symphony No. 2, D major ..... Brahms

BY CECIL SMITH.

The audience in Orchestra hall filled every seat for the second of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra's exchange concerts with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. In order to present as much repertory as possible in his brief Chicago visit, John Barbirolli selected a program entirely different from the one played on Thursday evening.

In its present phase the New York orchestra is a curious and disquieting phenomenon. Players of absolutely stellar quality are scattered all thru the orchestra, and the average technical ability of the men in the orchestra is, perhaps, greater than the average in our own Chicago Symphony orchestra. And yet the Philharmonic simply does not coalesce into a satisfactory ensemble. Granted that the string tone is rich and vibrant, and that the brasses crackle exhilaratingly, still there is not a complete musical unison within the group.

The second Brahms symphony proved to be almost tragic. There was so little rhythmic precision about the performance that separate sections of the orchestra were frequently a perceptible distance apart. Mr. Barbirolli's exceptionally hurried tempi seemed to press the players uncomfortably, so that little of the thematic material spoke forth naturally and with easy phrasing. The development section of the first movement, with a snarling tuba added to give a dramatically heavy bass, was chaotic and nearly meaningless. The scherzo and the finale also suffered from a pace that made clear articulation impossible. It all seemed like an ill advised attempt to turn a serious, contemplative masterpiece falsely into a virtuoso vehicle, except that the virtuosity did not actually exist.

I have presented the darkest aspect of the concert first. In Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" the playing was more genuinely brilliant, and in the seventh concerto grosso of Handel the glowing warmth of the strings compensated in part, at least, for a performance in which a desire for massive tone was allowed to obscure the movement of inner parts. For a novelty, the program included Debussy's inconsequential "Le Sommeil de Lear," written in 1904 as incidental music to the Shakespeare tragedy, and later quite wisely suppressed by the composer.

Mr. Cudahy were married on Thanksgiving [Nov. 24] in 1884 and for 52 years they celebrated their anniversary on Thanksgiving. Their daughter, Alice, was married to John Noble Stearns Jr. of New York on Thanksgiving [Nov. 26] in 1931. This year the family will celebrate Thanksgiving in Chicago next Thursday, for Mr. and Mrs. Stearns are coming west for a visit then.

President and Mrs. Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university will entertain at the last football tea of the season in Scott hall after the Northwestern-Notre Dame game this afternoon.

The annual charity ball of the Hinsdale Junior Infant Welfare society will be given at the Hinsdale Town club tonight. Mrs. Elliott C. McIntire is in charge of arrangements.

Six Sisters to Be Attendants as Catherine Cummings Weds

All of Miss Catherine Cummings' six sisters will attend her at her marriage this morning to Joseph I. O'Neill Jr. Miss Cummings is a daughter of Mrs. Leo P. Cummings of Lake Shore drive and Mr. O'Neill is the eldest of the nine sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph I. O'Neill of Phoenixville, Pa. The ceremony will take place at 10 o'clock at the church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel with the Rev. Joseph A. Casey officiating. A reception will be held at the Edgewater Beach hotel. After a wedding trip to White Sulphur Springs, Va., Mr. O'Neill and his bride will reside in Forest Hills, Long Island.

Miss Cummings will wear her mother's wedding gown and carry her prayer book and the lace handkerchief which belongs to her grandmother, Mrs. Roger C. Sullivan. Miss Virginia Cummings will be the maid of honor and Josephine, Helen Marie, Frances, Mary, and Jane will be bridesmaids.

William O'Neill will be best man for his brother and Bob, Tom, Frank, and Byrne O'Neill will usher. Four classmates of Mr. O'Neill at Notre Dame also will usher. They are Jack Gleason, Adam Wolf, Adelbert Baur, and William Belden of Canton, O.

Only relatives and a few friends will witness the ceremony that will unite in marriage Miss Eleanor Rogers and Loren J. Massey. The service will be read at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon by the Rev. Oliver Brackett at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Rogers of Lake Forest. Mrs. Philip T. Stafford will be her sister's matron of honor, and George B. Massey Jr. will be his brother's best man.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Massey will be at home in Crilly court, Chicago. Mrs. Massey Jr. came from their home in New York with her husband, and the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Raymond Hardenbergh, also came from New York for the ceremony.

Miss Grace Grattan Collins, daughter of Mrs. Charles Augustus Collins of Cleveland, O., will become the bride of Edward Kirchoff Brown at the home of the bride's mother tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Brown is the son of Dr. and Mrs. E. V. L. Brown of Winnetka. Mr. Brown and his bride will be at home in Shaker Heights, O., after a two week wedding trip.

Among the Chicagoans who will attend the wedding are Mr. Brown's brother, Donald, who will serve as best man; David and Bradford Brown, who will usher with their brother-in-law; C. Boyd Jones, the Joseph Hibbens, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butz, and Mrs. Walter Clyde Jones. The Bradford Browns of St. Joseph, Mich., will also be at the wedding.

Miss Collins will be attended by her sister, Sallie, as maid of honor, and her other sisters, Mrs. John I. Sewall of Buffalo and Mrs. H. Landon Warner of Cambridge, Mass., as bridesmaids.

Miss Mary Louise Dillon will wear a veil of heirloom lace when she becomes the bride of John O. C. Pietsch of Detroit, Mich., at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Sacred Heart church in Winnetka. Miss Dillon is the daughter of the William S. Dillons of Winnetka and Mr. Pietsch is the son of Mrs. Theodore Wells Pietsch of Baltimore, Md. The Rev. F. J. Haarth will perform the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the Sunset Ridge Country club. Mr. Pietsch and his bride will reside in Birmingham, Mich.

I have spent most of the last hour 'way off in Hawaii, in imagination, of course. The inspiration was a cookbook, "Hawaiian and Pacific Foods," by Katherine Bazore, an American home economics teacher at the University of Hawaii. It's enough to send you day dreaming just to turn the pages of this book.

You read about island foods and food customs, and the book is full of native recipes. Miss Bazore tells how to make adaptations, using obtainable ingredients for some of those which we don't find in our markets. This is a fascinating book for a cook whose library isn't necessarily confined to the most practical thing. The price is $2.50. M. Barrows & Co., New York, are publishers.

I tried a new mushroom soup stock recently and found it good. It isn't a soup, it is just a mushroom broth, to be used in making sauces, gravies, casserole dishes, and the like. A canned product such as this has a great many uses, as any cook knows. It sells for 5 cents a can in groceries and meat markets, so it's an inexpensive piece of emergency shelf equipment. The same canner has an excellent cream of mushroom soup, and cans the mushrooms as mushrooms, too.

Here's another good idea. A maker of catsups and chili sauces has put these two products into handsome "buffet bowls" for easy service at that Sunday night supper. The little glass jars with the screw tops are convenient to use, and so attractive that you can actually put them right on the table as they are.

Cookery books which help with planning those pre-Christmas, Christmas, and post-Christmas dinners and parties include "Holidays and Holiday Meals," 23 cents by mail; "Easy Lessons in Carving," 7 cents by mail; "Holiday Cookies and Fruit Cakes," 5 cents by mail. Thirty-five cents, preferably in stamps, will bring you the neat little set.

Girl's Outfit, Doll Clothes

GIRL'S COSTUME AND DOLL CLOTHES.

The girl's costume consists of flared skirt, matching or contrasting jerkin, and shirtwaist blouse. It makes up beautifully in woolen and silks.

The doll clothes consist of a jumper frock, a little jacket to make a suit of the costume, and a frilly dress.

Style No. 2736 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires 1¼ yards of 35 inch material for skirt; 1⅞ yards for blouse; ⅝ yard of 54 inch for jerkin.

Style No. 2741 includes clothes for 14, 16, 18, and 20 inch dolls.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully, for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

"Because of the discouraging one no trump response, I gave up the idea of a slam and merely bid two clubs which was sufficient for our game. I would appreciate your comment on the bidding.—C. H., Iowa."

It is strange but true that the possession of a part-score hampers more players than it benefits.

The difficulty springs from the fact that most players stick to the rule of bidding, rather than the spirit behind the rule. Part-score situations, by necessarily limiting the objective of a series of bids, cannot fail to modify the meaning and purpose of each bid.

Let us consider the hand given by this correspondent.

South, holding an excellent two-suiter, with four-plus honor tricks, opened with a modest one spade, undoubtedly the correct bid. Altho this was enough for game on the 70 score, North responded with one no trump. Admittedly, North's reason for that response might be that he thoroly disliked spades, but he would hardly "disturb" that low contract unless he had some values to offer. His no trump bid could not be a shut-out attempt on a weak hand, because one spade is just as difficult to overcall with another suit as is one no trump.

Thus it was an overwhelming presumption that North had some high card strength, and that his one no trump in this case was not meant to be "discouraging." That being so, South should have indicated his own considerable strength by jumping to three clubs. Even without a part-score, South had the game-going potentialities for such a bid. With the part-score, that action was vital for slam possibilities. It is safe to assume that North, given a three club rebid by South, would have come forward with at least one raise, and thereupon a slam contract would have become an excellent risk.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Both robustness and charm distinguish this movie, and, if you haven't tired of historical pictures, I promise that you will love "The Howards of Virginia."

Action takes place in revolutionary days and the background is of the reconstructed colonial village of Williamsburg. The story circles 'round that town where the haughty Peytons—an influential family of planters—support King George against Virginia rebels led by the young Thomas Jefferson.

Cary Grant plays—most picturesquely!—Matt Howard, son of a backwoodsman, who loves and marries the gently born Jane Peyton. . . . The tale picks him up as a child—a child whose best friend is a little boy named Tom Jefferson. . . .

Surgingly eventful are the years during which dynamic Matt and gallant Jane evolve a charming home from the wilderness of Albermarle county and bring two sons and a daughter into the world.

Personal issues quietly retreat in favor of the political situations of the day, but when they do advance it is to provide richly satisfying color.

The acting is tops, and direction, photography, sets, and costumes are all the most critical could demand.

Dancing Daughter Ill, Mother Takes Her Place

One of those real trooper stories that happen occasionally backstage in the theater occurred Thursday night at a performance of "Meet the People," a revue in the Grand Opera house. When Peggy Ryan, the 16 year old tap dancer, was taken sick because of too much turkey, her mother, Hazel, stepped into the breach and danced her daughter's difficult routines thruout the entire first act. Mrs. Ryan, who is 36 years old and looks more like Peggy's sister, formerly appeared in vaudeville with her husband, Tony, in an act called "The Dancing Ryans." She was her daughter's first dancing instructor.

The 1940 Community fund campaign yesterday announced receipt of a gift of $28,225 from the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, its employés and executives. Total contributions during the day were $31,962. Only 15 per cent of the $3,604,000 fund quota remains to be obtained.

Knitted Gloves for Gifts

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Attractive and useful gifts are the order of these busy days, and knitted gloves for men are an answer to a universal problem. They are quickly and easily knitted in a seed or moss stitch, and yellow, tan, brown, and gray are favorites for street wear, while bright red, green, and blue are worn for sports.

For instructions in knitting the men's gloves done in a seed stitch, No. 850, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Two Americans, and Lovely, Are in Operas Today

on the lookout for her husband. Finally Manfredo arrives, to be greeted affectionately by his father and coldly by Fiora.

Act 2—On a terrace on the castle battlements, Manfredo takes leave of Fiora before returning to battle. A noble character, he is grieved by Fiora's lack of affection. He asks her, as a favor, to speed him on his way by waving from the battlement a white scarf he will send to her. As soon as Manfredo leaves, Avito arrives.

An intense love scene follows until it is interrupted by the arrival of a handmaiden with a casket containing the white scarf. The handmaiden departs, and Fiora climbs the steps to the top of the wall. She waves the scarf, vigorously at first, and then with increasing absent-mindedness as Avito returns to urge her to come down the steps. Fiora comes part way down. Avito passionately clasps her knees, and finally persuades her to descend the rest of the steps.

Both become increasingly engrossed in their love, so that they do not hear the footsteps of Archibaldo until too late. Avito escapes, but Archibaldo catches Fiora and strangles her. Manfredo returns, having noticed that Fiora had stopped waving the scarf.

Act 3—Avito and Manfredo meet at Fiora's bier in the crypt. Archibaldo has smeared her dead lips with poison, to discover her lover. Both men kiss her lips, and both expire from the effect of the poison. Archibaldo stumbles in, to find his own son dead as the result of his ill-calculated plot.

FENGER HIGH MEETS LINDBLOM FOR CITY LEAGUE TITLE

BIG LINES, FAST BACKS CLASH IN SOLDIERS' FIELD

Expect 25,000 for Game Today.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Fenger's point a minute football forces, with Mayor Kelly's All-City game next Saturday as their objective, last night were billeted at their invasion port on Chicago's far south side, poised and ready for another blitzkrieg against Lindblom in Soldiers' field at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Approximately 25,000 will see the game, but few observers believe the mighty far south siders will be halted in the sensational drive to hoist their flag to the Public School league championship pole for their third consecutive year.

Joe Kredens.

Since the Northwestern-Notre Dame game is a sellout, thousands of college football fans are expected. For 50 cents they can watch these future college stars. In a couple of years they may be paying $3.30 a seat for the same privilege under a collegiate setting. The seats, all unreserved, will be on sale at 1 o'clock at Soldiers' field ticket booths.

Break City Scoring Record.

Possessing a devastating land and aerial attack, which has forced opponents to yield at least five touchdowns in each of 11 games this season, Fenger is expected to encounter its strongest enemy of the year in the central division champions. However, coaches whose teams faced the heavy bombardment readily admit Lindblom is sitting on top of a time bomb which will explode immediately after the kickoff.

Fenger, undefeated in 35 games, this season, has rolled up 464 points, surpassing the Chicago mark of Bill DeCorrevont and his Austin teammates in 1937 and approaching the state prep record of 512, set by Bushnell twelve years ago. The champions picked up another victory and added five touchdowns to their season's total Thursday when they defeated Pullman Tech, 34 to 13.

The Boys Are Big.

Fenger and its supporters in the Pullman and Roseland districts are confident that playing two games within three days will have little or no effect on the team. Its fleet backs—Henry Stevenson, Ray Florek, Joe Kredens and Bruno Pocius—are ready. All regular lineman also enjoyed a brief workout against Pullman Tech. In addition, the line has been strengthened by the return of John Vilet, veteran 187 pound end, who was injured in an automobile accident two weeks ago.

Fenger's record ranks it as one of the greatest elevens in the history of the Public School league. Few teams have acquired such a collection of talented young giants. Many believe the 191 pound line would hold its own against a small college eleven. This heavy line overpowered opponents in league competition so quickly that regulars were needed only about one-third of the time in each game.

Lindblom Has Fast Backs.

Lindblom's linemen, who have paved the way for eight consecutive victories, can match Fenger in weight. The squad is certain it can stop the champions, and its coach, E. Lansford Moore, who has been in the league for 27 years, believes he holds the key to victory after watching Fenger in four games. Many Lindblom supporters have seen Moore's predictions come true before. He has directed the school to six championships since 1924.

Lindblom's backs also are ready to give the Fenger linemen a busy afternoon. Coach Moore has named Ray Senkowski, Harry Wilkin, Al Ozouf, and Johnny Webright, the same quartet which aided in the 13 to 6 victory over Amundsen in the semi-final round last week, to start today.

Members of the De Paul and Leo elevens, which meet tomorrow afternoon in Soldiers' field for the Catholic league championship and the right to appear in the all-city game, will be among the spectators. However, Coaches Wally McGovern of De Paul and Whitey Cronin of Leo plan workouts before taking their players to the game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 22.—Minnesota's Gophers, who at one time or another have been termed everything that means power, ruggedness and skill, will rumble out of the north onto Camp Randall field before 42,000 tomorrow to encounter the final barrier in their path to an undefeated season. The barrier, of course, is Wisconsin's Badgers, the same boys who refueled the local football flame, which had dwindled low, by successive conference victories over Purdue, Illinois, and Indiana.

Already in possession of the Western conference championship no matter what happens tomorrow in the 50th gridiron meeting of the two schools, the Gophers have their eye on another mark of distinction. They don't want to have their rating of No. 1 eleven of the nation clouded by a defeat. And to strengthen their right to the rating as well as smother whisperings that they merely squeaked thru in some of their victories, they intend, if possible, to make the 1940 roundup a giddy touchdown affair.

Badgers Make No Claims.

The Badgers are making no claims. Long and usually disastrous football association with the Gophers has proved advance claims of little value. The Badgers have voluntarily taken over the underdog rôle. That may make 'em that much tougher. They'll go into the battle quite certain they may be able to create a lot of fun for themselves—and they tasted fun against Purdue, Illinois, and Indiana by accomplishing what they didn't expect.

The aforementioned victories have brought the Badgers along at an amazing pace, but it is doubtful whether the impetus thus gained will carry thru. The Gopher line is a beef trust. One forward is slightly under 200 pounds. All the other prospective starters are above that figure. One is as high as 247. There's even a 200 pounder in the back field. And there is that pair of wandering wizards, Half Backs George Franck and Bruce Smith, who simply grab the ball and vanish.

Gophers Have Poise.

Frank McCormick, Minnesota's athletic director, was around town today speaking in a modest way about the Gophers. Those who have seen them perform appreciated he wasn't spreading propaganda. He termed the Gophers a team with unshakable poise, a team that when it gets into a pinch proceeds to get out of it without delay. When reminded that Minnesota hasn't done much passing he countered with, "Well, that isn't because they can't when pressed."

If Harry Stuhldreher, the Badgers' coach, sticks to the starting lineup he named today it will include five sophomores, one of them at center and the others at the ends and tackles. But that is not a matter of great concern, for these fellows are well acquainted with their jobs. Because of injuries to veterans the youngsters have had to go to bat and thus they have acquired polish.

WHO said the fellows who block are the forgotten men of football while the ball carriers get all the recognition? . . . Forest Evashevski, Michigan quarter back who has been clearing the way for Tom Harmon, not only is captain of his team but recently was elected president of the senior class. . . . The Southern Hills club of Tulsa, the Oakland Hills club of Detroit, and a Washington, D. C., club are the leading bidders for next year's National Professional Golf tournament. . . . A Chicago club is the No. 1 choice for the 1942 meet. . . . Those who wonder how baseball salaries of today compare with those of the old days will be interested to know that Fielder Jones, who led the White Sox to a world series title in 1906, drew $5,000. . . . In addition to managing the "Hitless Wonders" to the league and world championships Jones was one of the best center fielders in the game. . . . His salary in 1907 was raised to $7,500. . . . Thomas, for 24 years director of physical education for the Birmingham, Ala., public schools, was captain of Purdue's 1905 eleven. . . . This probably ought to be in the "What's in a Name" department, but Mac Speedie, Utah university hurdler, holds the Rocky Mountain conference record for the low hurdles. . . . Babe Ruth used to be an ardent follower of six day bicycle racing. . . . One night many years ago he put up $700 in sprint prizes during a race at the Chicago Coliseum. . . . It now appears that cylinder Coach Carl Snavely of Cornell was waving during the Ohio State game was a rolled up 1939 calendar or something equally innocuous. . . . Smead Jolley, former White Sox outfielder, still can pound that ball. . . . He led the Western International league last season by hitting .373 for Spokane. . . . His record included 56 doubles and 25 home runs. . . . St. Andrew's High school of Saginaw, Mich., which defeated St. Mary's of Bay City, 97 to 0, in their recent football contest, must yield the season's high scoring honors to Wheelright High of Kentucky, which shut out Vicco, 100 to 0, on Oct. 26. . . . A number of University of Chicago athletes have transferred to other educational centers, but none has followed Clark Shaughnessy to Stanford. . . . Lair H. Gregory, sports editor of the Portland Oregonian, is the Pacific Coast stadium locked-in champion. . . . He was locked in Los Angeles' Memorial coliseum a year ago and successfully defended his title recently at California.

Whose day on earth is done.

At dusk when the De Profundis
Tolls as the night draws near,

I wonder if, in some twilight far,
When it tolls so lonesomely,
Will some one, somewhere, sometimes think
To say a prayer for me?

This was the measure of the love he gave
For lasting peace! This was his sacrifice!"

And as we stood the cannons boomed aloud,
And suddenly the grave was opened wide
And one whose voice I knew spoke from his shroud:
"This is the mockery for which I died!"
And as I looked upon fields drenched in gore
I knew that war could never outlaw war.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 22.—Indiana and Purdue will play for the Old Oaken Bucket tomorrow afternoon and who cares now what happened to each of the teams earlier in the season? A capacity crowd of 32,000 will be present to help the Hoosiers and the Boilermakers ignore the fact each has lost three conference matches while winning one this fall, and we do mean fall.

We have beheld so many of these Purdue-Indiana traditional encounters that we feel much mossier than the Old Oaken Bucket itself. The bucket has been the trophy only since 1925 and practically is in tiptop condition. It now is in possession of Purdue by virtue of a 7 to 6 success in Bloomington last year.

Tie Game Is a Thriller.

Since it became the trophy, Purdue has beaten Indiana 10 times and the Hoosiers have been conquerors thrice. There have been two ties and, while we usually abhor tie contests, we are inclined to rate the 20 to 20 deadlock in 1936 as the best of the 18 or 20 Purdue-Indiana games we have seen in our misspent lifetime. That was the year the teams failed to score in the first half, then put on a real aerial show in which six touchdowns, three for each side, were accomplished without one being carried over a goal line. Cecil Isbell pitched three completed passes into the end zone and so did Vern Huffman.

We've been talking about Old Oaken Bucket games but there were 27 Indiana-Purdue games before the bucket had been hoisted from the well. Taking the pre-bucket games and the post-bucket games we find that Purdue has won 24 and Indiana 13, with five ties.

They Say It's for the Title.

This far down in Indiana the more enthusiastic fans are calling the game tomorrow a contest for the championship of the state. They feel that Notre Dame can mind its own business on account of having plenty to do tomorrow in Evanston. Besides, Indiana, which has won the aforesaid one Big Nine game, beat Iowa, 10 to 6. Purdue's lone victory over a Big Nine foe was a 21 to 6 decision over Iowa. And you surely remember that Iowa beat Notre Dame, 7 to 0 in South Bend last Saturday.

Tho Indiana hasn't whipped Purdue since the 7 to 0 affair in 1935—a victory scored on a 60 yard touchdown pass—the Bloomington boys are favorites in the betting, perhaps because Mike Byelene, Purdue ace, ended his collegiate career last week when he suffered a shoulder separation in the Minnesota game and Paul Anderson, his first alternate at left half, isn't feeling so well either. Otherwise, the Purdue squad is in fair shape and has been picked by a number of the Friday experts.

The boys who coöperated in the Hoosier touchdown last year, Hal Hursh and Tuffy Brooks, will be available for a lot of service tomorrow.

JENKINS GAINS REVENGE; STOPS LELLO IN SECOND

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—Pete Lello of Gary, Ind., who once knocked out Lew Jenkins in a bout in Chicago and had been begging for a return match ever since, got his wish tonight before 10,000 in Madison Square Garden and now he's sorry he asked. Jenkins, who is recognized in this state as lightweight champion of the world, pounded Pete to the canvas five times in the second round before Referee Arthur Donovan decided the one sided battle had gone far enough and stopped it, awarding the victory to Lew on a technical knockout.

The second round was less than a minute old when Jenkins, coming out of a clinch, caught Lello with a left hook to the chin. Pete sagged toward the canvas and was assisted by a choppy right from Jenkins.

Lello finally got to his feet at the count of nine and Jenkins dropped him again.

Pete struggled to his feet and another straight right dumped him again for a count of eight. When he arose he was helpless and was promptly battered down again for nine. The Texan caught up with Pete for the last time in Lew's corner and a right and left dropped Lello to his knees. He pitched forward on his face and Donovan leaned over and stopped the contest.

Columbus, O., Nov. 22.—The Ohio State football team will get its chance tomorrow to tag a happy ending on what has been a rather melancholy season. While a capacity homecoming crowd of 72,000 watches with mingled hope and foreboding, the Buckeyes will meet their ancient enemy—Michigan.

Ohio State's task will be exceptionally difficult. Therefore the Buckeye partisans who throng this capital tonight have prepared themselves to take defeat philosophically if it comes. A victory, however, would restore them to their normal state of football hysteria.

In view of Michigan's present prestige and the traditions which have attached themselves to this series, a successful Buckeye effort tomorrow would wipe out the recollection of those defeats by Northwestern, Minnesota, and Cornell and would convince Ohio State partisans that they have a pretty good team after all.

They'll See Tom Harmon.

This will be the first time the fans of this section have had a look at Michigan's Tom Harmon since he became a national institution. Last year's game was played at Ann Arbor and in the preceding season Harmon was just another good sophomore half back.

Radio broadcast—W-G-N, 1:30 p. m.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Clear cold weather has been promised Northwestern and Notre Dame for their battle this afternoon in Dyche stadium. This outstanding midwestern rivalry in non-conference competition will be seen by a capacity throng of 48,000. The kickoff will be at 1:30 o'clock.

Ten thousand more would see the Irish and Wildcats, if there were seats. For the first time this year, ticket speculators actually have had a windfall and prices started at $10 a ticket last night in the loop while there was one authenticated sale of four tickets behind the north goal line for $44.

This enthusiasm, typical of the series which today provides its 20th game, is based soundly on the intense rivalry. For years Notre Dame has belonged to Chicago as much as to northern Indiana, and this bond has been strengthened by the seasons when the Irish played in Soldiers' field and by the thousands of Notre Dame alumni in Chicago.

N. U. Is Popular Too.

Northwestern is metropolitan Chicago's only Big Nine representative and this year, by their courageous battles against conference leaders, altho beaten twice in six games, the Wildcats have earned additional respect from their followers.

In 1935 Northwestern whipped Notre Dame to end its march toward national honors. The following year, an undefeated Northwestern eleven, which had halted Minnesota's domination of the conference, was trounced in its final engagement with the Irish. Since then, the rivals have not met when sectional or national honors were at stake, but this series is one in which preceding victories and defeats are forgotten.

It Is Anybody's Guess.

There is no series of similar length more difficult to predict. All that may be said is that Notre Dame, having been whipped for a second year by Iowa, should rebound with redoubled determination. Northwestern, by its excellent record in the conference and its spirited play in the fourth periods of all games, probably has more at stake. By defeating the Irish, the Wildcats can achieve the capstone of a successful season.

Northwestern's players went thru their last drill yesterday afternoon. Except for Tuffy Chambers, who has been ill with intestinal influenza this week, and Don Kruger, who suffered a fractured right elbow in the Illinois game, the Wildcats are ready for the invasion.

Irish Stars Ready.

The Irish practiced yesterday at home and will come to Evanston this morning, arriving at Dyche stadium from Chicago's loop shortly after noon. The Notre Dame campus reports that Steve Juzwik, rated as one of the finest right half backs in Irish history earlier in the campaign, is back in condition and that Capt. Milt Piepul, whose injured leg has handicapped his play for three games, is about ready to resume his battering attack.

Northwestern will be outweighed and outmanned in the line. This is no new experience for the Wildcats who met Ohio State, Minnesota, and Michigan under similar handicaps. Against the Gophers, Northwestern used only three substitutes in the line, an end, a tackle, and a guard. Paul Helmenz played 60 minutes at center.

This is the final game for Northwestern. Notre Dame will conclude its campaign Dec. 7 against Southern California.

IRISH PICK SQUAD.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 22 [Special].—Notre Dame today completed preparations for tomorrow's game with Northwestern and Coach Elmer Layden picked the following traveling squad:

ENDS—Dove, O'Brien, Sheridan, Kovatch, Ebli, Murphy.

TACKLES—Gallagher, Lillis, Bruis, Ziemba, L. Sullivan, Neff, Rymkus.

GUARDS—P. Kelly, Michels, Maddock, Laiber, E. Sullivan, Bercolos.

CENTERS—Osterman, O'Reilly, Brock, McHale, Lanahan.

QUARTER BACKS—Hargrave, Patten, Hayes, Girolami.

HALF BACKS—Sarrau, Juzwik, Evans, Bagarus, McGannon, Earley, Hogan.

FULL BACKS—Capt. Piepul, Crimmins, Lee.

QUARTER-FINAL C. Y. O. BOUTS TO CLOSE TONIGHT

Semi-Final Battles Open on Monday.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

The last of a series of quarter-final bouts in the 10th annual Catholic Youth organization amateur tournament will be held in Catholic High school gymnasium in Joliet tonight with 12 contests in six weights between suburban boxers in three classes, open, novice, and beginners. All weights will be represented except flyweights and heavyweights. Survivors will advance to the semi-final round in C. Y. O. center Monday and Tuesday. There they will fight representatives from the north, west, and south sides of Chicago for the right to appear in the finals in the Coliseum Dec. 4.

The suburban fighting opened in Catholic High last night with competition in the novice and beginners brackets. One of the most thrilling encounters saw Leo McDonald, St. Mary [Joliet] novice lightweight, pound out a decision in three rounds over John Hendron of St. Patrick's [Joliet]. The boys stood toe to toe thruout as the crowd cheered. It was a split decision.

June Has No Opposition.

One of the surprises in last night's show was the fact that Bim June, 1939 novice C. Y. O. light heavyweight title holder, who is back as an open 175 pound candidate, scared away all his opposition. He thus qualified for next week's semi-finals without fighting. June is representing Sacred Heart [Joliet].

Beginners Class.

118 POUNDS—Clyde Wilmoth, St. Anthony [Joliet], beat Vind Edmond, St. Anthony [3].

126 POUNDS—Ben Smith, Sacred Heart [Joliet], beat Phil Gardner, St. Patrick's [Joliet] [3].

135 POUNDS—Gene Hare, St. Mary [Joliet], beat Joe Nurcayk, Holy Cross [Joliet] [3]; Dan Smith, Lewis School of Aeronautics [Lockport], beat Jim Mork, St. Mary [Joliet].

147 POUNDS—Jack Hare, St. Mary [Joliet], stopped Arnold Treparier, St. Patrick's [Joliet]; Cleophus Johnson, Corpus Christi [Chicago], beat Racey Hendrickson, St. Patrick's [Joliet].

Novice Class.

135 POUNDS—Leo McDonald, St. Mary [Joliet], beat John Hendron, St. Patrick's [Joliet] [3].

147 POUNDS—Joe Ludrovec, St. Anthony [Joliet], beat William McMillan, St. Anthony [3].

72,000 to See Ohio State and Michigan Play

lege career under circumstances which should make his efforts particularly sparkling. If he scores one touchdown he will tie Red Grange's record of 31 for three seasons. He has made 13 in Michigan's seven games so far this year, so he will be dropping well below his average if he fails to cross Ohio's line at least once.

While the Buckeyes are watching for Harmon's wide end sweeps and sharp off tackle slants, they won't be able to relax their vigilance at the center of the line even for a single play. Bob Westfall, Michigan's full back, has a particular talent for taking the ball and cracking straight ahead for eight or nine yards just when the opposition is fanning out in anticipation of a run or a pass by Harmon.

Stars Play Last Game.

In addition to Harmon, four other Michigan players will be making their last appearance in college football. These are Capt. Forest Evashevski, Ed Frutig, Joe Rogers, and Ralph Fritz. Another Michigan regular, Milo Sukup, senior guard, will be unable to play because of injuries.

Three members of the back field which has served Ohio State with distinction will be playing their last game. These are Don Scott, Capt. Jimmy Langhurst, and Jimmy Straus-baugh. Other farewell performances will be given in the line by Claude White, Bill Nosker, Charley Maag, and Frank Clair.

Michigan needs a victory tomorrow to top off a season marred only by a defeat at the hands of Minnesota by the margin of a point after touchdown. If the Wolverines win they will cinch second place in the conference standings.

The forecast held out prospects that Harmon weather would prevail. Today was clear and mild, but there was a prediction for colder tomorrow with possible snow flurries. Hitherto rain and mud have been the chief enemies of the Michigan back.

Deadline Near for Dog Show at Coliseum

BY BOB BECKER.

With early entries already received from New York, California, Nevada, West Virginia, Michigan, Illinois, and other states, officials of the Western Specialty Clubs dog show today are sounding the last call for entries in their big bench classic which opens in the Coliseum next Saturday morning.

Dog owners who want to enter their hopefuls or champions in this fall dog show featuring 24 breeds have only today and tomorrow to get their entries on the official books of the show.

Record in Cockers Sought.

Paul Moser, president of the Cocker Spaniel Club of the Middle West, said yesterday that his organization is making a last minute drive to beat its record of 115 cockers entered in last year's specialty show.

The club is offering unusual inducements to breeders to show their favorites this year. Prizes totaling $400 have been put up just for an exhibitor novice stake in which only breeders of novice dogs may compete. This event will be held next Saturday with Joseph Crabbe of Ohio doing the judging. On Sunday the regular cocker spaniel classes will be judged.

Obedience Tests Planned.

Obedience tests, which always attract many dog show visitors, will be held by two of the 24 clubs taking part in the Western Specialty event. These are the Dobermann-Pinscher Club of America and the Companion German Shepherd Dog club. Competition is open only to dogs of these two breeds. Kenneth Dyer, Berkeley, Cal., will judge the Dobermann obedience classes, and C. A. Koerner, Elmwood Park, will judge the shepherd tests.

SPARRING MATE SAYS ARON WILL BEAT MAMAKOS

Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight who was held to a draw by Steve Mamakos last Sept. 9, will beat the Washington, D. C., fighter in a 10 round return bout in the Coliseum Monday. Herman Collins, who sparred with both men in Trafton's gymnasium yesterday, is authority for that prediction.

Jimmy Tygh, Philadelphia lightweight, was given a rest yesterday for a 10 round supporting match against Nick Castiglione. Pat Foley, Worcester, Mass., 135 pounder, didn't box yesterday for a third 10 rounder against Billy Marquart in order to give an old lip cut time to heal. Lem Franklin, Cleveland heavyweight, failed to spar yesterday in preparing for an additional 10 round event against Eddie Blunt of New York, when his sparring partner failed to appear.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 22.—The shouting and the tumult that descended upon this busy university town following last Saturday's triumph of Iowa's Hawkeyes over Notre Dame has now calmed down to a very conscious whisper. That consciousness revolves around a fidgety fellow named Robert C. Zuppke who tomorrow will bring his University of Illinois eleven over here for the final game of the 1940 season for both teams and the 21st of a series which dates back to Nov. 30, 1899. A goodly crowd of 30,000 is expected.

O, yes, it was all very well to smack down the mighty Irish, as these Hawkeyes did after having previously suffered four consecutive defeats this season. The campus wits have done a brave job of painting very comical puns on the windows of the local merchants, basing them on the owners' callings or merchandise, and all drafted on the beat Illinois line. After all, it isn't a routine job to go out and knock off a team such as this year's copy at Notre Dame, and the Hawkeyes are still right proud of the feat.

Keeping Fingers Crossed.

But there's that crossed finger attitude when you pin the natives up against a wall. For one thing, there is the fact, almost overlooked, that Illinois DID win a football game this season. That would be the opener against Bradley. Since then, while yielding nary an inch of their fighting reputation, the Illini have lost exactly six straight, to wit and to: Southern California, Michigan, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Notre Dame, and Ohio State. This record would appear to be hardly one to cause uneasiness, let alone alarm, yet plenty of the former and more than a modicum of the latter do exist here tonight.

Chief cause of all this is none other than the aforesaid Zuppke, whom the strategists here look upon as a gridiron sleight of hand artist who makes Houdini and Thurston look like a couple of kids who have flunked out on the first number of that magician's kit Santa Claus brought them. True, Robert has failed to yank any winning touchdown rabbits out of the hats of his last six opponents, but Iowans feel that he may well be building up a super-super stunt, with the Hawkeyes as the victims.

Zuppke Wants This One.

None would blame the little man as he walked his customary 50 furlongs on the Moline High field, where the Illini worked out before adjourning to Davenport for the night, for wanting to win this one. When Zup started coaching at Illinois in 1913, there was in the eighth grade of the Mason City, Ia., schools, a kid named Eddie Anderson. Today, he is Dr. Edward N. Anderson, head coach of the Hawkeyes, and the man who last season administered the tonic that Iowa football fortunes had been needing these many years.

Zup and the doctor are stout friends, of course, but it would help adjust the season for Zup if his boys could beat the man who was the No. 1 coach of 1939 and whose 1940 team gave a 7 to 0 licking to the Notre Dame team which previously had beaten these same Illini by a 26 to 0 score.

CHIEF COUNSEL BRINGS $1,500 AT HORSE AUCTION

Chief Counsel, 3 year old fine harness gelding, owned by W. Walter Martin of Spring Lake, N. J., brought top price of $1,500 for yesterday's session of a two day auction of show and harness horses in the International Amphitheater, 43d and Halsted streets. The purchaser was George Mahoney, Baltimore, Md.

Eighty-one horses were sold yesterday and last night, and 129 will go on sale this morning beginning at 9:30. The auction will continue tonight. The average for yesterday's sales was $400.

Included on today's list for auction are 12 horses from the Pine Tree farm, owned by William H. Skidmore. Outstanding horse in this group is Lady Jane, which in 1939 won the $10,000 five gaited championship stake at the Kentucky state fair and the $5,000 stake for the same class at the American Royal show in Kansas City.

Horses from 11 states, representing 51 owners, are up for sale in the International Amphitheater.

Schaefer Beats Chamaco in Opening Block, 120-106

Jake Schaefer, who finished second to Willie Hoppe in the world three cushion tourney in Chicago last March, won the opening day's challenge match from Joe Chamaco, champion of Mexico, by 120 to 106 in Bensinger's, 131 South Wabash avenue, yesterday. Chamaco won the afternoon block, 60 to 51, in 61 innings, but Schaefer won last night, 69 to 46, in 63 innings. Schaefer's high run was 11 while Chamaco's was eight.

Cornell, Penn Clash Today Before 78,205

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 22 (AP).—Franklin field's largest crowd in a decade and a record crowd for this rivalry will be packed into the University of Pennsylvania's big double deck stadium tomorrow when Penn battles Cornell for the eastern Ivy league football championship. All seats—78,205 of them—were sold 10 days ago, with Cornell alone accounting for 18,500.

For 18 of the 22 Cornell first and second stringers, this will be their farewell appearance. With the added incentive of making up for last week's much publicized upset by Dartmouth, the Ithacans are expected to shoot the works from the starting whistle to retain their Ivy league crown.

Weather Favors Cornell.

Penn, beaten only by Michigan and tied by Harvard, will field a starting back field that never has operated as a unit, but that packs a double barreled offensive threat in Half Backs Francis Reagan and Paul Wexler. Both can pass and run, and they are fast enough to be breakaway threats on pass interceptions.

With a weather forecast of cloudy and colder, the teams should have a dry field. This favors Cornell, which has banked heavily on its aerial game, featuring Hal McCullough and Pop Scholl. Probable lineup:

CORNELL.		PENN.

Van Order	L.T.	Cohen
Dunbar	L.G.	Mendelson

YALE VS. HARVARD

New Haven Conn., Nov. 22 (AP).—Yale and Harvard will meet here tomorrow for the 59th time, and it's a game Yale must win to prevent writing a new and disastrous chapter in Eli football history. A victory for Harvard, quoted an 8 to 5 favorite, would mean a season's record of seven defeats and one victory for Yale. No previous Yale team failed to win at least two games.

Harvard's record for the season could stand some bolstering, too—two victories two defeats, and three ties. Two of the teams Harvard tied, Penn and Princeton, defeated Yale, the former by a tremendous score, whereas Yale's lone victim, Dartmouth, beat Harvard, 7 to 6.

The Harvard junior varsity defeated the Yale junior varsity in their annual game today, 16 to 6.

Tomorrow's lineups:

HARVARD.		YALE.

PRINCETON AIMS AT REVENGE OVER HAPLESS ARMY

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP).—Army's hot and cold football team, one eye cocked on its Nov. 30 clash with Navy, bivouacked at nearby Peddie school in Hightstown tonight on the eve of tomorrow's test against Princeton.

Eleven seniors on the Tiger squad, including the star passer, Dave Allerdice, will play their collegiate finale, all eager to atone for the 19 to 7 defeat the Army handed Princeton in 1939.

Some 20,000 spectators are expected to file into Palmer stadium and see Allerdice's final college game. The Noblesville, Ind., player, son of an All-American half back at Michigan, comes up to his last game with a season completed pass mark of 51.6 per cent. Eight of his passes have resulted in touchdowns.

Army's victory last year was its first over Princeton in the 10 game series which began in 1893. The soldiers' offensive power is built around Hank Mazur, full back.

URGES BIG THREE TO UNITE AGAINST FOOTBALL EVILS

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—A plea for the preservation of amateur football in the Big Three was made today by William J. Bingham, Harvard's athletic director, in an article in the Yale-Harvard football program for tomorrow. Bingham sounds a cry for unity in amateur principles among Yale, Harvard and Princeton and states that the three universities are committed to an honest amateur standard.

In his discussion of intercollegiate football, Bingham deplores the existence of certain evils which have arisen with the game's popularity.

"I am not an alarmist," he writes, "nor am I griping about the conditions which exist in intercollegiate football, but I do regret that so many evils are present."

West Virginia Ends Season at Michigan State

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 22 [Special].—Michigan State and West Virginia will round out colorless seasons tomorrow afternoon when the two teams renew their rivalry at Macklin field. Two years ago these teams opened their competition at Morgantown, W. Va., the Spartans rolling up a 26 to 0 victory. Schedule differences made it impossible for the teams to meet last fall.

Neither team boasts a very impressive record. The Spartans are having the most disastrous season since Charley Bachman took over the coaching duties. So far they hold victories over Purdue and Kansas State and a tie with Santa Clara on the right side of the ledger and have suffered defeats at the hands of Michigan, Temple, Indiana, and Marquette.

The Mountaineers, under the direction of Bill Kern, ex-Carnegie Tech coach, have fared equally poorly against major opposition. Lineup:

WHO MINDS THE COLD WHEN OLD RIVALS BATTLE?

Forecaster R. E. Gumpf yesterday said the weather conditions at kickoff time today for the principal midwestern football games would be approximately as follows:

EVANSTON, ILL.—Notre Dame at Northwestern—Cloudy; temperature 36 or 37.
IOWA CITY, IA.—Illinois at Iowa—Cloudy, threatening snow; temperature about freezing.
MADISON, WIS.—Minnesota at Wisconsin—Cloudy; temperature 32 to 35.
LAFAYETTE, IND.—Indiana at Purdue—partly cloudy to cloudy; temperature 36 to 38.
COLUMBUS, O.—Michigan at Ohio State—Mostly cloudy, possible snow flurries; temperature about 35.

DETROIT, MICH.—Marquette at Detroit—Cloudy; temperature 34 to 38.
LINCOLN, NEB.—Iowa State at Nebraska—Cloudy, snow; temperature 30 to 32.

Fordham Star, Suffering from Concussion, Improved

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—Jim Noble, Fordham's regular quarter back who suffered a brain concussion in Thursday's game with Arkansas at the Polo grounds, was resting comfortably today at Union hospital in the Bronx.

Marquette Is Underdog at U. of Detroit

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 22 [Special].—Marquette university and the University of Detroit will renew football relations after a lapse of six years here tomorrow, with the Titans favorites in their final game of the season.

One other game remains on the Marquette schedule. The Hilltoppers will play Arizona in Tucson on Nov. 30.

Coach Paddy Driscoll of the Milwaukee eleven is not counting on his star left half back, Jimmy Richardson, who is injured, and probably will start a 155 pound sophomore, Harvey Baerwald. The Titans returned in good shape from last week's game with Gonzaga at Spokane. Lineup:

Ruffy Silverstein won from Karol Krauser with a body lock in 34:04 in the main bout on the Coliseum wrestling program last night before 2,000. Other results:

The Swedish Angel and Oki Shikina drew in 20 minutes; Jim McMillen threw Ralph Garibaldi [18:11]; Adolph Goebbels won from Rudy Kay [10:48] when Kay failed to reenter the ring before 20 seconds; Dizzy Davis and Rufus Jones drew in 20 minutes.

P. G. A. Initiates Hall of Fame for Golf Immortals

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—The Hall of Fame idea is spreading since the baseball people thought it up, and by next summer the nation's golfers will have a shrine of their own, it was learned today from Freddie Corcoran of the P. G. A.

A committee of golf writers is being formed to vote on the nominees, and the P. G. A. is donating a plaque on which to inscribe the names of the fairways immortals. In time it is hoped to build a regular shrine like baseball has at Cooperstown, N. Y., and to install busts of golf's heroes.

Both men and women will be eligible for golf's hall of fame, the sole stipulation being that they were born in this country. They need not necessarily have played the game well, but they must have achieved an outstanding service for the game of golf.

Fight Decisions

At New York—Lew Jenkins stopped Pete Lello [3]; Leo Rodak beat Julie Kogen [8]; Frankie Albano beat Frank Tarantelli [4]; Sonny Simon and Sammy Venti drew [4]; Tony Martellano beat George Martin [8].

THE NOTRE DAME NORTHWESTERN GAME LOOKS TO HAL TOTTEN

Mark this down in the little book, my hearties—this year's edition of the historic Notre Dame-Northwestern football feud shapes up as one of the dangedest knock-down-and-drag-out dog fights of the 1940 season. And the winner? Take your choice!

Two bitterly frustrated teams will be fighting to salvage some solace from a schedule freshly-marked with bitter disappointment. A victory for Northwestern still can turn the season into a successful one. Notre Dame needs a win to preserve something of its proud prestige.

A missed point-after-touchdown and a blocked punt marred the clean slate of the Wildcats. A couple of long passes that traveled two inches too far and a pair of fumbles smashed Notre Dame's undefeated record.

Each team has excellent back-field strength with plenty of reserves. Northwestern's first string line looks to be the stronger. Both teams have shown fine passing attacks; and both have been strong on pass defense.

However, an edge in scoring against stronger opposition seems to establish Northwestern as a slight favorite. But—again I say—in the face of recent disappointments, and in view of the traditional closeness of competition between these two rivals in the past—you can still put me down as saying—it's any man's ball game—but definitely.

READ WHAT THE ALUMNI SAY . . .

Lou Zontini, Notre Dame Alumnus, Cardinal backfield man: "This season's performance by both teams is not an important factor because of traditional rivalry. I'll pick Notre Dame because of its reserve strength."

M. Tonelli, Notre Dame Alumnus, Cardinal backfield man: "It looks like Notre Dame's day because it's tough to beat the Irish twice in a row."

W. L. (Wallie) Amann, Northwestern Alumnus: "Northwestern should win by at least one touchdown. Northwestern and Notre Dame have two of the finest teams in the country, but Northwestern seems to have the edge."

P. J. (Jack) Morrison, Northwestern Alumnus: "I like the Wildcats to win over Notre Dame because they have tremendous power and the spirit necessary to win their last game of the season. Lynn Waldorf will do the job."

MELTON, CLAIRE SING 'EILEEN' ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Shilkret to Conduct Victor Herbert Operetta.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Busy James Melton arrived in Chicago yesterday morning by American Airlines plane and got to work at once rehearsing with Producer William A. Bacher, Marion Claire, Nathaniel Shilkret, and other members of the musical and dramatic company which will present Victor Herbert's melodious "Eileen" on the Chicago Theater of the Air tonight.

James Melton.

The operetta, woven about the dramatic, bitter Irish rebellion of 1789 and the story of Barry O'Day, famous patriot, will be broadcast from W-G-N's main studio over the Mutual Broadcasting system from 9 to 10 o'clock.

Several weeks ago Melton appeared on the Theater of the Air with Miss Claire in "The Chocolate Soldier." Last spring he was headlined with her in the very first production of "Bittersweet."

Favorite of Chicago Opera.

Melton has sung with the Chicago Opera company twice this season in "La Traviata" and in "Madame Butterfly." And he will appear three times more—next week in "Lucia di Lammermoor" with Lily Pons, and twice in "Martha." After tonight's broadcast he will return to the east for a concert engagement—one of 46 this season—coming back to Chicago next Wednesday for rehearsals for his appearance in "Lucia."

On W-G-N tonight singing rôles in "Eileen" will be: Melton, as O'Day; Miss Claire, as "Eileen Mulvaney," with whom he falls in love; Bruce Foote, as Shaun, and Grace McCarty, as Rosie Flynn. Speaking rôles will be handled by Bob Bailey as O'Day; Louise Barclay, as Eileen; Marvin Mueller, as Shaun, and Fran Carlon, as Rosie. Others in the drama cast are: June Meredith, Bret Morrison, Don Gallagher, John Walsh, Bob Jellison, and Stan Harris. Mr. Shilkret will conduct the orchestra; Robert Trendler is choral master.

Feature Familiar Songs.

All of the familiar songs including "Thine Alone," and "Eileen" will be presented in tonight's production.

Coming operettas on this W-G-N series include: Nov. 30, "Countess Maritza" with Igor Gorin; Dec. 7, "Sweethearts" with Jan Peerce; Dec. 14, "Rio Rita" with José Mojica and Conrad Thibault; Dec. 21, "New Moon"; Dec. 28, "Fortune Teller" with Jan Peerce; Jan. 4, "Chocolate Soldier" with Michael Bartlett; Jan. 11, "Naughty Marietta;" Jan. 18, "Cyrano de Bergerac" with Richard Robelli. Miss Claire takes all the leading feminine rôles.

HARRY HOPKINS' BROTHER DIES IN LOOP HOTEL

Rome G. Hopkins, 51 years old, a brother of Harry Hopkins, former secretary of commerce, died last night in the Hamilton hotel, 20 South Dearborn street, while visiting his wife, the former Helen Dowdall of Minneapolis. Mr. Hopkins was a broker of liquor for medicinal purposes during prohibition in Minneapolis and from 1933 to 1936 was an inspector for the Minnesota liquor control commission. He had been at a north side rest home for the last six months under care of a physician.

Police said Mrs. Hopkins phoned President Roosevelt's home in Hyde Park and informed Harry Hopkins of his brother's death. She told officers her husband had complained of feeling ill shortly after arriving at the hotel last night. She has been at the Hamilton since October, and her husband has been under the care of Dr. George W. MacGregor, 137 North Homan avenue. Dr. MacGregor said Hopkins was being treated for a run-down and nervous condition and for a heart ailment.

Mrs. Hopkins said her husband had been in newspaper work and was a promoter since they left Grinnell, Ia., three years ago. A daughter attends the University of Chicago.

Lavish Floral Display Marks Funeral for Wife of Nitti

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Nitto, wife of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, were held yesterday in St. Charles Borromeo's church, Roosevelt road and Leavitt street. Sixteen carloads of floral wreaths, with an estimated worth of $1,000, were in the funeral procession. Nitti, who is suffering from a heart ailment, was present, dressed in black and wearing spectacles. Their son, Joseph, 8 years old, is attending school in Miami, Fla. Mrs. Nitto died in Mercy hospital Monday night. She was 38 years old.

DR. F. M. EDWARDS' DISCOVERY FOR CONSTIPATION

Benefits Nation of Sufferers!

COLUMBUS, OHIO: For over 20 years Dr. F. M. Edwards (widely known physician) successfully treated scores of patients for constipation and the headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness which often result.

This wise Doctor knew liver bile must flow freely every day into your intestines or fatty foods can't be properly digested and you may become constipated. So he kept this in mind when he perfected his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful, yet they assure gentle, thorough bowel movements and ALSO help stimulate bile flow. Test their goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

STANDARD OIL, OHIO, VOTES $1 EXTRA DIVIDEND

Colt's, Three Others to Pay Specials.

Standard Oil Company of Ohio and Colt's Patent Firearms Manufacturing company were among five companies which declared special or extra dividends yesterday. Three other corporations announced increased payments.

Directors of the Standard Oil company of Ohio, Cleveland, voted a special dividend of $1 on the 753,740 shares of common stock, together with the usual quarterly disbursement. The extra of the Colt's Patent Firearms Manufacturing company, Hartford, Conn., amounted to $3 and brings 1940 distribution to $6 a share, compared with $4.50 last year.

The Colt's board voted also to give the plant's 4,200 employés extra compensation of 6½ per cent of their 1940 earnings. Workers earlier this year received bonuses of 7 per cent of their earnings in the first six months.

Modine Increases Payment.

Other companies which declared extra dividends and the amounts were John Morrell & Co., Ottumwa, Ia., packing firm, 75 cents; Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., Kearny, N. J., 25 cents, and General Cigar company, New York, $1.

An increased payment of 75 cents was ordered by the Modine Manufacturing company, Racine, Wis., manufacturer of heating and ventilating equipment. The company paid 50 cents regularly in previous quarters this year.

Hamilton Watch company, Lancaster, Pa., raised the level of its disbursement to 50 cents for the 25 cents of earlier quarters this year, and the Van Norman Machine Tool company, Springfield, Mass., lifted its payment to $1 from 40 cents.

Pays First Since 1927.

Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company, Pontiac, Mich., ordered a dividend of $1.12½ a share on class B shares. It is the first on that issue since 1927. After common dividends of $2.25 a share are paid now, the class B and common stocks will share alike in any subsequent disbursements.

Directors of the National Acme company, manufacturer of screw machine products, voted a dividend of 50 cents. This makes $1 for the year, and compares with 50 cents in all of 1939. President Fred H. Chapin said that the company's backlog or orders approximates $15,000,000, a 20 year record.

Eastern Air Lines Traffic Far Above Last Year's

Eastern Air Lines carried 286,100 passengers during 10 months ended Oct. 31, compared with 186,392 in the corresponding period last year, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president and general manager, reported yesterday. During this period, revenue passenger miles totaled 130,058,000, an increase of 58 per cent over a year ago.

Auditors Offer to Refund Drug Company Fees

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—The trustee of the McKesson & Robbins, Inc., wholesale drug company, announced today that he would seek federal court authority to accept an offer of Price, Waterhouse & Co., former auditors of the corporation's accounts, to return $522,402 in fees and expenses received during six years that McKesson was headed by the late F. Donald Coster-Musica.

F. Donald Coster-Musica.

The offer, Trustee William J. Wardall said, was conditional upon his agreement not to assert claims against the accountants for liability because of the failure of their examinations to disclose the fraudulent practices of McKesson's president.

Deny Any Liability.

Coster-Musica killed himself in December, 1938, after disclosure that he had perpetrated a huge fraud in McKesson's crude drug department and that he was an ex-convict using an assumed name.

The fees which Price, Waterhouse offered to refund covered the years 1933 to 1938, inclusive.

In a letter to Wardall, the accountants said they made the offer altho "it is our position that in the conduct of the limited character of examination for which we were employed we were not guilty of any negligent act or omission or otherwise at fault, but that we were victims of the same fraud of which the McKesson & Robbins companies were victims.

Set Hearing for Nov. 29.

"Furthermore, we believe that this position would be sustained in any litigation by which you might seek to impose liability upon us in connection with the losses in question."

Judge Alfred C. Coxe has set Nov. 29 as the date for a hearing on Wardall's petition.

Wardall said the success of any litigation against Price, Waterhouse & Co. would be uncertain and would involve considerable expense. He added that the offer of the accounting firm represented "a fair disposition" of his claim against the accountants and expressed belief it was to the best interest of McKesson & Robbins that the offer be accepted.

CANADA TAKING 'ALL OF WHEAT CROP THIS YEAR

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 22 (AP).—The government intends to take delivery of all of the 1940 wheat crop during the present crop year which ends July 31, 1941, Trade Minister MacKinnon announced in the house of commons today.

The minister said plans for the 1941 wheat crop would depend upon circumstances. From the standpoint of the trade department that policy, he said, would "have to be decided upon with a knowledge that apart from domestic consumption only between possibly 140,000,000 and 175,000,000 bushels can be exported in the crop year ending July 31, 1942."

At the approach of the 1940 fall harvesting season, MacKinnon said, the wheat on hand was 273,086,845 bushels. The new crop apparently will now amount to 520,000,000 bushels. Allowing 68,500,000 bushels for feed, seed and other farm purposes, he added, this left a marketable surplus from the fall crop of 451,500,000 bushels.

MORE SMOKING, LIQUOR TAX RISE LIFT U. S. REVENUE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—Partly due to increased smoking and heavier liquor taxes, internal revenue collections in October rose 21 per cent over October, 1939, treasury figures indicated today.

Internal revenue in October totaled $355,275,626, against $292,240,524 in October last year. Corporation income tax increased from $27,309,014 to $32,136,043; individual income tax from $8,172,699 to $12,078,684; excess profits tax from $640,498 to $794,405; capital stock tax from $1,983,491 to $3,953,899; gift taxes from $314,260 to $1,821,205. Estate taxes, however, fell from $28,871,433 to $20,059,683.

Liquor taxes increased from $56,363,085 to $75,711,994. Of this, $48,590,568 was from distilled spirits, $25,631,442 from beer and ale, and $1,489,983 from wines.

Revenue from cigars was $1,483,628 compared with $1,405,485; cigarets, $53,475,726 and $46,155,363, and chewing and smoking tobacco, $5,607,937 and $4,856,092.

SOME OF ACTIVE BONDS ADVANCE; OTHERS LOWER

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—A small number of bonds singled out for special attention pushed forward today in the face of reactionary trends in less active parts of the corporate list.

Switching operations in rail issues accounted for numerous gains of fractions to a point and some moderate declines.

Commercial Mackay income debentures jumped 5¼ points, closing at 41. Rumors in bond circles said the company's business was improving.

Denmark loans recorded wide swings in the foreign section. The 6s of '42 dropped 7 while the 5½s of '55 picked up 4¾. Italian loans were strong. Australians lost ground.

United States government loans were mixed in quiet trading, closing 11-32ds lower to 6-32ds higher.

SEC Makes Full Report on Dual Trading

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission made public today the full report of a study in which it recommended that the New York Stock exchange rescind its rule against "multiple trading."

A summary of the results of the investigation was published Oct. 24 when the commission asked the exchange to delay the effective date of an order prohibiting member firms from dealing for their own accounts on other exchanges in stocks which were listed on the New York board. The exchange deferred the order to Dec. 1.

"We conclude," the SEC report said, "that the consequences of the New York Stock exchange's action will be undesirable and may prove to be extremely serious for individual investors in some localities and for the public at large.

Supports Regional Exchanges.

"Local industry, as well as local investors look to their local financial centers, to afford, as they should, a capital market as well as a market in which outstanding securities may be traded under the safeguards which normally attend the functioning of an organized exchange. The regional exchanges have played, and should continue to play, an integral and an essential rôle in developing and serving industry, the financial community, and the investing public within their regions.

"Therefore, the action of the New York Stock exchange, even tho apparently directed solely to its own members, materially affects interexchange competition in a manner harmful to local industry, the general public, and to individual investors."

SEC's Principal Findings.

Principal findings set out in the report, which included correspondence with a score of exchanges concerning the rule, included:

Many securities listed on the New York board and also traded on various regional exchanges "furnish a substantial and an essential portion of the business transacted on certain of these regional securities exchanges."

The loss of the local exchanges which would result from enforcement of the rule "would jeopardize the continued existence of at least two of the six affected regional exchanges and would materially impair the functioning of the remaining exchanges."

No basis was found for contentions that members of the New York exchange "as a body had suffered any financial loss" from dual trading.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC DIPS 4 PER CENT TO 745,295 CARS

Cars of revenue freight loaded in the United States during the week ended Nov. 16 totaled 745,295, a decrease of 33,023 cars, or 4.2 per cent, from the preceding week, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. The total represented a decrease of 21,692 cars, or 2.8 per cent, from the corresponding week last year but an increase of 88,229 cars, or 13.4 per cent, compared with 1938.

Loadings of the various commodities compare as follows:

REPORT A. T. & T. MAY PLACE VAST LOAN PRIVATELY

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—It was reported in financial circles today that American Telephone and Telegraph company was arranging with a group of insurance companies for the private sale of more than $100,000,000 of bonds.

The transaction, financial sources said, would mark the big communications company's first resort to private placement of securities.

Some corporate borrowers have lately shown an increasing interest in the private sale method and Wall street quarters have attributed the trend to the time and expense involved in registration of securities with the Securities & Exchange commission. No registrations are required when securities are privately placed.

OIL MAN GIVES TRUCKS AND MACHINERY TO AID GREECE IN ITALIAN WAR

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—William G. Helis, one time Greek immigrant who made a fortune in oil in Louisiana, has placed $1,000,000 in mechanical equipment at the disposal of the Greek government for use in the current war, it was announced today by Joseph Proctor and Fred Linney, employés of Helis' oil firm, who returned Thursday from Greece on the liner Excalibur.

W. G. Helis.

The equipment given by Helis to the Greek government, they said, embraced all his holdings in Greece, including much machinery adaptable for military purposes, a fleet of trucks and automobiles, a caterpillar tank, explosives, and carloads of tools and other equipment. The $80,000 tank was used for carrying oil drills but can be converted into a military tank. The trucks are large enough to permit the mounting of guns.

Greece has enough wheat to last until January but sugar and coffee are scarce, the travelers reported.

LONGER TRADING PERIOD BOOSTS STOCK VOLUME

Financial circles yesterday attributed part of the gain last month in dollar volume on the Chicago Stock exchange, as disclosed by the official figures released by the Securities and Exchange commission, to the extended trading period of one hour which became effective Sept. 30.

Total trade on the exchange in October was $13,195,470, an increase of 30.3 per cent over the $10,123,960 in September. Improvement on all registered security exchanges averaged only 24.5 per cent.

The Chicago total, however, showed a 34 per cent decline from the $20,003,320 volume of October, 1939. Market value of sales on all exchanges was $706,584,228, a decrease of 47.5 per cent from that of a year ago.

The $13,195,470 volume lifted the Chicago board to third place in national rank for the first time since April, ahead of Boston, which had $12,159,364. The New York Stock exchange and the New York curb accounted for 93.7 per cent of the market value of all sales last month.

RULES WAGE ACT SUITS CAN GO TO STATE COURTS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 22 (AP).—Recognizing that "we are construing an act of congress," the Alabama Supreme court held today that suits under the federal wages and hour law could be instituted in state as well as federal courts.

Reversing and remanding a Calhoun Circuit judgment, the state Supreme court held that John Forsyth could maintain a suit in state courts against the Central Foundry company for $1,642, claimed due for 576 hours overtime and "liquidated damages."

Justice Foster, writing the opinion, said that the United States Supreme court had not ruled on the question and added: "The state court of Alabama is competent, in our opinion, to hear and determine the instant action tho based on a right conferred by the fair labor standards act of congress of June 25, 1938."

NEW FINANCING IN WEEK RISES TO 45 MILLIONS

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—Public offerings of new securities increased during the week ended yesterday to $45,444,658 from $25,976,248 in the preceding week, Poor's Publishing company reported today.

More than half of the total was accounted for by municipal offerings, however. There was a wide variety of corporate financing, but the aggregate was not large and was mostly refunding. Comparisons follow:

Defense Home Need Booms Trailer Making

BY AL CHASE.

Increased use of automobile trailers by the government in connection with its national defense housing program has caused one Chicago manufacturer to expand its operations more than 100 per cent.

This was disclosed yesterday when the Indian Trailer corporation leased the entire one story building at the northwest corner of West 63d street and Indiana avenue, containing 33,000 square feet.

Receives Government Orders.

H. L. Bartholomew, president of Indian Trailer corporation, said the government orders have been received and the corporation expects more. Bids will be submitted next week on additional trailers.

"The government has called on trailer manufacturers thruout the country to furnish figures on mobile housing units," Bartholomew said. "We understand that a large number may be used for temporary housing in the big Wilmington munitions project near Joliet.

Used by Signal Corps.

"Trailers also are being used by the army signal corps. These have coops for carrier pigeons and are equipped with short wave radio sets. Baggage trailers also are being used by the army."

His firm, which was started in 1936, will continue its present plant at 6911 South Chicago avenue. The company now produces about 100 trailer units a month, he said. With the opening of the new plant the first of December production will be stepped up to 225 monthly.

KNUDSEN DENIES DETROIT PLANE PLANT REPORT

William S. Knudsen, chairman of the National Defense Advisory commission, yesterday denied that a $21,000,000 airplane plant was planned for the Detroit area in a telegram to the Pullman-Standard Car and Manufacturing company. He suggested the Chicago company discuss with the aeronautical section of the commission, a suggestion for building planes in the Chicago area. His wire was in reply to a message from C. A. Liddle, president of Pullman-Standard.

Liddle had protested reported plans for the erection of a huge plane plant at Detroit and suggested that his company had two plants immediately available in the Chicago area suitable for the building of airplane fuselages, wings, and tail assemblies. He added that an ample supply of mechanics skilled in the fabrication and assembly of aluminum alloys and stainless steel is available. They have, he said, "more experience in work of this nature than any other agent in the transportation field with the possible exception of the airplane industry."

In reply Knudsen telegraphed:

"No plane plant is planned for the Detroit area. Will be glad to have you contact our aeronautical section regarding your facilities."

DOMESTIC WINE INDUSTRY AIDED BY WAR IMPACT

Producers Gaining Thru Import Loss.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

The position of the United States domestic wine industry has been strengthened as a result of the European war, which has cut off imports of French and Italian wines, Chicago wholesalers reported yesterday.

Among the developments which have been noted in the last year while the wine business has been readjusting itself to the new conditions are these:

1. Prices of French wines in the United States have risen 15 to 200 per cent since the British blockaded France.

2. Stocks of French and Italian wines in this country are being rapidly exhausted, and some lines will be off the market entirely by January, according to dealers.

Dealers Stress Prices.

3. Taking advantage of this situation, domestic producers are expanding their market by improving their products and stressing the wide difference in prices as between domestic and imported wines.

4. While there are some consumers who will pay almost any price to get the imported product, a large proportion of the wine buying public that formerly preferred the imports has shown a tendency to switch to American brands rather than pay the increasing prices for the foreign kinds, according to officials of several Chicago liquor houses.

These officials emphasized that the improvement in the domestic wine business is of a moderate, and not sensational, nature. They said also that increasing employment in this country, making it possible for more people to afford wine, has been a factor in the improvement.

Domestic Wines Improving.

R. A. Conover, president of Judge & Dolph, Ltd., importer and wholesaler, summed up the situation thus:

"The wine business has been on the upgrade for two years, and particularly since the war began. Lighter taxes on wine, as compared with whisky, have had an influence, and, besides, domestic wines have been getting better.

"Price increases on French wine since the British blockade went into effect naturally will help the domestic industry. The increases vary widely, depending on quality and the amount which was in stock in this country when the imports were shut off.

"Supplies of some of the best quality French wines are rapidly being exhausted, and in such cases where replacements are impossible prices are up 200 per cent. Prices of other French wines have not risen more than 25 per cent. We are limiting customer purchases on some wines."

Spanish Wines Plentiful.

Ben Maltz, president of Pioneer Atlas Liquor company, wholesale house, said: "The demand for domestic wines of the cheaper grades is showing an increase as pay rolls and employment expand."

Most wholesalers said ample supplies of wine from Spain and other nations not blockaded still are available. They said South American wines have not made much headway in the United States.

As to the difference in price between French and domestic wines, wholesalers and retailers said generalization was difficult because of brand preferences and varying situations with regard to supply. One wholesaler said the retail prices on his lines would compare as follows: French, $120 to $150 a case, against $21 for domestic.

Consumption Rising.

A retailer, handling brands in a lower price range, made these comparisons: Best French wines handled by the company, $42 a case, against $16 for the best domestic grades handled; medium quality French, $17 a case, against $11 for the comparable American type.

Consumption of wine in Illinois has shown a sizeable increase this year, the Illinois Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association reported, basing its estimates on the gallonage on which taxes were paid. The gallonage, of which domestic wine constitutes about 97 per cent, is roughly equal to consumption. Increases over 1939 volume were as follows for wines with an alcoholic content of 14 per cent or less: October, 1940, 36 per cent more than in the 1939 month; first 10 months of 1940, 20 per cent more than in the first 10 months of 1939. For wines with an alcoholic content of more than 14 per cent, the gain for October, as compared with the 1939 month, was 18 per cent, and the 10 month increase was 34 per cent.

Seeks Million Damage from Annuity Firm

The abandonment of plans announced last April for forming a new corporation to take over the middle west business of the Fidelity Investment association of Wheeling, W. Va., was disclosed yesterday in a suit filed in Circuit court.

B. L. Rosset.

Barnet L. Rosset, president of the Metropolitan Trust company, charged the association and several of its officials with breach of contract. He asked a judgment of 1 million dolalrs. Under the contract, Rosset and an associate were to provide a half million dollars to organize the new corporation.

Individual defendants named were Allen G. Messick, of 3300 Lake Shore drive; F. H. Pulfer, sales manager of Fidelity for Illinois and Indiana; F. S. Risley, of Wheeling, W. Va., president, and John Marshall Sr., of Parkersburg, W. Va., a director.

Charges of Plaintiff.

According to the charges, plans for the new organization were made when Fidelity Investment, which sells annuity contracts, foresaw its inability to continue sales activities on a profitable basis in Illinois and several other midwestern states because of new regulations. The sales force of the new company was to encourage completion of Fidelity contracts in these states.

Messick, who at the time of the agreement had no connection with Fidelity, entered into the contract as Rosset's associate, it was said. Subsequently, Rosset charged, Messick and other defendants "entered into negotiations and secret dealings" which resulted in Messick's election as a director and chairman of the board of Fidelity.

Messick's new position prevented him from carrying out his part in organizing the new firm, the bill said.

Asks Other Damages.

Rosset also asked $50,000 damages for services, such as investment advice that he says he furnished the investment association.

Fidelity Investment was organized in 1911 as a West Virginia corporation. From 1920 to June 30, 1938, the company had sold some 200,000 annuity contracts to the general public at a total face value of approximately $600,000,000. As of Oct. 31, 1939, total book value of assets was reported at approximately $33,000,000.

In 1938 Fidelity Investment association consented to the entry of a court decree under which it agreed to abide with certain regulations of the Securities and Exchange commission governing the sale of annuity contracts. A receivership action was brought against the company in 1939 in the federal court in Wheeling, but was dismissed after a special master found the allegations unwarranted.

EDISON CLAIMS ON 'L' LINES TO BE CONSIDERED

Large claims held by the Commonwealth Edison company against the Chicago Rapid Transit company were accepted for consideration in the transit company's reorganization proceedings yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. The judge, in a memorandum, overruled objections to the Edison claims filed by Lewis F. Jacobson, attorney for a group of rapid transit bondholders.

The Edison claims include $1,638,000 of first and refunding bonds, $11,243,000 of adjustment bonds, 1,012 shares of series A prior preferred stock, 1,371 shares of series B prior preferred, and 121,501 common stock voting trust certificates.

Under reorganization plans holders of these securities will receive allotment of new securities in a new company. Jacobson had argued that the Edison company's claims should be subordinated to other creditors because Edison controled the rapid transit lines for many years thru stock ownership.

CHICAGO STORES' SALES RUN FAR ABOVE YEAR AGO

Chicago department stores reported business at a high level last week. Sales rose 23.3 per cent over the corresponding week in 1939, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago announced. Sales in the 7th [Chicago] reserve area gained 26.5 per cent.

Sales increased despite adverse shopping weather at the start of the week. Special sales accounted in part for the gain. The increase brought the aggregate increase for the four weeks ended Nov. 16 to 5.4 per cent over a year ago in Chicago and to 8.7 per cent for the 7th district.

Indianapolis stores recorded the largest gain, 48.4 per cent more than a year earlier. Milwaukee stores had a 24.3 per cent increase and Detroit 24 per cent.

PLANTS EXPAND 10 MILLIONS IN CHICAGO AREA

Three New Factories Are Under Way.

Industrial companies in the Chicago area during the last month have authorized expansion of plants and facilities costing a total of approximately $10,000,000, the Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday. Included in the expansion are three new factories and additions to 37 plants already in operation.

The new factories are being built for the Metal Novelties Manufacturing company at 1415 West Carroll street, the Marine Oil Terminal company, which has leased eight acres west of Cicero on the Sanitary district canal, where it will spend about $250,000 for a bulk gasoline and oil distributing center, and the Cardox corporation, which will manufacture fire extinguishing equipment near Monee.

Some of Larger Projects.

Among the larger expansions to existing plants, the Republic Steel corporation is building a $100,000 storage addition at South Chicago and a $175,000 heat treating unit at Gary; the Diamond T Motor Car company is building a $175,000 assembly plant, and A. Finkl and Sons is building a $250,000 forging plant.

Other expansions of substantial size include:

U. S. naval reserve aviation base, shops and barracks	$170,000
Manhattan Pickle	125,000
LaFayette Steel	100 000
Abbott Laboratories, warehouse	75,000
Wabash Railway, freight building	70,000
Dearborn Chemical, chemical plant	60,000
Protectoseal, factory	50,000
Acme Paper Box	50,000
National Aluminate, water treating chemical plant	50,000
La Salle Steel, heat treating plant	50,000
U. S. Industrial Chemicals, industrial alcohol tanks	50,000

Army Orders Announced.

The war department yesterday announced the award of a number of contracts to Chicago and Illinois companies for defense materials. These included:

General Electric X-Ray corporation, Chicago, radiographic and fluoroscopic machines, $87,320.

Lyon Metal Products, Inc., Aurora, steel shelving, $5,199.

A. Brandwein & Co., Chicago, 5,000 cotton mattresses, $20,592.

Estee Bedding company, Chicago, 15,000 cotton mattresses, $60,993.

H. Dukart, Inc., Chicago, 5,000 wool service coats, $19,355.

P. Becker & Co., Chicago, 5,000 wood trunk lockers, $14,900.

Northwest Engineering company, Chicago, Diesel shovels, $43,248.

The following contracts were awarded by the navy department:

Mattison Machine works, Rockford, horizontal surface grinder, $27,377.

Clearing Machine corporation, Chicago, press brake, $14,200.

American Automatic Electric Sales company, Chicago, lever keys, $5,054.

Marsh Stencil Machine company, Belleville, stencil cutting machines, $5,250.

Targets Are Ordered.

Ensuring that the army will have plenty of things at which to shoot, a contract was let thru the Rock Island arsenal to the Black Products company, Chicago, for 5,000,000 clay pigeons to cost $21,500.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company announced that it would increase the capacity of its semifinished steel producing works at the Campbell plant, Youngstown, by 200,000 tons annually.

Announcements were made yesterday of several construction projects for defense purposes in various parts of the country. One of the larger was an award of a $3,500,000 contract to the Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation for the expansion of its plant at Bethpage, Nassau county, New York. The contract, let by the navy department, will enable the Grumman company to add 400,000 square feet of productive floor area to its plant.

A contract to build a new Diesel electric generating plant at the Savanna, Ill., ordnance depot was awarded to the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company on a bid of $238,383. This plant will furnish power and lights for the entire post.

Week's Auto Production Is Reduced by Holiday

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 22 (AP).—Output of automobiles this week, according to Ward's Reports, Inc., will total 102,340 cars and trucks, reduced chiefly by the Thanksgiving holiday. Last week's assemblies numbered 120,943, highest level since the summer of 1937. A year ago this week 72,520 vehicles were completed.

STOCKS ATTEMPT RALLY, BUT MANY LEADERS FALTER

Early Gains Well Trimmed in Late Trading.

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—The stock market got a good start on a rally today but many leaders failed to maintain the pace.

Selected steels, motors, rails, rubbers, aircrafts, and specialties were up fractions to 2 points at one time. Weak spots developed after midday and early gains were well trimmed at the close.

The Associated Press averages finished off 0.1 of a point at 44.5 after being up as much at noon. Transfers totaled 714,050 shares compared with 813,760 Wednesday.

American Can At New Low.

Portions of their morning upturn were retained by United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Yellow Truck, Sears-Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Great Northern, American Telephone, American Smelting, United States Rubber preferred, Paramount, Warner Brothers, International Paper common and preferred and Certain-teed preferred.

American can dropped 3 points to a new 1940 low and declines of 1 to 2 or so were shown for Dow Chemical, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, and Eastman Kodak.

CHICAGO LIST IRREGULAR.

Trading was irregular on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, with 35 issues advancing, 30 declining, and 29 closing unchanged. Volume totaled 26,000 shares. Aviation and Transportation, the volume leader, closed up ¾ point at 37¾.

SHIP LINE PROFIT SOARING DESPITE WAR'S BLOCKADE

Other Routes Offset Loss of Some Trade Lines.

American Export Lines, Inc., announced yesterday that its profits followed a steep upward curve in the nine months ended Sept. 30, and said the loss of business thru the closing of the Mediterranean and Black sea trade routes has been partly offset by establishment of trade in other parts of the world. The company operates steamships in passenger, cargo, and mail service, and has large holdings in American Export Airlines, Inc.

Profit rose to $5,894,955, after charges and federal income taxes, compared with $216,631 in the first nine months of 1939.

Sail Weekly to Lisbon.

"Serious dislocations to the company's business caused by the closing of the Mediterranean and Black seas to United States vessels have, in part, been offset by the inauguration of a weekly service from New York to Lisbon, Portugal, increased sailings to India, and the chartering of surplus boats," the report said.

The company has 28 vessels, and all except two are in use or under charter.

Pan American Petroleum and Transport company reported consolidated net income of $1,045,174, equal to 22 cents a common share, for the quarter ended Sept. 30, compared with $1,162,286, or 25 cents a share, in the corresponding 1939 period. Provisions were made for federal income taxes, but not for excess profits taxes. Pan American Petroleum is controled by Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

STEWART-WARNER.

What has Stewart-Warner earned so far this year and how does that compare with other years? Is the company paying dividends and how much? I would appreciate a review of the company's operations.—W. B.

Answer: Stewart-Warner corporation, Chicago, Ill., had net income of $994,684, equal to 80 cents a capital share, for the first nine months of 1940, after providing for increased federal taxes. Net income in the corresponding period of 1939 was $256,209, or 21 cents a share.

Comparison of net income, earnings per share, and dividends per share in recent years follows:

	Net income.	Earned per share.	Dividends per share.
1935	$1,724,313	$1.39	$0.50
1936	2,113,284	1.70	1.00
1937	1,844,176	1.48	1.00
1938	*294,323	*0.24	.....
1939	553,224	0.45	0.25

*Loss.

Stockholders of the company were paid 25 cents a share thus far this year and they will receive another dividend of 25 cents a share Dec. 2 on stock of record Nov. 8. Dividends were paid every year from 1913 thru 1930 and were omitted from 1931 thru 1934. The company has outstanding 1,243,063 shares of $5 par capital stock.

Stewart-Warner is the foremost manufacturer of lubricating equipment and lubricants for automobiles, farm and industrial machinery. Its other products include automotive accessories, instruments and meters, radios, electric refrigerators, furniture hardware, die castings, and household appliances.

LOW AND HIGH.

What are the minimum and the maximum benefits allowed under the old age and survivors' benefit system?—N. E.

Answer: The monthly benefit provided under the system may be as low as $10 and cannot exceed $85. Forms for estimating old age and survivors' benefits which may accrue to a worker and his family under the social security program may be obtained by sending a stamped, addressed envelope to Investors' Guide.

BILL OF LADING.

What is meant by a bill of lading? —R. U.

Answer: A bill of lading is a receipt given by a freight agent to a shipper for property to be transported by a carrier and represents a contract under which the carrier is bound to deliver the goods to the person legally entitled to them.

Brooks Takes Office as United States Senator—"Falstaff" Heard by Opera Throng

Hazel Ryan, 36, mother (left), filled in for her daughter, Peggy Ryan, 16, during performance of loop show when the daughter became suddenly ill. (Story on page 13.)

Picture made during scene 1, act 1, of "Falstaff," sung last evening in the Chicago Civic Opera house. Every seat for the performance had been sold by 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The photo was made with The Tribune's new speed lamps. (Story on page 3.)
